OREGON INDUSTRY DAY NOVEMBER 3

Tuesday, November 3, has been proclaimed by Governor West as Oregon Industry Day, upon which occasion every loyal citizen of the state of Oregon, as well as the disloyal, is supposed to purchase and consume only Oregon-made or grown products.

The proclamation is issued in the interest of the fostering and promotion of industrial patriotism among the people of Oregon, the substance of the governor's message to the people being:

"The aim and purpose of the wonderful Manufacturers and Land Products Show now in progress in Portland is to bring home to our people the great progress being made in the direction of developing manufacturing and marketing home products by Oregon manufacturers and producers.

"Whereas, success upon the part of the manufacturers and producers can only come through the co-operation of the consumer, "I hereby proclaim Tuesday, November 3, 1914, Oregon Industry Day and earnestly request that each and every citizen of this state purchase and consume on said day only those products which are of home production. By so doing attention will be directed to and concentrated upon our Oregon industries, the merits of which will thus be brought home to all."

Only one boat of the Oregon City Transportation Co., the Greyhound, now makes the run to Independence. The river is but a little over 2 feet above low water mark and it was found impracticable to keep larger boats on the run. The Greyhound leaves Salem on the up river trip Tuesdays, Thursdays and Friday nights, returning to Salem Saturday to begin the Portland trip.

MRS. SUSAN M'MUNN, MRS. JENNIE CROTEAU, MRS. FLORENCE MATTHEW, MISS ELLA M'MUNN.

The employed boys of the city who belong to the Y. M. C. A. gym class may now ramp on the gym floor to their hearts content as three business men of the city have already subscribed 20 pairs of gym shoes for their use. The shortage of gym shoes came to the notice of the Capital Journal yesterday and the story in last night's paper was productive of the above result.

L. H. Compton, general secretary of the Salem Y. M. C. A. and O. B. Gingrich, physical director, will leave this city next week to attend the Pacific Northwest Conference of Physical Directors to be held in Seattle. The conference will begin November 4 and will close Sunday, November 8. Doctor George Fisher will be one of the principal speakers of the conference and will work in the interests of a better standardization of the work of the associations in the northwest.

SAVE INDUSTRIAL OREGON. The one way to protect the future manufacturing and industrial development of Oregon is to vote against the various measures known as the "Water Front" bills, numbers 328 and 330 on the ballot. They are a direct attack on the prosperity of every man, woman and child in Oregon, and ought to be beaten.

These measures are not only a vicious thrust at Oregon's progress, but they are a veiled attack upon the public school system of the state, in that they will, if passed, deprive it of large sums of money every year.

Vote "No" 329 and "No" 331, OREGON COMMERCIAL PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Ore. (Paid adv.)

The case of B. O. Chubbing against E. M. Young, a controversy over a job contract, was on in department No. 1 of the circuit court today before Judge Kelly. It was alleged in the opening statement of the attorneys for the plaintiff that Mr. Young was to deliver to the plaintiff 25,000 pounds of hops of a certain quality for 14 cents per pound. Delivery to be made on November 15. It was further stated that when the hops were to be delivered on November 15 that the price was then about 25 cents per pound and that Mr. Young refused to deliver the hops. As a result Mr. Chubbing is suing for $2250 damages alleged to have been sustained by the deal. Mr. Young entered a general denial of all the charges.

COMMENDS WOOLEY. To the Editor:—On a recent trip to your city I had an unexpected pleasure in meeting my old friend, E. Wooley, whom I have known for the past 18 years. We used to work for the same firm in Portland for several years, and after talking all times for awhile I found he was before the citizens of your city for election to the position of city marshal and chief of police.

Now, in knowing "Joe" Wooley, as his friends all call him, I can say to your good people that if they should place him at the head of their police department they will make no mistake, as he is capable, trustworthy and reliable in every way, and will enforce your laws so they will be respected by everyone. J. M. DIXON. (Paid adv.)

CAMPAIGN NEARS END. At the noon session of the business men solicitors at the Y. M. C. A. today $209 additional was reported on the fund for maintenance for the coming year. From the reports it was expected that the campaign will be closed

TENOR, ONCE POOR, NOW VERY WEALTHY

Son of a Miner Becomes Famous Tenor, Lives in Mansion and Sports Three Autos.

Evan Williams, the famous tenor, who is to appear at the Armory next week in the Musical Artists Course, was born in Mineral Ridge, Ohio, about forty-five years ago. His father was a miner, and known throughout the region for his natural voice. The mother of the singer likewise possessed a fine natural voice, and long before Master Evan could lip the name of either parent, his wandering eyes and ears were often delighted by hearing mother and father singing duets. The Williams and all their Welsh relations in Ohio, belonged to the Welsh singing societies that participated annually at the Etsteldford. When little Evan was three, he could sing so well, that the men congregating about the grocery store, at Thomastown, used to award candy prizes to the lad and his cousin, G. Miles, for competing at the singing contests, the contests usually taking place on the top of an apple barrel or the counters of the country store.

When Evan Williams reached the age of ten, his family had moved to Akron, and there the boy, whose phenomenal voice often created a sensation when singing alto in choruses. His voice then was so powerful and the timbre so moving, that it was common to hear predictions about his future; but no one in those days, thought that Evan would develop into a tenor, for as a boy, his voice was alto.

Madame Loise Von Fieltsch, then one of the leading vocal teachers in Cleveland, had become interested in Williams and was giving him lessons. Madame Von Fieltsch had interested the "Match King", C. C. Barber, in her gifted pupil, and had Williams permitted it no doubt Mr. Barber would have advanced the money to pay for Williams' education. Williams however, was young and a man of brains and muscle, he secured a job running an elevator in Cleveland at $30 a month.

Evan Williams made his debut as a solo singer at Gallon, Ohio, in 1891, and a year or two later, he was in New York seeking fame and fortune. He has not knocked in vain at the door of fate, for today Williams lives in a $75,000 home in Akron, keeps three automobiles, and employs a retinue of servants, moreover he has available dates, for his popularity was never greater.

Boastful upon all sides by urgent telegrams from the county clerks and courts of the several counties, who are in a turmoil and frenzied state of indecision concerning the effect of the decision of the supreme court in the circuit and county court judgment made by the supreme court in the decision of the supreme court and the interpretation of the same by the attorney general, Secretary O'Leary is advising all of them that the opinion does not effect the supreme court ticket as it now appears upon the ballot and only such county judges who were elected at the general election of 1910, all of whom will hold office until 1917, and are up for reelection will be affected by the decision. In the event any errors are discovered in the election in any of the counties they can be determined after the election.
