"The haunting beauty of June Reed's playing lingers a lifetime." Hear her at the Christian church tomorrow night.

Professor Frederick Stanley Dunn, of the University of Oregon, will give a stenographic lecture Tuesday evening in the chapel at Willamette university on "Virgil's Aeneid." Two lectures in the first of a series that will be given at Willamette. They are under the direction of Dean Alden.

Miss A. McCulloch, the optometrist, will move her office to the Hubbard building, October 5. Glasses correctly fitted.

George C. Needham, state student and boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A. for Oregon and Idaho, arrived this morning for a couple of days' stay. He expects to visit the officials of the Salem association and also help the Willamette university students get their organization under way for the coming season.

N. D. Elliott, the printer on South Commercial street, will go to Portland Tuesday to take in a ball game and see the Beavers in action. Incidentally, he will visit the republican state central committee and have a political chat.

Miss Vera Witham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Witham, secretary of the Victoria, B. C. Y. M. C. A. arrived in Salem last night to take work in the Willamette university college of music during the winter. She will make her home with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Compain, of the Salem Y. M. C. A.

The greatest living musicians of the world have united in commendation of June Reed's remarkable ability as a violinist.

E. S. Uilres, of Norton, Lincoln county, saw an item in the Capital Journal regarding the cheap land list of the Salem commercial club, and sent a letter to the promotion department asking more information concerning this land. If the club can find his place to suit him he may change his mode of residence.

June Reed is praised by Schumann-Heink, with whom she has appeared in concert. At the Christian church tomorrow night.

Eleven prisoners were brought to the penitentiary in Salem last night by D. H. Kerfoot, sheriff of Vale. With the sheriff are his deputies, Dan Eno, J. S. Boyer, J. O. Moody, of Vale; George Green, Nexas and Water Burges, of Ontario.

Kim Crossan imbibed too much fire-water Saturday evening with the result that he was taken in charge by Officers Spencer and Phillips and taken to jail. He was released on his own recognizance by the police judge yesterday so he could go to work today. He is cited to appear for a hearing in the police court sometime before 4 o'clock.

Tom Clark, a pressman for N. D. Elliott, and wife, who have been spending the past three weeks in the hopfields, have returned to the city for the winter. The time was spent more as a vacation but the opportunity to make the vacation pay for itself was not lost sight of. They report having had a thoroughly enjoyable time.

Judge Galloway held court this morning in department No. 2 of the circuit court. The case of T. Hayakawa against G. Somewaka, an action to recover money, was dismissed. An order confirming sale was issued in the case of J. L. Misner against Ada Vest and Max B. Pitts. Judge Galloway will hold court tomorrow and take recess until Monday. Court will be open all of next week.

In response to an item in the Capital Journal stating that the Salem Fruit Union was searching for a good-looking girl who could bake fine pies to demonstrate the loganberry industry at the state fair, the union had two entries this morning. One said she was not a wonderfully good looking but she could bake pies to a frazzle. The other was good looking but the officers had some doubts concerning her ability as a pie artist. Just whether the right combination of good looks and pie-baking ability can be found remains to be seen.

Up to the present time out of a possible 7000 only 1833 voters have registered at the city hall for the coming city elections. During last week only 800 registered, which is considered to be exceptionally slow in spite of the fact that the books are open in the evening and that a large number who were out of the city picking hops and on vacations have returned. It is expected from the present outlook that only about half the electorate will vote in December.

State Engineer John H. Lewis returned Saturday night from a two weeks' trip over a number of irrigation projects in eastern Oregon. He inspected the Tamale project, went to the head of the Mabeur river project and visited the survey camps. He also inspected the diamond drill borings from the reservoir sites of the Ben Charles and Crooked river projects. Mr. Lewis made the trip largely to ascertain just how much work it was necessary to do before closing down the work for the winter months.

Rev. Weigle, formerly of Tacoma, Wash, the new minister of the German Methodist church at Thirteenth and Center streets, arrived here last week and preached his first sermon to his new congregation Sunday. His parishioners have already learned to like him and believe that the coming year will be full of helpfulness and progress. Rev. Maag, who was pastor here last year, was given a charge in eastern Oregon.

A wire screen three feet high has been erected around the pool at the base of the Waite electric fountain in Wilson park to keep the dead leaves from clogging up the outlets and causing an overflow. Last year the leaves falling from the trees were carried by the wind into the fountain, and besides rendering the fountain unsightly were a source of annoyance to the ground keepers.

