BABY IS BORN NEAR THE FIRING LINE

(Com on, come all, to the grand ball York.)—Among the miscellaneous reports received from the front was one today from the head of the medical staff with the German army on the Aisne. It was made just after the Germans had repulsed a fierce attack by the allies and was as follows:

"I had hardly finished caring for the wounded on the battlefield when an aged French woman appeared and begged me to accompany her to her cottage nearby. There I found her daughter, whose husband was somewhere in the French ranks, giving birth to a child.

"Within 25 minutes France had one more soldier, who, as a matter of fact, seemed much surprised to find himself already fate to face with the enemy."

WOLGAST HAS MADE HIS LAST RING FIGHT

Admits He Is Down and Out—Chip and Clabby Ready for Their Bout

By Hal Sheridan.

New York, Nov. 5.—Ad Wolgast is through as a pugilistic attraction. His hope of regaining the world's lightweight title was blunted by his meeting here with Champion Freddie Welsh. The bout was stopped in the eighth round after Welsh had pounded the Midgetmaster practically into a state of helplessness and after Wolgast had declared he had broken a small bone in his right forearm.

After the bout Wolgast himself admitted that he was through. He said the bones in his hands were too brittle for further ring use, and that he never would be seen in action again. It is to be hoped that he will make good his threat to retire, but if he does he will be an exception to the general rule, as prize fighters are noted for their faithfulness.

Wolgast was hopelessly outclassed by Welsh. His best showing was made in the second round, but even in that session the champion had the better of the midget. Ad tried his old rushing tactics in this round, and while he swung repeatedly to the body with right and left it was evident that his blows had lost their steam. He was slow on his feet, his judgment of distances was poor and his recuperative powers on the wane. Had the battle gone ten rounds further it is certain that Wolgast would have suffered the first knockout of his career. Ad knew he had met his master in Welsh and he made no objection when Referee Billy Roche called a halt at the end of the eighth round.

Whether Wolgast could have whipped Welsh when in his prime is a question that will have to go unanswered. Welsh, however, stands head and shoulders over the Wolgast of today. The former pugilist's terror has shot his bolt. The only thing he has left is the fighting heart. His speed, stamina, and punching power have deserted him.

Chip-Clabby Tomorrow.

San Francisco, Nov. 5.—Both Jimmy Clabby and George Chip, middleweights, have completed their heavy training for their 20-round bout at Daly City tomorrow night. Each boxer was reported in fine condition. Benny Selig has been finally accepted as referee in place of Jim Griffin, who is seriously ill.

Clabby boxed six rounds yesterday and then declared that he was through with the gloves until he enters the ring. "I never felt better in my life," said Clabby. "I weigh more than I ever did for a bout. Whatever happens I will have no excuses to offer."

Chip also finished his work yesterday and will take things easy until he faces

BRITISH NURSES WIN GREAT PRAISE

Berlin, Oct. 16.—(By mail to New York.)—British nurses at the front have won the admiration even of the Germans, as was illustrated by a report filed today with the general staff.

"There is a large number of English nurses who are veritable Amazons," said this communication. "They are mounted and wear spurs and helmets and a battle is hardly over before they are giving first aid to the wounded and superintending the transportation of the gravely cases to the hospitals."

"Unfortunately their number has been greatly diminished recently, as the British have found it necessary to requisition their horses for the cavalry."

BRITISH GENERAL DEAD

London, Nov. 5.—Major General Robert Kekewich, famous as Kimberley's defender during the South African war, who had just been recalled to the colors for a high position in the army on the continent, died suddenly today at his home in Devonshire.

WORK NOW CUT OUT FOR BRITISH FLEET

London, Nov. 5.—Bombardment of the Hellenic forts by the Anglo-French Mediterranean fleet was still in progress today, according to latest information from the admiralty. It was said the Turkish defenses were suffering heavily while their gun range was insufficient to enable them to harm the British and French ships.

Reports that the British cruiser Minerva had bombarded the Turkish Red sea port of Diodah were also confirmed.

Lively interest was also felt in the story that a German warship squadron had left the Kaiser's naval base at Wilhelmshaven and news was momentarily expected of a fight between it and the British fleet in the North sea.

The possibility was taken into consideration that the Germans might attempt a landing on the English coast. That such an undertaking could succeed, in favor of the thoroughness of the British cruisers' patrol, was deemed more than unlikely, but troops were nevertheless under arms and on the alert in the vicinity of Yarmouth to give a warm reception to possible raiders.

Turkey's diplomatic representatives had either already left or were leaving London, Bordeaux, Petrograd and Nish.

CANADIANS FEAR THE GERMAN FLEET

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 5.—The protection of Canadian Pacific coast cities from a raid by the German cruiser squadron now in Chilean waters was still under consideration by the naval authorities here today.

No announcement of any plan was made, but it was understood a close watch would be kept on the German vessels and that energetic steps would be taken to safeguard the coast if Admiral Von Spee showed any inclination to cruise to the northward.

As soon as the siege of Kiao Chau resulted in the capture of the German forces there, it was remarked, a number of British and Japanese warships would be freed to deal with the enemy on this side of the Pacific.

CLAIMS THEM ALL

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Medill McCormick, chairman of the committee directing woman suffrage campaigns in the West, declared this afternoon that latest reports indicated that Nebraska and possibly North Dakota had adopted equal suffrage. She also claimed suffrage amendments were adopted in Montana and Nevada.

Mrs. McCormick said she had been warned in telegrams not to accept early reports that suffrage had been defeated.

One man's success often spells failure for another.

SAY 500 DROWNED WHEN CRUISER SANK

Amsterdam, Nov. 5.—Though confirmation from German sources was lacking, British advisers reported positively today Wednesday night's report that the German cruiser Yorck had been sunk by a mine near the mouth of the River Weser and had gone down, with the loss, it was believed, of its whole crew, about 500 men.

From Berlin came the assertion that the British are suppressing the fact that the Boer rebellion in South Africa has already assumed formidable proportions and is spreading. At least 10,000 Boers were declared to be in revolt.

Another Berlin story was to the effect that German prisoners in British concentration camps are dying in large numbers from the effects of the hardships to which they are exposed. Complaint was made especially of the cold, as a result of which it was declared pneumonia was creating havoc among the captives, many of whom were not in the Kaiser's military service at all, but simply happened to be living in England when the war broke out and were arrested on the mere suspicion that they might be furnishing information to the enemy.
