Corbett Says Willard Will Not Get Crack at Johnson

BY JAMES J. CORBETT
Former Heavy-weight Champion of the World.

New York, Nov. 21.—(Special to the Daily Capital Journal)—After all the wire pulling and manipulation on the part of his backers, if he begins to look as if Jess Willard will not get first crack at Jack Johnson for the world's title. The latest news concerning the future engagement of the champion is that either Sam McVea or Battling Jim Johnson is to be his next opponent, the battle to take place in Havana, Cuba, the latter part of March or early in April, 1915.

I have this information direct from a gentleman representing Mr. George Brant, of Havana, who is at the head of the syndicate organized to promote a series of heavy-weight matches during the coming Winter and Spring season. According to my informant, the plans originally called for a fight to a finish between Sam Langford and Sam McVea, the winner to meet Johnson. But it developed that McVea's manager, George Lawrence, at present in New York City, did not care for any of the "tar baby" game and entered his objections to Langford being made a principal. Then it is also thought that Johnson objected to any plans which would give him Langford for an opponent.

It has been announced in the New York papers that Jack Johnson and McVea have been matched, but according to my information this is a trifle premature. McVea's participation in a match with the champion depends entirely upon the success he meets with in the preliminary skirmish with Jim Johnson. The winner of that bout is to get the coveted chance for the title.

That the proposed impertinence of the "nigger fighters," as they are termed in Cuba, is not at all popular with certain interests in Havana is evident by the following excerpt from a recent issue of the Cuba News, a weekly newspaper published in that city:

"The Cuba News desires to enter an emphatic protest against the publisher of the Havana Post (Mr. Brant) to convince the people of Cuba that Americans, and especially that class of Americans who have the means and the desire for foreign travel, chase around after second rate nigger prize fighters, and spend lavish sums for the opportunity of seeing them bruisé each other. The News right here brands the statement that 20,000 tourists would come to Cuba to see two niggers put up perhaps a fake fight is a false and non-sensical statement, and the man who made it known it was false and non-sensical when he made it.

"The publisher of the Havana Post may be a nigger lover and enjoy such spectacles as he purports to pull off in Havana, but if he is he stands alone in his class. Instead of 20,000 tourists coming to Cuba to witness a second rate boxing match there would not be 100 persons actually attracted by the fight, and anyone who has seen prize fights and knows prize fighters and the followers of the game knows that there are not 20,000 persons in the United States who would pay $10 to see Langford and McVea fight, to say nothing of spending twenty times that sum for the expenses of their trip."

The New York papers erroneously announced a bout between Jack Johnson and McVea, and nothing has been said about the preliminary match between McVea and Jim Johnson as determined which is to be the champion's opponent. From the foregoing article it would appear that the promoters of the proposed matches will meet with considerable opposition in their attempt to introduce the sport in Cuba through the medium of negro fighters. The statement that the United States would send 20,000 people to see Langford and McVea fight (this was printed before the shift had been made), is absurd. It is extremely doubtful if a baker's dozen would travel to Cuba even to see Johnson and Langford, and that lay-out would be made up solely of newspaper men who would go because it came as part of their duties. But with the big negro population in Havana the venture may be able to make a little money, leaving the greater profits to come from the sale of moving picture rights.

Anyway it looks as if Willard has been left in the cold for the time being.

While on the subject of negro fighters a word concerning this Harry Wills, the New Orleans heavy-weight now matched to box Sam Langford twenty rounds in

BOWLING SCHEDULE FOR ENTIRE SEASON

CLASS "B" LEAGUE ORGANIZED AND WILL TRY AND SHOW THE BOYS HOW REAL GENUINE BOWLING IS DONE.

On account of the interest in bowling in this city, which has been aroused by the City Bowling League and the Willamette Valley League, William Steuterman, of the Electric alleys, and "Bunny" Meiring, of the Club alleys, the two bowling magnets of the city have organized a class "B" league to be called the Commercial League. The players of this league are chosen from those not playing in either of the other two leagues. Their games will be played alternately on the Electric and Club alleys as the city league games run, and when the city league plays at the Club alleys the Commercial league plays at the Electric alleys, and vice versa.

The first game will be played at the Club alleys November 30, when the Elks Junior team clashes with the Capitals. There are six teams in the league and the 60 game schedule will extend to April 15. The following is the lineup of the teams:

Elks Juniors—Dan Langenberg, Joe Reinhardt, Oliver Meyers, Art Wallace, H. J. Eberley.

Capitals—G. Boyer, James Allison, James Young, William Chamberlain, Jack Zinger.

Beavers—Achison, Harold Smith, Harold McKinney, Dean Curtis, William Huggins.

Federals—John Sandis, Clarence Shaw, Peter Yost, Bert Whirley, James Kappahan.

Pirates—Victor Beckman, Giffroy, Spiker, Jackson, Max Page.

Cubs—Charles Marr, Floyd Bailey, Duncan Day, Marion Beam, William Samp.

