

Social and Personal Notes

By Mollie Runcorn

MRS. S. G. SARGENT entertained with the second of a series of bridge parties this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Reinhart (Miss Theresa McLaughlin) have as their guest Mrs. Rudolph Struck, a recent bride of Grants Pass. Mrs. Struck will join her husband in Portland the latter part of the week, where they will spend a fortnight with Mr. Struck's parents in Irvington. The young couple have many friends in Portland, both having formerly resided in the Rose City.

Miss Gertrude Stevens and brother, Marvin, are visiting friends in Salem. They reside in Albany.

Miss Margaret Shaell has returned home after a stay with her mother, Mrs. Mary Shaell, of Portland.

Miss Catherine O'Brien of Portland has been the guest of Salem friends.

Entertaining informally as a farewell compliment to Miss Lela Slater, daughter of Judge and Mrs. William T. Slater, who leaves shortly to take up special music study in Portland, Mrs. Robert S. Gill asked a few friends to be her guests last night.

Miss Slater will be greatly missed, as she has been a favorite in church, educational, social and musical circles. Her assistance as organist for St. Paul's Episcopal choir has been especially artistic and has also been a feature of many entertainments and recital programs. She has also done notable work as regular accompanist for Dan E. Langenberg, the well known vocal instructor.

Definite plans have not as yet been made for her winter work, but she will probably study with Mrs. T. C. Burke, a leading musician of Portland. While there Miss Slater will be with the Barr G. Lees, close friends of the Slater family. Mr. Lee, who is assistant at St. Stephen's Pro-cathedral, was formerly rector of St. Paul's church here.

Mrs. Gill's guests last night were: Judge and Mrs. William Slater, Attorney and Mrs. A. M. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wood, Prof. McMurray, Virginia Nowlen, Miss Helen Wood, Tom Wood, James Crawford, Paul Blanchard of Grants Pass, Miss Lillian Slater, Miss Emma Cramer, Clarence Walls.

The Junior Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church are meeting this afternoon with Mrs. Walton Van Winkle on Court street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Cooke Patton have been entertaining as their guest during State Fair week Lew W. Evans, of Eugene. Friday night they entertained with a card party in his honor. Mr. Evans has made numerous visits to the Cherry City and is well known here.

Paul Blanchard, of Grants Pass, in the guest of James Crawford, Mr. Blanchard, who is a graduate of Stanford University, is taking the state bar examination.

At a specially called meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) E. E. Fisher, plans were discussed for the commencing year of the Parent-Teachers association of the Grant school. Members of the association and teachers of the school who were present were: Mrs. Luella Walsh, Mrs. P. L. Frazier, Mrs. J. B. Shank, Mrs. E. C. Minton, Mrs. L. B. Barnett, Mrs. F. L. Purvine, Miss West, Miss Donnan, Miss Dunne, Mrs. Carrie Chappel.

It was decided that the opening meeting should be of a social nature, and with this idea predominant, a reception to the teachers was decided upon as being the most satisfactory in securing the best results in acquiring parents and instructors. The reception will be given next Monday night in the school building, and informal invitations will be issued to all parents whose children attend this school, and also to the directors and their wives.

An interesting program is being prepared. Superintendent Elliott will be asked to deliver an address, and others will be solicited to assist with brief talks and with musical and elocutionary numbers. A refreshment committee has been appointed, who will serve a buffet luncheon.

Aside from its entertainment and social attraction it is of particular importance that the attendance be large, and that all who can, sign membership cards, as the association is entitled to one delegate for every ten members to the state convention of Parent-Teachers association which convenes in Portland during the Land Protests Show, October 27, 28, 29 and 30. At that time delegates will be elected to be present at the national convention to be held in Portland next May. Child welfare and general educational subjects will be discussed at these meetings. Measures pertaining to some form of presentation at the coming legislature will be considered, and it is desired that Salem be represented at both conventions.

A complete program for Monday night will appear later.

James Mott, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Mott, who recently returned from several years' theatrical work in the East, is in Marshfield, where, under his direction, "Arizona" is being produced by local talent. Mr. Mott will return in about a fortnight and it is probable that the play will be presented here shortly under the auspices of one of the local clubs.

