HAS LONG RECORD OF LYCEUM SUCCESSES

NOAH BEILHARZ.

NO MAN can stay upon the platform for fifteen years. Billings, for three thousand engagements and pleasing more than a million people, unless he has merit as a platform artist. Such is the record of Noah Beilharz, one of the Lyceum's most acceptable artists. His program of miscellaneous selections, humorous and serious, is very entertaining; his presentation of David Warfield's play, "The Music Master," is a piece of perfect work; and his other programs, "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," "The End of the World," and "A Pair of Spectacles," would have made him famous had he offered no other. He is among the greatest successes on the talent list of the Affiliated Lyceum Bureau, and fills a coast to coast engagement yearly. His reading of the horse trade scene, from "David Harum," is one of the most artistic bits of work done by any platform artist in the country. He will be sure to please our people.

Social and Personal Notes

THE Highland Parent-Teachers' association will hold their first regular meeting of this school year tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in their school building. An interesting program will be given, some of the speakers to be Superintendent O. M. Elliott, A. A. Lee, H. C. Maris and L. P. Harrington.

State Superintendent of Schools J. A. Churchill.

A pretty affair Monday night, complimenting Miss Norma Harper, was given by Miss Genevieve Avison at the Richard N. Avison residence. Miss Harper, popular among young folk here, and a graduate of the 1911 class of Salem high school, left with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harper, for Aberdeen, Wash., today, where they will reside. Miss Avison's guests were: Miss Eva Scott, Miss Marie Bennett, Miss Florence Page, Miss Bevil Holt, Miss Valada Hoxie and Miss Alice Fields, Miss Page being asked to assist.

In her last letter to Salem friends, Mrs. William P. Lord and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Lord, state that they would leave Japan September 20, on the steamer Mongolia, and would probably reach San Francisco the 24th of this month. They will probably be guests of California friends. A brief visit, arriving in Salem about November 1, although not entering the war zone, as originally planned, they found conditions very unsettled in the Orient, and steamer schedules especially independent.

Miss Louise Weider, of Albany, is the house guest for a few days of Mrs. B. O. Schnecking.

Mrs. C. A. Schibede, of Marshfield, is being entertained at the home of her father, George S. Downing.

Mrs. C. L. Hadley, of Roseburg, on a return trip from Portland, stopped here for a brief visit with her sister, Mrs. W. H. Byars, leaving Tuesday night for her home.

The open meeting of the United Artisans last night in their hall was largely attended. Mrs. Ella Watt, supreme instructor of the order, gave an address, the Artisan orchestra furnishing pleasing selections during the hours. Others who assisted on the program were: Miss Mina Cook, in vocal solo; Messrs. Carter and Allie in mandolin and guitar duet; reading by Miss Hally Cornell and piano duet, Miss Martha Swart and Mr. Kirby vocal solo by Miss Nellie Roberts, reading by Miss Hally Compton.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Eckerlen, who are in the European war zone, and who were expected to return home this month, state in their latest letters that owing to difficulties in securing passage they will probably remain in Germany during the winter. They are at present at Alase, Mr. Eckerlen's former home.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Scovel, of Fort Madison, Iowa, are stopping in Salem the guests of Mrs. Elizabeth Bullock, of Nob Hill, an old-time friend. They are making an extensive American trip and in a week will leave for Los Angeles and other southern California cities, stopping in several southern states before returning to their home.

All young women of Salem, especially those employed in offices and stores, are invited to the Y. W. C. A. rest room, Monday, October 19, at 3:30 p. m. An excellent supper may be had at regular rest room prices, ranging from 5 to 15 cents. An hour will be spent in a social way, and this will be followed by a short Bible study class. This is a splendid opportunity to enjoy a pleasant social hour, a good supper and to be profited by an expert Bible teacher, taking charge of the class.

A most cordial welcome will be extended to all young women.

Mrs. Edward Case, of Steele City, Nebraska, who has been the guest of her niece, Mrs. W. E. Fargo, for a fortnight, left yesterday for Lafayette Ore., where she will be entertained by relatives. Mrs. Case was an appreciative visitor at the state fair and an enthusiastic admirer of the splendid floral exhibit there and also of the many beautiful floral gardens which surround almost every Salem residence.

The Thought and Work club was entertained this afternoon after months of inactivity by Mrs. P. L. Purvine, at her home on North Fifth street. A call was responded to by each member relating incidents of their summer's vacation. Officers for the year were also elected. This club will meet regularly during the winter on alternate Thursdays.

A pretty ceremonial united in marriage Miss Flora E. Warner to Ova L. Spencer, of Roseburg, Monday night at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Warner, on Thirtieth street. Decorations were all in white, lovely chrysanthemums furnishing the floral motif. Mrs. Frank L. Little, a sister of the bride, presided at the wedding dinner and she was assisted by a bevy of young girls costumed in dainty white frocks. The service was read by Rev. D. N. McIntarf, before an assemblage of relatives and intimate friends. The young people left the same evening for Roseburg, where they will reside.

The Philodorian and Philodorian literary societies of Willamette University presented a joint program last evening in their society hall, having as their guests many of the new students who are contemplating joining some literary society and are being entertained as guests of societies at present. WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda dissolved in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bicarbonate of soda is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bicarbonate of soda from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bicarbonate of soda as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Fairies' Trip In the Glass Bottom Boat.

THE lake had the loveliest pink, purple and other pale shades in it, and it looked as if it really very much enjoyed feeling warm again. It was not a very large lake, but it was plenty large enough for the fairies. It was most beautifully situated. It was just on the woods, and the trees skirted the shore," said daddy.

"The fairy queen had suggested that, as it had grown so much warmer and as the lake looked so absolutely lovely, there could be nothing nicer than to take a sail on it. All of the fairies thought that it would be delightful too. The fairy queen said that they would start on their trip at 3 o'clock, for it would be so much nicer to go when it was sunny. Then they could see the beautiful reflections in the water and the shadows.

"At 3 all the fairies were ready. They saw the fairy queen waiting for them by the shore.

"Where's the boat?" they asked her. "We don't see any boat. Aren't we going? Oh, what's happened? We were looking forward so much to going on a boat trip."

"The fairy queen smiled and said, 'Don't be impatient, little fairies.' Then she waved her magic wand and said, 'Come, boat!'

"Whereupon the loveliest white boat appeared. It came right up to the edge of the shore.

"It certainly was a beautiful boat. It was very, very long with two big white sails. On either end of the boat stood a big green frog. They acted as steers. They looked very fine indeed in their bright green suits. They almost looked as if they'd bought their suits new for the occasion.

"But when the fairies got in the boat the biggest surprise was waiting them, for it was far from being an ordinary boat. The bottom of the boat was all glass. The fairies cried out with delight when they saw it, and the fairy queen was so happy that they liked it.

"Then they started on a lovely trip around the lake, then up and down the lake. Not only could they see the pretty shore, but through the glass they could see all the fishes and green grasses and weeds that grew down under that water. Never had the fairies been able to see such interesting things. They watched some of the fishes playing and swimming around. Other fishes they watched were sleeping quite peacefully.

"You can well believe how interesting it was and how much they enjoyed it. Of course the fairy queen is always perfectly happy as long as the little fairies are happy.

"The fairies said after it was all over that it was the most wonderful and interesting boat trip they had ever had."
