Society and club notices will be received for the daily issue at The Capital Journal editorial rooms up to 2 p. m. Main 82.

DESPITE the outlook for unpleasant weather for some time to come, members of the Indiana State society are optimistic and are busily engaged perfecting arrangements for their annual picnic, to be held at the state fairgrounds tomorrow. Should rain be the schedule for the day the large machinery exhibition buildings will be utilized and the program given as originally planned. The officials of the "Hoosier" society have introduced a new registration system for their gatherings, having issued a general letter to be sent to all former Indiana residents, requesting them to record their name, present and original location previous to the picnic. Those who have not responded to this request will be asked to register at the grounds, and in this way it is thought that an authentic record can be secured.

A special feature of tomorrow's program will be the appearance of June Reed Babcock, world-renowned violinist, who has consented to render several numbers. Mrs. Babcock is a native of Kokomo, Indiana, and has many personal friends here who are delighted to have the opportunity of meeting her again in this pleasantly informal way. Mrs. Babcock will arrive tonight, and while in Salem will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Peetz.

Assisting on the program will be Mrs. E. T. Porter, wife of the pastor of the First Christian church, a well-known reader, who will give selections from James Whitecomb Riley; Miss Lucile Kuntz, pianist, and Colonel A. J. Baldwin, who will render a vocal solo. Several young women have also been preparing vocal numbers.

Announcements have been received by friends here of the engagement of Miss Anna Mary Kirschgessner, of Peoria, Illinois, to J. A. Wickman, of this city.

Mr. Wickman left for the east in July and has been stopping with his sister in Danville, Iowa, and friends in Illinois. His marriage will be celebrated in Peoria September 22, and he and his bride are expected to arrive here about October 1, where they will make their home. Mr. Wickman has been with the T. M. Barr company for the past seven years and has many friends here to whom the announcement of his approaching marriage comes as a genuine surprise.

Amid lovely decorations of pink flowers and greenery in artistic profusion, the new members of the faculty of Willamette University and their wives were received by Miss Alice Page, instructor of history, and the older members of the university faculty last night at the E. J. Page home in Kingwood Park. The affair, which was planned informally, augmented several similar events which have been given recently, introducing a fraternal spirit among the educators who are to have jurisdiction over the destiny of Salem's largest educational institution.

A buffet luncheon was served and an impromptu program given, in which vocal number were furnished by Professor Walsh, Professor McMurray playing with piano selections.

Miss Genevieve Aiston and Miss Florence Page were additional guests. About twenty-five were present.

Governor and Mrs. Oswald West and daughter, Helen, arrived home Sunday from Cannon Beach, where Mrs. West and Helen have been spending the summer at their cottage. Miss Helen will resume her studies at the Garfield school.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Webb are entertaining Mr. Webb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Webb, of Portland. Arriving Friday, they will remain until the latter part of the week. A few tables were arranged for cards last night, Mr. and Mrs. Webb asking in a few friends to meet their guests informally.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Meyers and the Dr. R. E. Lee Steiners have with them as their guests T. F. Steiner, of Dallas, Texas, who is making his annual visit to Salem. He is an uncle of Dr. Steiner and Mrs. Meyers.

Miss Willa Hueckstein, who has been sojourning in the East for several weeks, is at present visiting relatives in Pittsburgh. She is expected home in two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Dayton and small daughter, Barbara, of Astoria, left yesterday for their home, after an extended visit to Mrs. Dayton's mother, Mrs. H. Dayton.

Miss Ada Dayton, who has been spending her summer vacation with friends in Glenwood, Washington, has returned home and will resume her duties as instructor at the East Salem school.

in teaching voice culture and lays particular stress on correct tone placing. Mr. Mendenhall takes much pleasure in bringing Mrs. Mowman before the Salem public.

Miss Aline Thompson is home from a delightful fortnight's stay with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Esty at their country place near Hubbard.

The members of the "Oriental D. M. C." Embroidery Club will meet with Mrs. Frank E. Newberry Friday afternoon.

GERMAN AND RUSSIAN NAVIES HAVE BATTLE

Half of the Kaiser's Baltic Squadron Said to Have Attacked Russian Fleet

Berlin, Via Rome, Sept. 15.—That a naval battle is in progress in the Baltic was admitted by the admiralty this afternoon.

