DR. GAYLORD PATTERSON
Head of the Social Science Department of Willamette University for the past seven years, who leaves this week with Mrs. Patterson and daughter, Louise, for the East.

AFTER being connected with Willamette university for the past seven years at the head of the social science department, Professor Gaylord H. Patterson with Mrs. Patterson and their little daughter, Louise, will leave for the east some time the latter part of this week.

On their eastern tour they will stop in the Yellowstone National park; visit Mrs. Patterson's parents in Toronto, Canada, and also make an extended stay in Dr. Patterson's former home in Pennsylvania.

It is not known definitely just where their next location will be, but Dr. Patterson will probably become affiliated with the faculty of one of the better-known eastern colleges, devoting the earlier part of his connection to research work, owing to a much needed rest from the more arduous work.

No chair in "Old Willamette" has ever been more ably filled than that occupied by Dr. Patterson, who by his intelligent and energetic endeavors has aided very largely in standardizing and gaining for Willamette its present splendid reputation. That he has been appreciated and loved by the students is shown by the following eulogy which appeared in the last annual publication of "Wallula":

"Dean Patterson is largely responsible for the great advancement in Willamette's scholastic standards. His noble ideals and untiring devotion to the welfare of our school have won for him the highest esteem of every student."

Members of the faculty and trustees of the university have also shown their appreciation, presenting Dr. Patterson with many unsolicited expressions in compliment of his work, all of whom hold him in the highest esteem, both as a personal friend and as an educator.

For the past six years Dr. Patterson has been connected with the university office and college of liberal arts, acting as dean of the latter department for the past four years. Besides being actively connected with the various college associations, he has been a member of the Social Hygiene society; conducted the teachers' training class of the First M. E. church, and held a charter membership in the local elvish club.

The efforts and activities of Mrs.

Patterson have been equally noteworthy, being actively interested in civic, educational, church and social circles. As a member of the Salem Woman's club she has been an able assistant in the various improvements which they have accomplished. She has also realized splendid results as an executive member of the Cherry City Improvement club, which instigated the beautifying of the Southern Pacific company's grounds, and also installed the children's playground on Willamette university campus.

Dr. Patterson last week disposed of his beautiful home on Union street, which when constructed a few years ago was considered one of the most artistic in the city.

It has been the scene of many delightful social gatherings, open to both students, faculty and townspeople.

They have endeared themselves to Salem people, who profoundly regret seeing them leave the Capital City, realizing that it will be difficult to fill their places both civically, socially and educationally.

Mrs. Ione Zammer and grand-daughter, Dorothy Zimmerman, will join the Salem contingent at Newport, leaving this week.

Friday a party of motorists composed of Mrs. Charles A. Gray, of Eugene, who is spending the summer with her son George W. Gray; Miss Jones and Miss Gertrude Jones, of Labish Meadows, and their guest, Mrs. Carl P. Jones, of Portland, left for a short outing on the McKenzie river. They went by way of Eugene, using the recently opened Nimrod Inn, on the McKenzie, as their objective point.

Miss Grace and Mary Babcock presided at the second of a series of delightful affairs which they are giving at their North Commercial street home, Friday evening.

The first of the series took place two weeks ago and was in the nature of a musical. Cards furnished the second evening's entertainment, tables being arranged for "500." Miss Marguerite Mers was awarded first honors, the second being captured by Miss Bertha Duncan. Solo numbers by Miss Grace Fawc and Miss Hodge also added to the pleasure of the guests.

Decorations, simple in arrangement but lovely in effect, were completed with yellow nasturtiums, roses and greenery. The guest list included: Miss Bertha Duncan, Marguerite Mers, Miss Joy Turner, Miss Hazel Bishop, Mrs. D. H. Upjohn, Miss Grace Fawc, Miss Hodge, Miss Julia Webster, Miss Delpha Moore, Miss Myrtle Duncan, Miss Grace Haffy, Mrs. D. Barrows, Miss Kittie Harbord, Miss Gertrude Fawc, Miss Jennie Fry, Miss Elene Fawc, Mrs. Claude Knight, of The Dalles; Mrs. Roy Burton, Miss Mary Eckerlen, Miss Matilda Eckerlen and Miss Virginia Walters.

