SAYS JACK CURLEY NOT WILLARD'S MANAGER

Tom Jones Says He Has Contract to Manage Willard for Three Years from May 1913—and Will Handle the Job. (By Hal Sheridan.)

New York, Sept. 15.—Tom Jones, manager of Al Wolgast, is out with a denial of reports that Jack Curley of Chicago has supplanted him as manager of Jess Willard.

"Curley," Jones told newspapermen here, "is not Willard's manager and never will be. About two weeks ago Curley informed the public that he was Jess Willard's manager, was backed by somebody with plenty of money and proposed to 'handle' Willard in such a way as to make him world's champion and clean up $250,000."

COUNTY JUDGE SAYS HIGHWAY EXPERT WRONG

(Eugene Register.) That the good roads advocates who demand nothing but a hard surface highway are making a mistake in discarding the road building efforts of the communities which cannot afford to hard surface or even macadamize the great bulk of its roads, is the contention of Helms W. Thompson, county judge. He takes exception to the criticism of the Oregon roads in the report of Henry L. Bowley, state highway engineer, who described the Pacific Highway in the September bulletin of the Pacific Highway association. The bulletin does mention favorably the several miles of macadam about Eugene, as quoted in The Guard several days ago, but the judge does not feel that this is enough.

"I have just received the bulletin of the Pacific Highway association, and notice what it says about the Pacific Highway in Lane county," said Judge Thompson today. "It is unfortunate that Lane county is not given the proper credit for the condition of its north and south roads. There is a stretch of water-bond macadam extending from the city limits of Eugene north seven miles; there is another stretch extending from the city limits of Eugene south to Goshen, which is about four miles, and there is another stretch of three-quarters of a mile near Cottage Grove. These roads are entirely outside of the city, and do not include any city pavement. They are constructed of water-bond macadam which is proving itself entirely sufficient to carry the traffic to which it is subjected."

"The tendency of this bulletin to disparage all county roads which are not hard surface, I consider detrimental to the cause of good roads throughout our valley. What the public is interested in is a good smooth road and not the particular kind of road. "Lane county is building macadam roads at a cost of considerably less than the cost of hard surface, and maintaining them in first class condition, at an expense of not more than $120 per mile per year."

There is this to be said about macadam road construction. Practically all of the money expended on a macadam road stays in Lane county. A concrete road involves the payment of a considerable amount of money for cement, which goes out of the county. Almost all forms of bituminous road involves an expenditure for bituminous material and for the right to use patents of all which goes out of the county.

SOLDIER WRITES OF FEELINGS IN BATTLE

Boys Joked as Bullets Whistled, but Stopped This as Comrades Began to Fall

London, Sept. 7.—(By mail to New York).—One of the most vivid stories of actual fighting on the continent has reached here in a letter from a wounded French soldier to a friend in London. "I am in the field hospital," wrote the wounded man, "with a nice little hole in my left shoulder. It feels as if someone had touched my shoulder with a lighted cigar. "Of some time the rattling of volley-balls has been audible. Then at a distance a heavy detonation is heard. Arrived at the crest of a hill we drop ourselves and right in front of us, on an opposite hill, is the enemy, engaged in a fight with a division of the allies' troops."

"I can distinctly see the German artilleymen moving about their guns. I see a flash and the report is echoed from the surrounding hills. It is strange but in the face of death, I catch myself trying to make out where the shell has fallen, as if I am an interested spectator at a rifle competition. "I am not the only one. I see many curious faces around me, faces with expressions just as if their owners formed the audience at a highly entertaining theatrical performance, without having anything to do with the play itself. "In the midst of the fiercest fighting later I heard jocular remarks and funny expressions used around me which proved the speakers' thoughts were far from the terrible happenings about them. "It is not heartlessness or anything like that. I don't know what it is. "We fired volley after volley at the enemy. The German shells and bullets passed over our heads. The Germans may be and in fact are our superiors at execution parade steps but they are infernally poor shots. "Instinctively we stooped as the bullets passed, though when one hears a bullet it has passed already. "It is a queer sensation the first time you hear a hail of bullets. It is like a fever, but this soon passes. "The earth was shaken by the incessant cannonade and the air was torn by the rifle fire. A comrade on my right stumbled, dropped forward without a word, and lay dead, killed by a bullet in the breast. A man in front of me threw his arms up, fell, struggled to his feet and fell again. "His shell exploded near us and there was a terrible cry. Five of us were lying in a little square. One man had both legs blown away and was still alive, conscious, and begging us to kill him. "An officer opened his mouth to give a command and at the same moment got a bullet in the mouth. He turned around twice and fell heavily close by me. "A good distance behind us Red Cross soldiers and triars were stooping over the wounded. A shell exploded and only two of the Red Cross men were left. "In the meantime more German troops had been advancing. They had suffered heavy losses, but on our side the casualties had been ever numerous and our position seemed to be very critical. We began to retreat. Our men showed remarkable self control. Notwithstanding the terrible scenes I now felt perfectly calm. "The retreat was carried out splendidly. "I had just reached the crest of a hill when I felt a slight shock in my left shoulder, nothing else. I did not heed it, but some moments later I felt a burning pain. I saw that I was wounded. The weight of my arm seemed to increase. "Some time afterward I found myself neatly installed in a field hospital."