It posted a bulletin announcing that fifteen of the 29 units of the Kaiser's Baltic squadron were in action.

A Baltic fight would unquestionably be between the German and Russian navies.

Knows Nothing Of It.

London, Sept. 15.—News this afternoon that a naval engagement was progressing in the Baltic was taken here as meaning that the German squadron there had rounded up and attacked the Russian fleet.

According to latest accounts from Stockholm, Admiral Prince Henry was in command of the Kaiser's Baltic naval force.

It was believed he was staking everything on a dash into the Gulf of Finland, in the hope of destroying Russia's coast defenses and opening the way for an invasion of Russia by that route.

The only word of the fight received here, however, was from German sources. The British admiralty had not heard anything of it at first hand.

When last heard from here the German squadron in that locality reinforced, presumably by ships brought from the North Sea by way of the Kiel canal, was cruising off the entrance to the Gulf of Bothnia.

SCHOOL BOARD HAS VERY BUSY SESSION

Most Interesting Feature to Pupils Was Action Making Salem Day and Children's Day at State Fair, Holidays.

Seven periods of work will be expected from the teachers in the Salem High school this term. Six periods will be devoted to recitation work and one to assembly, library or building duties, according to the plans made by the Board of Education last night at its special meeting.

It has become necessary to increase the duties of the teachers, because of a larger attendance of high school pupils. Financial conditions have prevented the board hiring extra teachers and the present teaching corps will carry on the work, providing the increased attendance does not mount above present expectations.

It was also the general sentiment of the board that although teaching duties will be increased the maximum number of pupils under each teacher will be decreased.

Formerly as many as sixty pupils were assembled in one class but forty pupils will be the maximum this year, wherever possible. In outlying districts, where the physical conditions increase the numbers in one place, it will be necessary to take in extra pupils in that district, but according to plans of standardization every effort will be made to group the students, so that no teacher will need have the care of more than forty pupils.

The new principal of the Salem High school, J. C. Nelson, was one of the students at the board meeting last night. In co-operation with Superintendent Elliott he is working out the system of grading and class adjustment. Policies were outlined which will encourage the teachers and aid in making efficient instruction a possibility.

Declaring that the school children should have a holiday at State Fair time, Director E. T. Barnes made a motion that Children's day and Salem day should be set aside as holidays this year for the pupils. The motion carried and the meeting closed for the evening.

AN INSTANTANEOUS WRINKLE REMOVER

The average woman is always surprised to learn, after experimenting with all sorts of patent so-called "wrinkle removers," that the most effective remedy in the world is a simple face wash which she can make herself at home in a jiffy.

She has only to get an ounce of pure powdered salsolite from her nearest druggist and dissolve it in half a pint of witch hazel. Apply this refreshing solution to the face every day for results. The result is charming—no wrinkles. Even after the very first treatment the wrinkles show less plainly and the face has a new, firm, comfortable feeling that is thoroughly delightful and lends self-confidence in one's appearance.

This harmless home remedy is used by thousands of women to obliterate the unwelcome traces of time.

HARRIMAN HOLDS BIG BUSINESS RESPONSIBLE

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 15.—Job Harriman, an attorney and former socialist candidate for mayor of Los Angeles, was the main witness at today's hearing by the federal industrial relations commission here. Harriman told the commissioners that most of the violence resulting from strikes could be laid at the doors of big business. Testifying on "open shop" conditions here, the witness said employers preferred it because "a bundle of sticks separated breaks easily."

The sessions here have been marked largely by technical and detailed testimony in regard to the wages paid union and non-union workers, the commission collecting much data on local conditions.

Today's session concluded the commission's work in California. The members will leave tomorrow for Chicago.

FRANK CHANCE RETIRES.

New York, Sept. 15.—Frank Chance formally retired this afternoon as manager of the New York club of the American league. He plans to leave for California tonight, making the trip in his automobile.

Owner Farrell paid Chance's salary for the remainder of the season. Chance personally announced his resignation before this afternoon's game.

GERMAN SALLY REPULSED.

Shanghai, Sept. 15.—A German sally from King Chau against the Japanese in the vicinity was repulsed Sunday after a fierce skirmish, it was learned here today.

The Germans were said to have been assisted by aviators who tossed bombs into the nikado's ranks.

Despite the floods, the Japanese have landed siege guns near the German colony.