Among local people at Newport are Dr. and Mrs. Fred Ellis, who have been stopping at "Cherry City"; Misses Isabel Hazel and Ethel McGilchrist, with the William McGilchrist, Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Irvin are established at a Sunnyside cottage with Mr. and Mrs. D. Z. Irvine of Portland.

The picturesque West summer home near Cannon Beach is occupied by Mrs. Oswald West and daughter, who has among her guests Mr. and Mrs. Owen D. Hutton of Salem.

Mrs. Fred A. Wiggins and daughter, Mildred, of Toppenish, Wash., arrived in Salem yesterday and will be guests for the week of the George F. Rodgers, leaving next Monday for Newport, where they will remain for the month of August. Mrs. Wiggins is a member of one of Salem's first families, being Miss Myra Albert before her marriage. Prior to their removal to Toppenish about six years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins made Salem their home, residing in Yew park. Their home, located on the corner of Oak and Winter streets, is now occupied by the T. A. Livesleys. The plans were originated by Mrs. Wiggins, and is considered one of Salem's show places.

During her residence here Mrs. Wiggins, besides being active socially, aided very materially in interesting Salem people in things artistic, giving frequent exhibitions of her collection of pictures and art works from Europe, where she had traveled extensively, and also displayed her own work, as well as that of the large art and sketching classes which she conducted.

Miss Irene Kuntz entertained at a dinner party Monday evening in honor of Miss Prudence Denny, of Lafayette, Ore., at the home of Mrs. A. M. Baker on Liberty street. Miss Denny will be Miss Kuntz's guest until Wednesday. Covers were laid for four, including Miss Lucille and Magdalene Kuntz. Sweet peas and ferns formed the decorations.

Miss Margaret and Miss Gertrude Grey of Seattle are the house guests of Mrs. John McNary.

They are frequent visitors in Salem, their arrival each time being the signal for many attractive affairs given in their honor.

The principal numbers which will be rendered tonight at the Willson avenue concert by the Salem band, under the direction of H. N. Stoudenmeyer, will be:

"Overture."
"Morning, Noon and Night, Indiana."
"Firefly selections," musical comedy.
Waltz, "Dreaming."
Hungarian Fantasia.
Medley Overture, "Shadow."
Remick Hits, No. 3.

For the pleasure of Miss Jene Ketchum, of Independence, who has been the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Byrd, Miss Harriet Bigdon entertained with several tables of cards at the Rigdon home on North Winter street last night. Card honors fell to Miss Agnes Driscoll.

The guests were: Miss Jessie Holcomb, Miss Jennie Pearce, Miss Agnes Driscoll, Miss Lynn Miles, Miss Ruth Borge, Miss Irma Bottsford, Miss Dorothy Pearce, Miss Dorothy Burdall and Miss Ola Clark.

Mrs. H. D. Kimball is entertaining Mrs. W. H. Selleck and daughters, Alice and Ruth, of The Dalles. They arrived in Salem Saturday and will remain until Thursday, leaving then for Portland. The Sellecks formerly resided in Salem. Mr. Selleck occupying the First Methodist pulpit for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Byrd and little grandson with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Welch and daughter, Willetta, were among the Salem people who enjoyed a motor trip to Willhoit Springs Sunday.

R. W. Little was a dinner host Friday evening, complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Swartout, of Willamette university, and their guest, Mrs. Irwin, of Corvallis.

Miss Alice Page entertained as her week-end guest Miss Stella Chappel of Bellingham, at the attractive Page residence in Kingwood park.

OFFICIALS HELD NOT GUILTY OF CONTEMPT

Supreme Court Dismisses Oregon City Case Holding City Had Right to Do Work—Ten Other Opinions Rendered.

Holding that the officials of Oregon City had not violated an injunction issued by Circuit Judge Benson, the supreme court today in an opinion by Justice Eakin, dismissed the contempt proceedings against them in the case of the city against Sarah A. Chase, who objects to the condemnation of her property for use as an approach to a city elevator.

The city more than two years ago voted to erect an elevator at the public piers for convenience in going from the business to the residential section. It was the intention to construct a bridge from a tower at the Southern Pacific station to the property owned by Mrs. Chase. The tower was built and the elevator installed when Mrs. Chase filed suit to prevent trespass upon her lot. She declined $1,500 offered for a right of way and was awarded $1,000 in condemnation proceedings. Judge Benson granted a temporary injunction against the city proceeding with the construction of the elevator, and while it was in effect employees of the city started grading the right of way. The supreme court holds that this was not in disregard of the injunction, and the city now has the right to proceed with the construction of the approaches of the lift, unless Mrs. Chase's lawyers interfere with other court proceedings.

