GERMAN CRUISERS ESCAPED BY TRICK

Changed Bow and Stern Lights and Dashed Through Line of British Ships

(By William G. Shepherd.) Berlin, Oct. 15.—(By mail to New York)—They are still chucking in the navy department here over the way in which the German cruisers—now the Turkish cruisers—Goben and Breslau swapped their bow and stern lights when they were trapped by the British Mediterranean fleet and escaped from right under the allies' guns.

THOUGHT SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo.—"I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something. I had nervous spells and my fingers would cramp and my face would draw, and I could not speak, nor sleep to do any good, had no appetite, and everyone thought I would not live.

Som. one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had taken so much medicine and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong.

"I have always recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefited by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other poor woman from suffering."—Mrs. MARTHA SEAVEY, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

us. We are bottled up." With such odds in the Britons' favor, the admiralty officials naturally expected to hear next that both the German ships had been destroyed. But the next morning there came another wireless.

"Battleships still facing us." It began to get on the admiralty officials' nerves. Why did not the British ships blow the two German vessels out of the water and end the suspense? Five days passed. Two or three times each day the Goeben would announce: "Battleships still facing us."

Then came a day on which nothing was heard. "The English have cut loose at last," mourned the navy men in Berlin. Germans wept for the officers and crews of the two craft as for the dead.

But two days later, from a point 500 miles away from the place where the two German sea fighters had been "faced" by the British squadron, this cheerful wireless from the Goeben: "We escaped."

The navy officials decorum went to pieces for a few minutes after this message arrived. Staid old men cheered like school boys.

OIL AT TENINO

Tenino, Wash., Nov. 24.—Oil has been struck in the Crescent well at Tenino. It was brought to the surface shortly after noon today in the presence of 4,000 wildly enthusiastic people.

When the crowd gathered for the heralded uncapping of the Crescent well, a baler was lowered into the well and then brought to the surface. Its contents were emptied into a large tub. A stream of water flowed first from the baler and this was followed by a jet of heavy green oil. As the heavy liquid poured from the baler a great shout went up from the people.

Emery C. Williamson, secretary-treasurer of the Crescent company mounted the derrick following the display of oil and addressed the crowd.

TALKS ON THRIFT

No. 46—Cupid and the Bank Account.

"By proper self-denial in expenditures, any man with a moderate income, can find himself at 60 years of age without means to live without work if he wants to do so."

The heroine of this tale is to be married this month, and she will make a good wife, there's no doubt about it.

When bride and groom move into their cozy flat, they will have a handsome outfit of bedroom furniture all paid for by savings made by the young couple during that usually expensive period between the engagement and the wedding.

And this is the way it came about: For a while the young man's desire to do everything he could to entertain his fiancée in the customary style was uncurbed.

But this was an unusually sensible girl. So very soon she took her fiancé aside and said to him:

"George, I've had enough of this extravagance. Hereafter I'm going to take the will for the deed almost every time you propose some expensive stunt."

"You're to give me the money you were planning to spend and I'll put it into this little metal bank and on the first of every month we'll take it to the bank and deposit it in our fund to buy furniture with when we start keeping house."

Of course, George fell in readily with the plan and they really got as much pleasure from saving in this way and anticipating the purchase of things to add to the comfort and attractiveness of their future home as they formerly had in wasting money on a temporary "good time."

THE STOREKEEPER GOT ONE OF THE ROBBERS

Portland, Ore., Nov. 24.—A number of shots were exchanged in a revolver battle in the rear room of Jarl's general merchandise store at Kelo, early Monday between Charles Jarl, the proprietor, and two robbers who fled, leaving behind an outfit of nitro-glycerine and dynamite with which they intended to blow the safe.

HOP PRICE IS DOWN LOW

Hops are down as low as seven and a half cents a pound in Eugene. That price was paid by Bud Koopp, representing A. J. Misdler, of Aurora, yesterday for 29 bales of the King crop grown near Coburg.

This is the lowest price yet paid for this year's crops around here and is the lowest for several years. This will not pay the expense of growing and harvesting the crop.

Choice hops down the state are bringing a higher price according to advices from Portland. A few days ago McKinley Mitchell sold to T. A. Livesley & Co., 240 bales at 11 cents and the Seavey Hop company has bought the Dodson crop of 75 bales at Airlie, Polk county and the Elson crop of 80 bales at Aurora, both at nine and a half cents.

H. L. Hart purchased 32 bales from R. Jacobson, of McMinnville, at eight and a half cents and 24 bales from McConnell at eight and a quarter cents.

Other sales in this state include the Porterville crop of 80 bales at Independence at 11 cents, 108 bales by W. E. Williams, Jr., of Airlie, at nine cents, and 100 bales by Mrs. Knapp, of Aurora.

NO SUBMARINE MISSING. Berlin, by wireless via Saville, Nov. 24.—"British reports of the destruction of a German submarine," asserted the admiralty here today, "are untrue; no submarine is missing."