The schedule:

in negotiations for a bout. Any move to put obstacles in the way of a match by a demand for practically all the receipts will not tend to enhance Freddy's popularity with the sports.

Kid Williams, bantam champion, has consented to box six rounds with Battling Lahn the latter part of this month. Lahn is the young Brooklynite of whose good work in the ring I had occasion to write several weeks ago. This little cross-eyed bantam has been stopping his men so regularly as to become monotonous and an engagement with the champion was sure to result. That Williams has not dodged the issue shows that he is no way alarmed concerning his laurels.

I haven't seen Lahn in action lately. I recall seeing him in a preliminary a year or so ago and my attention was attracted to him then by a friend who believed he saw great possibilities in the youngster. In many respects he resembles the present title-holder, depending on his great strength and endurance to withstand punishment, but he seems to pack a heavier wallop than Williams. In fact, the champion has not scored anywhere near the number of "K. O.'s" that have been placed to the credit of Lahn.

But Williams has been meeting the classier boys. It is only lately that Lahn has been given matches with the best of the bantams around the east, where they abound in great numbers. To his credit it must be said that he has done everything asked of him and in workmanlike manner. In Williams he will meet a tough little scrapper who is willing to risk it all the time, and the chances are that the bout may not go the limit when these hard wallowers clash. A big delegation of Brooklyn fans will make the trip to Philadelphia with Lahn, and they expect to bring a new champion back home with them.

GREAT BOWL SEATING 70,000 WILL BE FILLED

Managers Assert Every Ticket Sold Days Ago for Yale-Harvard Game

(By Hal Sheridan.)
(Written for the United Press.)

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 21.—In the largest arena in the world and before the greatest crowd that ever witnessed a sporting event anywhere, Harvard meets Yale today in the annual gridiron battle which will dedicate this monster new home of the Blue Devils.

The massiveness of this structure, built around the field where the 22 men of the Blue and of the Crimson will clash for the honor of their alma maters, fairly takes away one's breath. There are seats for 60,000 spectators in the tier upon tier of steps. On the rim of the bowl have been erected 10,000 additional seats. Graduate Manager of Athletics Everard Thompson announced today that every one of the 70,000 tickets had been sold or reserved three days ago.

In the distribution by allotment of this vast number of tickets, Manager Thompson hit upon a plan by which he believes he has completely eliminated the speculators, who had hoped to reap a veritable harvest. Each applicant was made to fill out a blank with his name, address and class in college. This rule held with Harvard students and graduates as well as those from Yale.

Money for tickets had to accompany each blank. Each applicant was numbered up to 70,000. The Yale and Harvard athletic associations received $140,000, which will be evenly divided. The new bowl cost Yale $500,000 and is made entirely of concrete. The top, which is 55 feet above the gridiron, is 380 yards—a half mile—in circumference. The person who wants to walk back and forth along the tier of seats until he has covered every tier, would have 24 miles of pacing to his credit. The bowl is to be used exclusively for football games, and inside of six years is no standing room in the structure. It took a force of 1000 students and salaried officials to show the spectators to their seats today.

The average weight of the Yale players was 183 pounds. The Harvard aggregation averaged three pounds less.

Only those acquainted with a subject are competent to decide as to its merits and practical value.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS GAME AT CORVALLIS

Corvallis, Ore., Nov. 21.—Ideal weather conditions prevailed here for the annual football game this afternoon between the Oregon Agricultural College and the University of Oregon teams. Thousands of fans arrived here by special trains from Portland, Eugene, Salem, Albany and other cities.

In the face of the dope, the Aggies have a slight advantage. The farmers have not been defeated this year and hold a no-score tie with the University of Washington, who Oregon lost to the Washingtonians by the score of 19 to 0 last Saturday.

The coaches of both teams declared their players were in the finest of condition and a close game was anticipated.

RITCHIE GETS COLD FEET

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—Promoter James W. Coffroth admitted here today that all hope of bringing Willie Ritchie and Freddie Welsh together in a 20-round bout in San Francisco before the anti-boxing amendment becomes effective, had vanished. And he flatly declared that the greenness of Ritchie was responsible.

"I'm through with Ritchie," said Coffroth, "for all time. He came to me and asked that a match be arranged with Freddie Welsh. Then after good progress had been made he declared he would not box Welsh unless I granted him a guarantee of $7,500, which I considered out of the question."

Ritchie kept away from Coffroth's office yesterday. When asked why he had not called on the promoter, Ritchie answered:

"A proposition was made to me to fight Welsh. I did not think there was enough money in sight and refused the offer. Coffroth sent word to me that I was to have a certain amount of time in which to think over the proposition, and if I did not write to accept he would secure Charlie White in my place. I told Mitchell the match was off so far as I was concerned, and to tell Coffroth so. This called off negotiations entirely. I assumed, and naturally there was no occasion for me to see the promoter."