The report will be filed tomorrow relative to the alleged shortage in the accounts of T. M. Leabo, a former member of the state board of barber examiners, according to a statement given out by Governor West this morning. Leabo's resignation was demanded and received last March, and Isaac D. Rumer, of Portland, was appointed on March 2 to take the place vacated by Mr. Leabo.

Wong Lin, a resident of Salem's Chinatown, who was arrested last week for conducting a lottery, was tried this morning in the police court, found guilty and fined $25. The case against Law Yet, who was caught in the same raid, was dismissed on account of the lack of evidence. Another Chinese that was wanted slipped out of the room as soon as the officers got into the house, and Wong's effort was made to identify him; the officers found that all the Chinamen looked so nearly alike they could not pick him out.

N. D. Elliott, the printer on South Commercial street, will go to Portland Tuesday to take in a ball game and see the Beavers in action. Incidentally, he will visit the republican state central committee and have a political chat.

BAYONET CHARGES ARE FEATURE OF THE BATTLE TODAY

Germans Make Desperate Bayonet Charge But All Are Repulsed

WHERE FORCES MET WERE SLAUGHTER PENS

German Losses at Maubeuge Placed at From 80,000 to 140,000

(By William Philip Sims) Paris, Sept. 21.—Fighting continued as fiercely as ever today along the Aisne and to the southwest. Apparently, however, it was still, thus far, a draw. The allies were making strenuous efforts to erump the German entrenchments right under General Von Kluck. General Von Buelow, at the right of the German center and between General Von Kluck's and the crown prince's armies, was endeavoring to pierce the allies' line at Craonne. The fighting at this point was particularly desperate. Again and again the Germans charged at the point of the bayonet, only to be beaten back with dreadful slaughter.

Charges Repulsed. "We have advanced," said today's official statement here, "to the heights of Lassigny, west of Noyon and on the right bank of the Oise. The enemy has been repulsed at all points east of the Oise; through the German attacks are becoming more violent and repeated bayonet charges have been directed against our lines near Craonne.

The bombardment of Rheims by the Germans' heavy guns continues. There has been no change in Lorraine or the Vosges district. "The Germans are fortifying Delme Hill, south of 'Chateau Salins.'"

In Sunday's fighting the losses were heavy north of Soissons, where it was said the Germans gained some ground, which they subsequently lost back to the French.

Estimated Losses. The Germans were stated also to have evacuated the frontier region about the village of Avricourt Sunday and to have made an unsuccessful attempt to resume the offensive in the vicinity of Saint Die, also far to the southwest of the pending main engagement.

The statement that the Germans lost between 80,000 and 140,000 in taking Maubeuge was not official but rested on the testimony of various good judges who saw the fighting there. War office officials were quoted to the effect that they did not care to make their figures public at present, as they might be suspected of exaggerating if they told the truth.

Immense admiration was being expressed for Jules Verne, the aviator, who was credited with having recently brought down two German aviators engaged in scouting over the French lines.

DIED. WOLTER.—At the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Wolter, on 929 North Fifteenth street, Monday morning, September 21, 1914, Gertrude Wolter aged five years, seven months and six days.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. from the German Lutheran church at 19th and A streets. Rev. Gross officiating. Interment will be in Lee Mission cemetery.

COMING WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY TREY O' HEARTS

The week's session of the county board of equalization ended Saturday night and about 25 cases were disposed of. Most of the cases of over-taxation reported were for small amounts and the total change on the tax roll is negligible. From the small number of complaints presented it is to be inferred the work of the assessors has met with the approval of the taxpayers of the county generally. The office of Assessor Ben West was kept open nights until 9:30 in order to give taxpayers working during the day an opportunity to present their claims in person. No more cases will be heard by the board and it is the opinion of its members that all who had any claims presented them during the week's session.

Claiming that a minimum rate of $1 per month per horsepower connected was too high and that they seldom used more than two kilowatts per month, a number of merchants of Albany today filed a petition with the state railroad commission asking that their rates be readjusted. The Oregon Power company furnished the power for the running of the elevators in the buildings, and in each of the establishments mentioned elevators are the only machines which use electrical power. The petition was presented by Gilbert Brothers, Hubert-Oliver Hardware company, the First National bank, Prosser & Barton, and Fossey & Mason.