RICH GOLD STRIKE IS MADE IN CALIFORNIA

Bakersfield, Cal., Sept. 15.—A rich gold strike is reported today in the main ledge of the old abandoned Santa Rosa mine in the mountains near here. Ham Williams, a prospector, uncovered the find by accident. Samples brought into Bakersfield assayed $1300 a ton, indicating the biggest strike in years. Williams says the heavy rains of last winter uncovered the pay streak and that it has lain exposed for months until he stumbled into it. Machinery for the development of the mine is being purchased.

Beginning pupils will assemble in the first primary rooms in the various schools. All pupils who are past six years old, and all who will be six years old October 31st, will be received in school if they enter on or before October 5.

STATE WILL AID SETTLERS IF POSSIBLE

State aid will be given to settlers who are members of the Willow Creek Water Users Association if such a procedure is possible through the usual legal channels, according to a statement given out by Governor West this morning. Harry Flynn, of Brogan, was in Salem Monday representing the water users association and soliciting aid from the state to protect the settlers in a foreclosure suit brought against them. It appears that along Willow creek, which is in Malheur county, a number of settlers were induced to buy land and water rights from the Willow Creek Irrigation company. The company proposed to dam the river to store the flood waters for irrigation purposes. The company went short on funds and was obliged to abandon the project. The settlers stayed with the land though they received no water. The creditors of the company formed the Willow River Purchase, and proposed to oust the settlers on the grounds that they had not paid their assessments for maintenance or for interest. The settlers claim that they have allowed their payments to lapse because they received no water. Nevertheless the company has brought suit to foreclose. The settlers have brought their claims to the attention of the State authorities. Governor West is of the opinion that some of the lands are held under school mortgages. If such is the case a test case can be brought by the State to clear title to the lands and thus aid the people of this district. Many of the settlers are in hard circumstances and it is said that it would be impossible for them to continue any long sustained litigation.

THE NICE GIRLS LOVE A SAILOR

London, Sept. 5.—(By mail to New York).—Not to be outdone by "Tommy Atkins", who has adopted "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" as their war song, British sailormen have chosen as their favorite lyric "All the Nice Girls Love a Sailor." The chorus of the tars' song is as follows: "All the nice girls love a sailor, all the nice girls love a tar, for there's something about a sailor— Well, you know what sailors are! Bright and breezy, Free and easy, He's the ladies' pride and joy. Jack a boy! Naughtily boy!" The soldiers song runs: "It's a long way to Tipperary, It's a long way to go, It's a long way to Tipperary, To the sweetest girl I know. Goodbye Macadam, Farewell Leinster Square! It's a long, long way to Tipperary. But my heart's right there." The song promises to become famous.

Sure Indications of Lung Troubles

Among the indications of threatened Lung Trouble are a continued cough, fever and night sweats. A change of climate often helps, but it seems that something more is needed to stop the cough and sweats and arrest the progress of disease. Eckman's Alternative, after many years of use, is known to be the most beneficial in bringing about relief, in many cases complete recoveries. Investigate this case.—Schell City, Mo. "Gentlemen: I had a terrible cough, night sweats and pleurisy in my lungs. A man who heard me coughing advised me to take your Alternative. I paid no attention to him then. I got so bad the doctor said I should go to Wyoming. I did, and when I got there I steadily grew worse. Then I remembered what had been told me about your medicine. I began taking it, with no faith whatever, but before I had taken three bottles, I could eat anything. Fever and night sweats stopped and for a year I have been well and in better health than I ever was." (Affidavit). W. F. BOMAR. (Above abbreviated; more on request.) Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stomach Colds and in rebuilding the system. OBJECT TO FREIGHT TAX

Portland, Ore., Sept. 5.—The state railroad commission has today protected against a 3 per cent tax on freight shipments as a means of raising governmental revenue to offset the effects of the European war. In a telegram to Congressman N. J. Sinnott, the commission points out that many Oregon industries are already compelled to operate on a narrow margin due to the high freight rates from the east, and that a flat percentage tax would drive them out of the market.
