MUSICAL

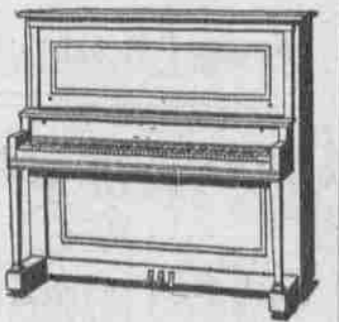

The recital given by the pupils of Sacred Heart academy, in St. Joseph's hall, last night attracted a large and most appreciative audience. The hall was artistically decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums, and the golden harp, pride of the academy, formed an exquisite ornament in all of the numbers. The curtain rose on the vocal class, who after bowing to the audience, rendered "Cherity," by Rossini. Then followed in turn "Argonnie," a piano solo, by Miss Lena Hucklestein; Dan- sio's violin solo, "Air Varié," by Miss Bertha Doerfler; Chipman's vocal solo, "An Evening Love Song," by Miss Elizabeth Halderman; Berlioz's piano solo, "Song of the Night," by Miss Anna Berdoerfer. Next in order came the beautiful "Serenade," by Trou- selles, with Miss Marie Campbell, violin, Miss Louise Berdoerfer, cello, and Miss Helen Barr at the piano. Miss Gertrude Campbell then gave the selection "The Last Rose of Summer" on the harp. This was immediately fol- lowed by the piano solo, "Rustle of Spring," by Miss Eleanor Hucklestein. Misses Marie and Catherine Campbell then rendered the pathetic vocal duet, "The Night Bells," by Vincent, and were given a prolonged ovation for their interpretation. Dvorak's trio, "Humoresque," followed, with Marie Campbell once more playing the violin, Miss Berdoerfer the cello, and Miss Gertrude Campbell the harp. Miss Louise Berdoerfer at the first piano and Miss Helen Barr at the second skillfully executed Liszt's "Grand Galop Chromatique." Miss Paula Linn delighted her hearers with Harrack's vocal solo, "The Bird and the Rose." Then came one of the delights of the evening, when Miss Berdoerfer, tak- ing her place at the harp, played as (a) and (b) numbers, "Hallelu," by Hasse- mans and "Fairy's Dream," by Rolan- do. There was an insistent demand for an encore, which Miss Berdoerfer did not acknowledge. Her number was succeeded by Beethoven's Sonata op. 20, by Miss Gertrude Campbell; the vocal solo, "The Owl's Courtship," by Miss Marie Campbell, and the Trio Romanza by Misses Marie, Gertrude and Catherine Campbell, at the violin, harp and piano. Then followed the stupendous musical production "Khapsodie Hon- graise," by Liszt, which Miss Berdoerfer rendered in a remarkable man- ner, the selection being played entirely from memory. "A Day in Venice," a four-part violin solo, was masterfully reproduced by Miss Marie Campbell, and the academic vocal class succeeded this with Simahold's "Spring Song." The recital ended with a selection by the academy orchestra, closing the sec- ond of a series of monthly recitals given by the students of this institution.

CLUBS

The West Central circle of the Meth- odist church was entertained Wednes- day afternoon at the B. L. Steeves home, Mrs. Steeves and Mrs. Honan- ni. G. Glover presiding as hostesses. Thanksgiving was attractively sug- gested in the decorations. A large pumpkin was used as a table centerpiece, and favors and Thanksgiving day novelties were made interesting features. Mrs. Charles Brasher, president of this circle, and Mrs. McAdams, former president, served the beverages. Plans for the annual bazaar were discussed and an informal social hour enjoyed.

The ladies of Hazel avenue meet at the home of Mrs. O. M. Rice, Thursday afternoon, to organize an embroidery club. Those present were: Mrs. B. A. Reynolds, Mrs. Clara Bunch, Mrs. Edna Daily, Mrs. Ernest Foster, Mrs. Paul Sims, Mrs. Roy Stittler, Mrs. Leslie Rice, Mrs. Jeger, Miss May Johns, Miss Rosella Bunch, Miss Josephine Jeger and Dorothy Reynolds.

PIANO and COFFEE

You don't often see them together. But Eppley, the East Salem grocer, has found a way of mixing them that is exciting widespread interest. He makes a specialty of high grade coffee blended according to his own tried and proved formula. It is roasted daily and sent out direct to the customer with all the richness that Nature intended it to have. The coffee is so good that Mr. Eppley cannot afford to give it away. In order to advertise it to all the newcomers in Salem and vicinity, he is going to

A Dallas correspondent in this morn- ing's Statesman has the officials of that town about to locate and capture the murderer of Emma Ulfur in Portland. Some one ought to tell the Statesman and his correspondent that if they had read the Capital Journal they would have learned that Johnson was arrested and jailed three days ago. It is too bad to allow those Dallas officials to waste so much energy.

