TROUBLE EXPECTED AT JAURES' FUNERAL

Assassination of Socialist Starts Rioting in Paris Between War and Anti-War Advocates.

Paris, Aug. 1.—Feeling was violent here today over Friday night's assassination of Jean Jaures, the French socialist leader, member of the chamber of deputies and editor of the newspaper "L'Humanite."

Jaures was killed as he sat at dinner in a restaurant in Rue Montmartre, His murderer, Raoul Villain, the son of a Rheims court official, fired a pistol at him through the open window beside his table. Two bullets struck him in the head and he died in a few minutes.

The assassin, who at first refused to give his name, would not tell his reasons for committing the crime. It was accepted as beyond question, however, that the killing was on account of Jaures' anti-war utterances.

The result was that the anti-militarists looked on him as a martyr. The military extremists, on the other hand, openly rejoiced at his death. It was considered likely that both military and anti-military demonstrations, which probably would lead to fierce fighting, would occur about his house or in front of "L'Humanite" office, and strong guards were kept on duty at both places.

Serious disorders were looked for, too, at his funeral, which the authorities were consequently anxious to have conducted as quietly as possible.

The Salem Tennis association has been put in communication with the U. S. National Lawn Tennis association, with headquarters at Clinton, N. Y. It is planned by the Salem people to join the national association if possible.

The first picture of better babies as determined by the eugenics contests was received at the promotion department rooms yesterday evening. The picture is of Shirley B. Foster, of 519 Court street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Foster. She scored 92.9 at the eugenics contest at the Cherry fair June 26. Along with others the photograph will be sent to the Woman's Home Companion for publication.

Don. C. Sower, director of municipal research of the extension department of the University of Oregon, will be in this city this month to make an investigation of the condition of the city. He will make a thorough overhauling of the municipal machinery in much the same way as an expert goes over the books of a big corporation. He will give suggestions for the betterment of the administration of affairs and suggest remedies for defects.

Mr. H. A. Packard, district manager of the Falls City Lumber Company, together with the secretary, stopped in Salem a short time this morning looking after local business interests. Mr. Packard is en route to Portland after visiting the mills of his company in Falls City. When sounded as to the effect the European war disturbances might have on the foreign wholesale lumber markets and on business conditions in general, Mr. Packard expressed the opinion that any depression which might be occasioned thereby would be short lived. Mr. Packard was very optimistic as to local business conditions and expressed himself as being delighted with the appearance of Salem as a growing and prosperous city. While in the vicinity of Falls City, Mr. Packard inspected the work being done on the lines of the Valley & Siletz Railroad now under construction between Airlie and the company's timber holdings in the Siletz country.

"An empty purse maketh a full heart," according to the proverb—but how about the stomach?

The women prisoners at the Oregon state penitentiary are now working on the 4000 volumes of new books received at the state library recently. About 3500 of these books will be distributed among the branch libraries of the state and the remainder will be put into general circulation in the library in this city. The books are to be embossed, stamped, and have the pages cut by the women prisoners who will also paste the pockets for cards in the back of them. There are now six women prisoners at the state penitentiary and their labor avails the library commission considerable outlay in clerk hire.

Mark Savage, formerly chief of the Salem fire department, and now traveling agent for the A. G. Long fire apparatus company with headquarters at Portland, is in Salem this morning after his first trip on the road, since his recovery from an operation for appendicitis several months ago. Mrs. Savage is still at Seal Rocks, on the coast, and will not return to Salem before the end of this month.

The funeral services of Mrs. Margaret Chapman, a pioneer Oregonian, were held this afternoon from the residence on Garden road, Rev. R. N. Aronson officiating. "Nearer, My God, to Thee," was sung by Mrs. J. L. Van Winkle. Interment was in Lee Mission cemetery.

The large American flag usually carried by the Salvation Army, or some practical joker has absconded with it for a lark. Captain Lorenzen, head of the Salem army corps, believes the flag has been stolen and yesterday informed the police of the theft. The flag was placed in the hall Wednesday night and Friday night was gone. It was hung on a highly polished pole and has a large brass spread eagle on top. The motive for stealing the Stars and Stripes is a mystery.

Responses to the request of the promotion department of the Salem commercial club for cheap lands are coming into the department daily. This morning a letter came from Oakland giving acreage in Clackamas county for $52.50. Other answers are coming in so fast that in a short time the club will have plenty of places to send immigrants looking for cheap lands.