Walker W. Kamm and Miss Louise E. Roberts and Philip S. Kamm and Miss Marie M. Roberts will be married at the Glenwood Mission Inn, at Riverside, California, Saturday evening, November 14. Messrs. Kamm are the twin sons of Mrs. Charles Tilton Kamm, a prominent Portland family, and the Misses Roberts are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Roberts, of San Bernardino, California. The engagement was announced early last spring and the Misses Roberts visited Mrs. Kamm last summer, making many friends in Portland. They are beautiful and interesting girls and while in Oregon were entertained by Mrs. William C. Knighton in Salem. November 14 was also the date of Mr. and Mrs. Roberts' marriage. Glenwood Mission Inn chapel is famous throughout California and the couples come from far and wide to be married there.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Craven, in Monmouth, at high noon Thursday, October 1, when Miss Lora Aven Craven became the bride of Maurice Jay Butler, of Independence, Ore. The bridal party proceeded to an arch of wild clematis with tulle bows, where Dr. J. R. N. Bell, of Corvallis, officiated.

An elaborate breakfast was served with Mrs. Riley Craven, of Dallas; Mrs. Willard Craven, of Independence, Ore.; Mrs. Alva Craven, of Monmouth, relatives and friends present.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler left for Portland, where they will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cramer of Valdez, Alaska, left for their home this morning after a brief visit at the C. P. Bishop home. Mr. and Mrs. Cramer stopped in Salem on their way from an extended eastern visit. They have also been guests of friends and relatives in Medford, where Mrs. Cramer formerly resided. She was Miss Adele Pickle before her marriage, and is a sister of Dr. Pickle, who is well known through the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Elgin have been entertaining as their home guest during the past week Mrs. Elgin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Freerksen, of Albany; Mr. and Mrs. H. Freerksen, of Shedd; Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Peters, Mrs. H. H. Hewitt, Mrs. Joseph Elgin, of Albany; Mrs. H. E. Chipman and son Elgin of Portland. Some of their guests left the latter part of the week, others remaining over the weekend.

CHOLERA SPREADING.

London, Oct. 6.—That cholera is spreading steadily in Hungary was asserted in a dispatch received by the News from Venice today.

Government officials were reported much alarmed and it was said the Budapest schools had been closed for fear of infection.

The disease was brought by soldiers returned from the battle front and it was said they, in turn, took it from the Russians.

The message said newspapers which printed stories of the disease's spread or of Austrian defeats were severely punished.

War Is a Commercial Struggle Between England and Germany

New York, Oct. 6.—Charles Edward Russell, well known newspaper and magazine writer and socialist candidate for Senator from New York, who, with his wife, spent three weeks at The Hague during the early days of the war, assisting in the relief of stranded Americans, refuses to believe that the European war will be the last great war.

"This war," he explained, "is purely a commercial struggle engendered by German and British trade rivalries, and when it is over the beaten side will simply get busy preparing for the next time."

"The suggestion of a slave domination or of racial domination of any other kind is absurd. The business interests caused this war and so long as we have competition, we will have the cause for war."

"Take the situation at The Hague, for example. A number of ordinarily highly paid specialists gave their services free of charge to handle the relief work. It was cooperation instead of competition. Had we been working for pay probably we would have quarreled like cats and dogs, but instead we worked in harmony."

War Will Continue.

"Until cooperation can be substituted for competition we shall continue to have war. The only hope that this war will end all wars is that the debts piled up by it will break the masses' back and they will upset the present financial monopoly, which alone benefits by the killing of men."

Speaking of the war done at The Hague, Russell said:

"The Hague is the great clearing house between Germany, Austria and the outside world. When the war broke out, its importance had not been considered by our government and Minister Van Dyke and his little paid force of assistants found themselves confronted by a situation which called for energetic action."

"Thousands of Americans were in Germany and Austria. Thousands of the subjects of the warring nations were in the same two countries and when the British severed their German cable The Hague became not only an important clearing house but the only one there was.

Staff Was Swamped.

"The legation staff was swamped from the onset."

Refugees flocked into Holland and wanted to get home. Letters and telegrams poured into the legation literally by the basketful. Most of them had to be translated from English into German or from German into English.

"There were hundreds of calls upon the legation to local missing people."

"And Minister Van Dyke had nobody to help him."

"Then it was that a volunteer force came to the front. First there was Alexander R. Gulick, a New York lawyer whose income is over $30,000 a year. He put into operation the most wonderful card index I have ever seen. He indexed every communication received for reference at a minute's notice."

A Valuable Assistant.

"Charles H. Sherrill, another high priced man, took charge of all telegrams. He also put into effect a system whereby all messages were handled promptly and replies were pushed through at once."

"Professor George Wilson of the Harvard law school, one of the greatest American experts on international law, also took a hand in the game. He became a sort of assistant minister and kept everyone advised on the legal questions which were arising constantly. As a matter of fact, it was probably due to his keen insight into the legal problems which presented themselves which prevented serious trouble."

"W. Mark Smith, Princeton graduate, and Tereus Van Dyke handled the financial matters. When I tell you that they paid out $90,000 in three weeks without a single error you can tell what good work they did."

"Mrs. Russell and myself acted as translators."