CORDELIA BLOSSOM STORMS NEW YORK

Leaps to the Front From First Presentation and From the Intense Human Interest of It Alone.

By Beau Rialto.
(Written for the United Press.)

New York, Sept. 15.—A comedy so pleasing and clean, and so filled with simple human element that blase New York critics looking for something to criticize simply flounder, and flop, fail to agree on any material point as to "Cordelia Blossom," which only had its opening at the Gaiety theatre.

It was an extremely hot night on which Cordelia Blossom formally grew to the magazine story character to a laughing in Louise Dresser, and Burr Steinhilber after a long absence from the city. But the comedy swept out upon a refreshing breeze, even though the morning after criticisms did indicate that all of the critics were to get the range.

The best incidents of the magazine story of George Randolph Chester from which the play is taken are preserved in the production of "Cordelia Blossom," which is not as closely knit as some plays have been, but the story started along with the ever present of the feminine hand in framing the plot of the middle-western city of the Mason and Dixon line. Vain, proud, "the Blossoms of Virginia," Cordelia Blossom is carried along by the social ambitions of his wife, who is a sister.

The admittedly corrupt, but good natured and winning political boss "Fleecer" is admirably portrayed by Harry C. Browne with dainty grace as "George Fleecer," his wife shares the ambitions of Cordelia Blossom. When it comes to politics the women who follow Fleecer tricks he never named of and he tells them he wishes they were members of his gang.

The unsuspecting Colonel is led to believe the mayoralty nomination, for the good of his party" though he is equally honest and that no nomination should be connected with it. As a candidate he is delightfully hopeless.

"Dan Dickson," boss of his party, is really owned by Fleecer, who is of opposition, says, "He insulted and humiliated me in front of five hundred people." But after all had done Cal. Blossom won his own election when he called out his "Blossom

Clever both as a singer and dancer, Miss Mayne, with Joe Kouss as a dancing partner, whirled into popular favor with a rush in her vaudeville debut. She is billed for several weeks at a Broadway vaudeville house and later will tour the principal cities throughout the West.

Lillian Kemble Cooper, 19 years old, has been engaged by Oliver Moroseo to play the title role in "Lady Eileen," the American comedy by Geraldine Bonner and Hineson Boyd, which was the winner in the Morocco play contest.

In choosing Miss Cooper for the important role, Moroseo followed out his policy of giving youthful aspirants the fullest opportunity. Miss Cooper will make her debut on the American stage in "Lady Eileen." She is the daughter of Frank Kemble Cooper, a well known English player now appearing in this country.

Daddy's Bedtime Story
How a Naughty Bird Fed a Park 'Gator.

KIDDIES, do you remember the alligators you saw in the Bronx Park zoo when we stopped in New York city on our way to the seashore?" asked Daddy.

"Yes, and how cunning the little baby alligators were," said Daddy.

"Do you remember that there were many signs, 'Do Not Feed or Annoy the Animals,' posted all over the zoo?"

"Of course we obeyed the signs. But I'll tell you tonight about a little English sparrow that disobeyed the signs and fed one of the alligators."

"He was a very inquisitive little sparrow and was delighted with all the sights of the zoo. But he didn't believe in signs or else he was an ignorant head to one side, looked at one of the signs for a minute and then proceeded to do all the things that the signs advised him not to do."

"He flew outside the big cage where the birds are kept and sneered and chattered away at them as loudly as possible, telling them all about the deprivations of freedom."

"Then he looked at the lions and storks, flew into the snake house and chirped at the big snakes crawling around in the big cages his message of freedom, and at his own ability to wander where he wished. He visited the lions and tigers and wildcats and regarded the hippopotamuses with scorn, loudly inquiring eyes."

"Then he fitted over to where the alligators were lazily sunning themselves all that little sparrow's mischievousness."

"He flew over the railing that is built around the alligator pond to protect the public from the alligators, crocodiles and snapping turtles and also to protect the inhabitants of the pond from the public."

"Then he flapped and fussed and chirped and chirped and pecked and pecked around until one of the very biggest alligators waked up."

"When he found he could wake that almost burst himself with glee."

"Just then the alligator yawned that great big alligator."

"Then there wasn't any more sparrow."

"That mischievous little sparrow had broken the most important of the park rules—he had fed that alligator."

"Daddy" shouted the kiddies.