The chilly nights have tended to popularize the city jail as a rooming house for tourists of the army of the great unwashed and this morning an even dozen sleepers were turned out and requested to go south without looking back. Long, short, thick, thin, frowny and bewhiskered, they tumbled out of the jail this morning and filed out of the station to continue their search for "work."

CARE OF YOUR EYES

No part of the entire human anat- omy is more delicate or easily disor- dered than the eyes. You may burden your muscular structure, and it will respond with an increased growth. But overtax your eyes and a weakness will result which can be remedied only by glasses properly fitted. During more than 31 years I have specialized in fitting glasses correctly. Weak eyes, poor sight, painful or in- flamed eyes, clouding of vision, crossed eyes, floating spots, feeling like sand in the eyes, burning, smarting or itching eyes, and many other eye troubles can be relieved by wearing glasses correctly fitted. Let me give you the value of my 31 years' experience in fitting glasses for eyes in all its forms. You are invited to come where ab- solute accuracy in correcting eye de- fects is placed above every other con- sideration. No extra charge for ex- amination. My prices are lower than elsewhere for the service and material you get of me, and I can refer you to thousands of prominent citizens of Marion and Polk counties that I have fitted since coming here.

The entire problem lies in these words—Rightly Fitted Lenses, Fitted by the Right Man.

Bankers Endorse It. Yesterday afternoon representatives of all of the leading banks in this section of the Willamette valley, includ- ing H. Hirschberg, of the Independence National bank; John H. Albert, of the Capital National bank; Cashier W. S. Walton, of the Ladd & Bush bank; E. M. Poor- man, of the Woodburn bank; and S. B. Elliott, of the Salem bank of Commerce, met and held a conference with the delegates' convention and went into ev- ery feature of the financial phase of the proposed corporation, and unani- mously pronounced it sound, conserva- tive, businesslike and altogether bank- able. All assured the grower delegates that their institutions were willing to co-operate with the movement in every way possible if organized upon the prin- ciples which were submitted to them.

All of the local banks will be fur- nished with copies of contract form and other documents to be adopted and used by the corporation in order that they may investigate them at their leisure and pass upon them. Another fea- ture of the financial end of the cor- poration, of interest to local banks, is that each bank will carry on its busi- ness with its grower client as at present and all of the monies received for the sale of hops, being the difference be- tween the contract price and the selling price, will be left in the local banks until final adjustment of the season's business is made and the dividend de- clared to the growers and stockholders. This will give the banks the privilege and benefit of the use of all moneys taken in by the corporation in their re- spective districts until final settlement of the season's business is made with the growers and stockholders. Under the form of contract to be adopted the grower is guaranteed the minimum price to be fixed by the board of directors, which will be sufficient to allow the grower a reasonable profit upon his product above the cost of pro- duction and graduated downward ac- cording to the grading of his hops, and, furthermore, he is given a dividend upon all moneys received for the hops above the contract price, an average for which will be struck at the close of the business season. This is to allow for the market fluctuations and to give ev- ery grower and stockholder an equal chance to share all of the profits of the corporation. The stockholders will also receive a dividend out of the commission paid in- to the corporation for the selling of the hops, and, after all dividends are paid, whatever balance or surplus is left over reverts to the permanent re- serve fund of the corporation. The board of directors are to be elected for a period of about five years and any member of it may be removed and re- placed by another stockholder at any time the corporation finds it advisable for the best interests of the corporation to do so.

Despite Decker's statement, however, the matter will be in- vestigated and Turkey will be asked to give its version of the affair. Previous attempts to com- munication with Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople have been delayed as much as a week. Decker reports the shot was not intended as a hostile act, but an investigation will be made.

To Have An Inspector. It has been proposed to select an ex- pert state hop inspector, whose duties will be to act as expert advisor to all of the growers during the cultivating, spraying and harvesting season, as to when to start in picking their hops, and, most important of all, what hops should not be picked at all. If the cor- poration puts into effect all of the pro- visions preparatory to the harvest of the crop, hundreds of acres of poorly- developed and diseased hops will never be harvested and placed upon the mar- ket to the detriment of the better grades of product and the utter demor- alization of the market and industry. One of the most important features of the corporation, without which the growers have been growing in utter darkness in the past, and absolutely at the mercy of the unscrupulous hop dealer, is the publicity department, the duties of which will be the collection of absolutely reliable and trustworthy news concerning the true conditions of the growing crops in all of the hop-pick- ing countries of the world, from the most reliable sources of information, and to disseminate such news and re- ports among all of the grower members of each organization at least once every week, and to report the exact conditions of the market and the selling price of hops throughout the season. This will be one of the manifold duties of the manager and his staff of assistants. The full list of delegates who have been in attendance at the tri-nate con- vention throughout its deliberations are: California—P. E. Blalock, George Hewlett and E. L. Cunningham, of the Mendocino County association; Bltz Paxton, president of the Sonoma County association, and W. E. M. Beardslee, president of the Sacramento Valley as- sociation. Washington—George Ker, president of the North Yakima associa-
