FREDDIE WELSH IS WINNER IN EIGHTH

Wolcast Shows Poor Form and Is Not in the Class with Champion

New York, Nov. 3.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of the world, was so jubilant today over his defeat here last night of Al Wolcast at Madison Square Garden, that he predicted he would knock out Charlie White of Chicago when they clash in a 10-round bout at Milwaukee next Monday night.

The fight was stopped at the end of the eighth round, Referee Billy Nicks explaining that Wolcast broke a small bone in his right forearm in the fifth round by hitting Welsh on the head. The champion gave Wolcast the beating of his life and Al was weakening rapidly when Nicks called a halt. It was considered doubtful if Wolcast could have withstood Welsh's unmerciful attack for two rounds more.

Welsh only showed a flash of his old-time form once and that was in the second round. Fighting from his familiar awkward crouch he rushed at the Welshman and peppered his body with hard rights and lefts. The elope of the round, however, found Welsh giving better than he received, and it was obvious to the ringiders that the former champion had shot his bolt. Welsh fought like a real champion last night and he made many new friends as a result of his showing against Wolcast.

STEADY DOWN POUR CUT OFF ATTENDANCE

The steady downpour of rain and the stiff breeze cut down the attendance at the first shoot of the season of the Capital City Rod and Gun club, held on the club's seventeenth street grounds Sunday. The wind gave particular twist to the bluebirds and probably cut down the averages, but it was said to be a mighty good practice. No phenomenal scores were made but the shooters broke a few of the clay pigeons by way of getting their aiming eyes in trim for the bigger shoots that are to come later in the season.

The following are a few of the scores made:

Shot	hit	pts.
Beet Whorley	150	119
Richter	125	107
Mark Siddall	150	75
C. Parker	100	81
C. O. Preshall	90	37

STARTED TO SWIM PACIFIC OCEAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 3.—Charged with stealing sheep, William Blair, a fisherman, is under arrest here today after one of the most determined attempts to win his freedom that has come under notice of the Los Angeles county officials.

Blair, who lives on San Clemente Island, attempted to row to sea, beyond United States jurisdiction, to avoid paying officers. When his skiff was overhauled he kicked off his shoes and swam bravely seaward, almost reaching the three mile national limit before he was overhauled.

He was unable to tell the officers his plans in the event he had escaped them.

WATT SHIPS WIN BY NARROW MARGIN

When the Watt Shippers and the Elks, the two league leaders in the city league, clashed last night, the sidelines and bleachers were lined with red-hot partisans for both sides and the rooting kept up until the Watt Shippers nosed out ahead on the last game by two runs. The Watt Shippers won the first game and the Elks took the second. The Elks were ahead until the final count on the last game, when Naud, of the Watt Shippers, finished with three strikes.

Naud rolled the high game of 214 pins and also had the high average of 196. The Grocers and Hauser Bros' teams will bowl tonight on the Club alleys. Last night's game was rolled on the Electric alleys.

The score:

COAST BASEBALL ALL UP IN THE AIR

New York, Nov. 3.—Baseball on the Pacific coast is in a very modified condition. The San Francisco club is for sale; league directors have taken the Sacramento franchise away from Harry Wolverton and the McCreedies of Portland admit they would like to sell the Beavers and buy the Seals.

The season just ended was the poorest baseball has known on the coast in ten years. Not a club in the league made any money. J. Cal Ewing and Frank Ish, owners of the Seals, are dickering with James W. Coffroth and Sam Berger for the sale of the club. It is understood that the San Francisco club can be bought for $225,000. Just before the 1914 season opened, Ewing and Ish turned down a $300,000 cash offer for the club. They wanted $450,000 for the Seals then, but now they are willing to sell out for $225,000.

Harry Wolverton and Lloyd Jacobs are dickering with the Sacramento club. Business in the capital city was so poor that they were forced to switch their club to San Francisco, taking the name of the Missions, to finish the season. Wolverton asked the league directors to let them establish a second team permanently in San Francisco but his request was turned down. Then the directors took his franchise away from him and it is now offered for sale to the highest bidder. It can be bought for $20,000.

President Bugdale of the Seattle club of the Northwestern league is after the Sacramento franchise and if he gets it will establish a Pacific Coast league club in Seattle. "Happy" Hogan is also dickering for the franchise and Harry Wolverton also admits that he may yet buy back the franchise and try another year as a magnate. If he fails to secure it it is probable that he will assume the management of the Oakland club. A committee of three has been appointed by the directors of the league to sell the Sacramento franchise. Just where it will go is an unknown quantity and whether Ewing and Ish will retire from baseball also remains to be seen.

CLEARING THE CANAL

Panama, Nov. 3.—The clearing of the canal slide north of Old Hill was being rushed with all dispatch today and Colonel Goethals continued to hope the big ditch would be open to navigation again by Wednesday. The colonel said there was nothing to do but to continue removal of such slides until the strata is adjusted to the basic changes caused by the digging of the canal.

PARTIES UNITE TO GATHER RETURNS

(Capital Journal Special Service.)
Dallas, Ore., Nov. 3.—The county central committees of the democratic and republican parties have united in getting the election returns tonight and have rented the armory as a place for receiving them. Not only will local returns be given, but those of the state, arrangements having been made with Portland for frequent bulletins. The precinct committees in the forty precincts of Polk county will supply accurate returns of the vote from time to time.