Almost any man may work himself up to a high degree of popularity with his neighbors by taking up his residence on an uninhabited island in mid-ocean.

FILLING THE DINNER PAIL.

The Portland Oregonian, the prince of calamity howlers, has so far forgotten itself as to print the following in its issue of Sept. 29:

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 28.—An unexpected revival of business has manifested itself in and around Chicago. Report from institutions, diversified in character, show that thousands of men who have been idle for months have been put back to work. Nearly 8,000 men are back at work in the Pullman car shops. A thousand more will be in their old places before the end of the week.

The Argo Starch Works, at Argo, Ill., and the large firms manufacturing bricks, plumbing materials, terra cotta, building materials, paints, lumber and structural iron have taken back workmen. The working forces of the pack-

CALAMITY BREAKS THE BIRTH RECORD

Burns, Or., Oct. 5.—Mrs. Phil Dieterich, wife of a well known rancher of the Calamity section, 60 miles northeast of Burns, has become the mother of four children in 10 months.

Ten months ago a baby girl was born to Mrs. Dieterich, and last Wednesday she gave birth to triplets, all girls.

Dr. D. E. Standaard, of Burns, who ushered the little trio into the world, says that Mrs. Dieterich worked in the fields, assisting in the harvesting and threshing until the day before the babies were born.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Fish That Builds A Nest.

Papa Stickleback is a Wary Old Fish.

"H, yes, they do!" said daddy. "You needn't laugh!"

"But how can a fish build without any hands?" asked Evelyn.

"Why, he uses his mouth to collect small sticks, swimming back and forth and here and there in the stream. These sticks form the framework of the nest, and then he fills the crevices with leaves, giving them in with a glue which Mother Nature has given him for this very purpose."

"The nest making fish is the stickleback, and when his nest is completed it looks just like mamma's big muff, and it has a front and rear door, the openings in the direction of the current."

"After his house is furnished Mr. Stickleback tented stickleback because of the sharp spines on his back rounds up Mrs. Stickleback and numerous of her relatives and drives them into the new home whether they like it or not."

"Then they prepare for a large increase in the Stickleback family."

"Papa Stickleback is a wary old fish, and he doesn't mean to let any one interfere with his home and family, so he swims around and around the nest he has made and the wife he has driven into it and the babies that are going to be hatched."

"For, you see, stickleback eggs and baby sticklebacks are a delicacy for some looters."

"Another queer thing about Mr. Stickleback and Mrs. Stickleback and the little Stickleback babies is their ability to change color. Naturally very dark when they are scared by some bullying big fish, they actually turn pale with fright."

"I think it must be some job, daddy, to build a nest in running water," said Jack thoughtfully. "I s'pose that glue stuff keeps it from floating away, doesn't it?"

"I suppose that is so," said daddy, "and now I know two kiddies who ought to go to bed."

"Isn't it funny, daddy, that I've seen a fish that do the same things that birds do, sing and fly and build nests, 'cause I've heard some one speak of flying fishes?"

"Yes," said daddy, "but that will be another story. Some night instead of a story I'll read you a poem by Mr. Kipling, in which he tells us about the flying fishes playing and many other things also. But good night, now it is going late for small boys and girls and, besides, daddy must read about the terrible war."

HOW TO GET RID OF DYSPEPSIA

Don't Rely on Medicine; Don't Go on Freak Diet; Common Sense and an Antacid Usually All That Are Needed.

"If you have dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, belching, distress after eating, heartburn or any other stomach trouble due to hyperacidity (the usual cause of stomach troubles), you should take no medicine to act upon the stomach itself. That is positively not the way to cure the trouble. Again, you should not half starve yourself by going without the nutritious food that you need to rebuild waste tissues. Some foods are not good for people even when in perfect health—very rich, sweet, highly seasoned dishes. Avoid these, but eat fairly substantial meals of plain foods. Eat slowly. Even if you drink nothing but water, you should not drink with meals. Drink before and after eating. Do not take Pepsi or other artificial digestives. If you follow the foregoing simple instructions, it is probable that you will not need any medicine at all, except, if you want to call it medicine, a little antacid after meals. The best antacid is ordinary hydrated magnesia, which can be purchased at any drug store. This is not to act upon the stomach but upon the contents of the stomach. The antacid, as you can learn by consulting your dictionary or encyclopedia, is merely to neutralize or counteract the excess acid so the stomach can digest the food normally. Take a teaspoonful of hydrated magnesia in a little cold or hot water after each meal. You should get immediate relief, even if your case is severe. Careful, moderate eating and the use of hydrated magnesia, should put your stomach in normal condition in a short time; if you have not allowed dyspepsia to advance to the extreme stage of developing stomach ulcers."