Other opinions today were as follows:

Can Use the Name.
The opinion of the circuit court of Clatsop county in favor of the defendant in the case of H. M. Lorntsen, appellant, against the Union Fishermen's Cooperative Packing company was affirmed by the supreme court today, Justice Burnett writing the opinion. An act was passed by the last legislature providing that the word "co-operative" could not be used in the name of a corporation, unless it complied with certain laws. It was alleged that the defendant had not complied with these laws and therefore had no right to its name. The supreme court held that the cooperative law so far as it applied to the defendant was void because when it was incorporated the law was not in existence, and the constitution forbids the enactment of any law which impairs or destroys vested corporate rights. It was held that the department had acquired a vested right in the word "co-operative."

Louis Heiser vs. Shasta Water company, appellant, from Multnomah county. Action to recover damages for personal injuries. Affirmed.

H. F. Deane, et al., appellants, vs. City of Unadilla, appellant, from Unadilla. Suit to obtain title from issuing bonds to install waterworks. Affirmed.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Goldenrod Family's Guest Of Honor.

THERE hadn't been a rainy day for so long that Jack and Evelyn began to think that there wouldn't be any more at all, but one evening a soft rain fell, and the midsummer flowers opened up, smiled and said, "We're glad to be here again."

Of course Jack and Evelyn had found some of the very first of the goldenrod. Evelyn loves them because they seem to be so bright and appealing. They always look to the little girl as though they had such perfect dispositions too.

Evelyn had put a great many of them in their room, and when daddy came in he said:

"The flowers are not out very long before you have some of them, are they Evelyn?"

Evelyn laughed and said:

"Well, I never would have been able to have gathered so many without Jack. It would have taken me ages and ages to have picked them, for the stems were so strong, but with his jackknife we had no trouble at all."

"The goldenrod family gave a reception the other day," said daddy.

"Did many go to it?" asked Evelyn immediately.

"Yes," said daddy; "there were quite a number of guests, but they had one very notable guest, and they were very proud of having him too."

"What was his name?" asked Evelyn.

"His name was 'Daddy,'" chimed in Evelyn.

"His best clothes?" continued daddy. "are the clothes he always wears to a party. Sometimes he wears them to parties where he has never been invited. But that doesn't make very much difference to him, for he is a proud old fellow and has a pretty good idea of himself. Besides, he is quite right, for he is always wanted at a party, especially at a summer party."

"But he was really invited to this party. He wore his bright golden suit, and really it is so bright and dazzling that it takes people or flowers with very strong eyes only who can look at him when he is all dressed up."

"Now, the goldenrod family have very strong eyes, and the little sleepy ones, who could scarcely wake up, peeped forth when they saw that the sun had actually come to their party and woke right up. The tiger lily family had been invited to the party, as well as some lovely wild purple daisies and the sunflowers. They had the most glorious time, for they danced about in the sun, waving their heads so gracefully. They think the art of dancing is to know how to hold the head with a certain air."

"They did have the finest party, and the sun made them all so happy. The little ones were glad indeed that he had awakened them."

THE VERY BEST METHOD Of Transferring Embroidery Designs to the Material

THE HOT IRON METHOD WHY?

- BECAUSE it can be easily and simply done.
- BECAUSE it transfers accurately with little cost.
- BECAUSE this method has been the one in use for several generations.
- BECAUSE it is the method known by every woman and used by all high-class concerns.
- BECAUSE the pattern is not weakened by moisture, which crumples the paper, rendering it impossible to secure a perfect transfer.
- BECAUSE the paper is of such superior quality that it isn't likely to wear out by constant friction before any transfer can be made.
- BECAUSE all liability to smear and ruin both the fabric and the design is obviated.
- BECAUSE the hot iron patterns are the kind sold everywhere and the kind with which every woman is familiar.
- BECAUSE the patterns to be used by the moistening process must be printed on a weak fibrous paper, are difficult to handle and liable to smear the goods and give at best an imperfect design.
- BECAUSE the hot-iron transfer patterns can be used on linens, toweling and other materials that have a hard rough surface precluding the use of other patterns.