Large Audience Grooms Booth.
Through the untiring efforts of the Rev. George H. Bennett, of the Methodist church of this city the citizens of Dallas and the surrounding territory had the opportunity of listening to a very able address at the armory Sunday evening, delivered by Hon. Robert A. Booth, republican candidate for United States senator from Oregon. Mr. Booth is one of the leading men of the Methodist denomination in Oregon and has always been prominently identified with church and educational matters throughout the state. Mr. Booth recently gave $100,000 endowment to Willamette university of Salem. The address was entirely non-political, the subject being "The Higher Citizenship."

Not only did the Dallas people alone turn out to hear Mr. Booth speak, but the several adjacent towns were well represented. A large number of Independent and Monmouth people coming over by special train. The services were in charge of Rev. Bennett, and special music was rendered by the church choir.

The Dallas dancing club has changed the nights of their dances from Thursday to Saturday nights.

The machinery at the Whitaker oil well is being torn down and shipped to Centralia, Washington, where it will be used for prospecting purposes.

Big Rally at Monmouth.
Monmouth was the scene of one of the biggest republican rallies of the year Saturday afternoon, when some of the biggest speakers in the state addressed a large crowd of Polk county citizens. Although it rained most of the day it in no way interfered with the enthusiasm shown by the people present. Several local candidates for county offices were present and addressed the audience.

The regular fall term of the circuit court for Polk county convened today in the county court house, but because tomorrow is election day and nearly everyone including attorneys and judge being interested in the campaign, Judge Webster Holmes adjourned the session for one week. This term of court will undoubtedly be a very short one, as only a few jury cases will be tried, including two or three criminal cases held over from the August term of court and two new ones which have come up since. It is highly probable that the grand jury will produce some business for jury trial before the close of the term.

W. J. Toose, jr., has returned from a week's stay in Portland, where he has been lecturing in the interests of the republican party.

Walter Nichols, cashier of the Bank of Falls City, was in Dallas today visiting relatives and friends.

Miss Bessie Guoch, of Corvallis, is in the city for a short visit with friends.

Dr. A. R. Starbuck and Dr. V. C. Staats attended the Dallas-McMinnville football game at McMinnville Saturday.

Frank Kerslake, of Suver, a former Dallas business man, was in the city Saturday greeting old friends.

J. N. Macomber, of Oskdale, was stopping in this city Saturday.

Wayne Barham, who has been playing professional ball with the San Francisco team in the Pacific Coast league the past season, has returned to the home of his parents in this city.

P. A. Fineth and E. J. Coad have returned from a business trip to Newport.

H. H. Belt has returned from a business visit in several parts of Yamhill county.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Woods went to Portland Saturday for a few days visit with relatives and friends.

A. G. Rempel, of Rickreall, prohibition candidate for county commissioner, was in the city Saturday.

August Biner and Walter Young have returned from a hunting and fishing trip on the headwaters of the La-Creole.

R. E. Swopes, an attorney of Independence, was a business visitor in the city Monday.

Mrs. H. R. Patterson, jr., leaves Wednesday for her home at Grays River, Washington, after an extended visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hayter.

CALIFORNIA HOP GROWERS

effort to unload its potatoes even of the better class. Recently shipments were made right to the heart of the California river district.

While there continues a fair demand for selected local stock in California, still so little of a marketable price that it can scarcely be considered a factor. California has a big crop of ordinary potatoes and at the moment there seems to be little insight for this class or goods from Oregon points.

TURKEY PRICES TO BE LOW THIS YEAR?

Portland, Ore., Nov. 3.—What will be the price of turkeys for Thanksgiving? This is a question which interests the majority of families in the city and one on which dealers carry to a considerable extent. Some declare the prices will not climb as high as a year ago; others say they will be practically the same. All things considered, the price should be lower, for the reason that more turkeys are to be had this year than last, but it depends upon how they are allowed to come into the market. If receipts are as heavy as they should be, the price will be low; if they are light, the opposite result may be expected.

Oregon is not a leader in turkey raising, although thousands of them are raised here. These are mainly shipped to the markets of California, and supplies for Portland come from Idaho and other states. Reports from Idaho are to the effect that while tremendous quantities of turkeys were raised there a year ago, today there are at least 15 if not 20 per cent more turkeys in that state than at the same season in 1913.

Heavy orders have already been placed with Idaho turkey raisers, and about the 20th of this month fine dressed birds should begin to arrive. Dealers have sent broadcast requests that large shipments be delayed until the 23d, as it will be necessary to keep most of the turkeys sent in before that time in the cooler.

A. H. Lea, manager of the produce and poultry departments of the Union Meat company, is one of those who believe prices will be on a par with last year. He bases his opinion on the increased cost of wheat, which is used to finish the birds off with, and says he does not believe raisers can realize a decent profit if they sell at prices under those received a year ago.

It is the opinion of some that turkeys will cost wholesalers in the vicinity of 25 cents a pound and that at retail the price will be from 30 to 31 cents. Wholesalers work on about 1 per cent profit and retail on about 3 cents as a general thing.

HIGH PRICES PAID FOR EWES.
(From National Wood Grower.)
On September 17 the Wood Livestock company of Spencer, Idaho, purchased from the Cunningham Sheep and Land company at Pilot Rock, Oregon, 1400 head of yearling Rambouillet ewes at a cost of $9 per head. These ewes are all bred by registered Rambouillet rams and are out of purebred Rambouillet range ewes. They are unusually excellent in size and covering and are sold to average 13 pounds of wool next June. So far as we have been able to learn this is the highest price paid for yearling Rambouillets in recent years. The Wood Livestock company also have purchased from breeders in Canada and the Willamette valley, Oregon, about 200 head of Lincoln rams. The best 40 of these rams will be selected and bred to the Rambouillet ewes of the purpose of getting high class half-blood rams to use on the range ewes owned by his firm.
