

SOCIAL, CLUB AND MUSICAL EVENTS OF THE WEEK

CHIRSTMAS day for 1914, also, is a matter of history, and what a beautiful day it was! Everybody celebrated the festival appropriately, which means that, while the plans of some were necessarily more elaborate than those of others, there was not one home in the city where an observance of some kind was not possible.

Who has not read with delight the stories of English country house parties and dreamed of some day enjoying such a bit of merry-making as is so fascinatingly set forth with the surroundings of fine old estates and the hospitality that always seems the most perfect hospitality in the world? With plenty of space and plenty of the good things of earth, and plenty of the spirit that is more than houses or lands or anything purchasable, what more delightful way of entertaining could there be than assembling congenial friends for a few days and spending the time in merriment and holiday fun?

Hundreds of Salem homes were opened in this way, relatives and friends coming from near and far to form happy house parties for the holidays. And while those who are more fortunate are celebrating in this more festive way, we are forced to admit the want and in some instances actual poverty exists in our own city, but the knowledge of our charitably inclined people and organizations assures us that these will all be properly cared for during the time of their necessity. However, at its worst our distress is so trivial that of hundreds and thousands in Europe, and when yesterday we read the dispatches from the war zone, relating the pathetic attempt at celebrating the day in the countries where the Star was obscured by the smoke of battle and the angelic anthem could not be heard for the noise and din of conflict, we were filled with a feeling of profound gratitude, and any complaint which we might be inclined to make was changed instead to a song of thanksgiving.

THE past week was given over almost entirely to the little folk and the boys and girls home from school. Society joined with the various charitable organizations in doing deeds of philanthropy, and many homes were made happy by needed gifts, whose donors will never be made known. The younger set, joined by dozens of college and out-of-town friends, always has a good time, and with the ice on the Willamette slough several inches thick this diversion offered a foremost attraction, and also to many of the older folks as well.

The "Christmasy" weather of the past week has been ideal for gathering Christmas trees, decorative greenery and splendid clusters of the berry-laden mistletoe. Groups of merry young folk could be seen daily on any of the roads leading from Salem, in walking and auto parties, in quest of the beautiful evergreens, colorful foliage and rose tips which assisted so largely in bearing out the spirit of the day.

A number of Salem homes displayed sturdy little trees and appropriate decorations, as the result of an expedition into the country by a group of high school teachers, pupils and university students Thursday. Composing the party were Miss Emily Palmer, Miss Regina Long, Miss Enid Elliott, Miss Ruby Ransdell, Miss Marie Ransdell, G. D. Beck, Willett Ransdell, Harold Eakin and Dana Elliott of the University of California.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hutton, of Portland, joined Governor and Mrs. West and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Olcott in a family reunion yesterday. Mrs. Hutton is expected to remain for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Blomquist, of Portland, will spend Christmas and the week-end with the Dr. William H. Lytle. Mrs. Blomquist and Mrs. Lytle are sisters. Thomas Hill, a brother from Pendleton, will also be a holiday guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray D. Gilbert spent Christmas with relatives in Eugene. Mrs. Gilbert returned this week from Portland, where she passed a month with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Roy Mills was hostess at one of the most enjoyable sessions of the LaCoudre club, entertaining the members recently at her Court street home, asking Mrs. James Chinnock, Mrs. Grant Bonnell and Mrs. Charles K. Spaulding additionally. Mrs. Walter Spaulding and Mrs. Paul Johnson assisted in serving the chafing dish luncheon at the artistically ornamented table, centered with a miniature Christmas tree. Yuletide greens made the rooms a most attractive setting for the guests, who have devoted their pre-holiday sessions to fashioning gifts. Owing to the festival of Christmas and New Year's claiming general attention, the next date for club meeting has been postponed until the Saturday following January first, when Miss Zen Stockton will be at home to the members.

The following pleasing bit of news is taken from Sunday's issue of the Morning Astorian, concerning the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Eakin, of Astoria, formerly of Salem:

"Miss Eleanor Eakin, after whom the heroine of 'Daddy Long Legs' is named, this week received a dramatized copy of the book from the author, Jean Webster. Miss Eakin's full name is Jerusha Eleanor Eakin, and her nickname is 'Judy.'"

Almost everyone has read the charming story which appeared in installments in a popular magazine recently. To have read it was to have enjoyed it, and to those who know its interesting heroine personally the book will be especially appreciated.

Miss Eakin is an attractive young girl of about twelve, and is a sister of Miss Mary Eakin, whose engagement was announced recently. The latter is expected to arrive shortly to be the guest of Miss Ellen Tholens.

An announcement occasioning more than ordinary regret is that of the removal of the A. M. Crawford to Portland. During their many years' residence in Salem, they have been prominently identified both in social and professional circles. Mrs. Crawford is a foremost figure in the former, scene of the most brilliant events of the Capital city's social history taking place at her home. The numerous smaller events ever which she has promised have also been equally pleasing, and her presence has added materially in making numerous affairs given by others a success. During these years Mr. Crawford has served as attorney general, and he is one of the best liked men in official circles.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, with their son, James, who has been associated with his father in his office, and who is a popular member of the younger set, plan to leave shortly after the New Year.

A round of complimentary affairs will feature the last week of Mrs. Crawford's stay in Salem, many pretty far-well attentions having already been paid her. The largest event at which she will be honored guest will be the "open house" reception given next Thursday afternoon from three to five o'clock at the rectory of St. Paul's church. All friends, as well as members of the church, will be welcomed, and it will no doubt be charming in every detail.

Tuesday evening of this week Mrs. William T. Slater entertained with an informal evening for the pleasure of Mrs. Crawford. Christmas decorations bore out the holiday spirit, the hours being pleasantly passed with "500." Those gathered about the small tables were: Mr. and Mrs. George Wood, Miss Helen and Tom Wood, Dr. and Mrs. Walton Van Winkle, James Crawford, Paul Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, Rev. and Mrs. Robert S. Gill, Mrs. Frederick Stewart and Richard Slater.

Others who have already contributed enjoyable little affairs for Mrs. Crawford are: Mrs. George Woods, Mrs. Robert S. Gill, Mrs. Whitton Van Winkle and Mrs. J. A. Churchill.

The Crawford's have secured a charming residence in Irvington, at 352 North Twentieth street. Mr. Crawford and James to have offices in the Northwest corner bank building.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Elliott have with them for the holidays Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McCune, of Portland, and their son, Dana, from the University of California.

Miss Flora Waldorf, of Vancouver, Wash., and Miss Louise Waldorf, of Portland, were Christmas guests of Mrs. Mary Long and Miss Regina Long.

Announcements are out of the marriage of Miss Eva Hall, of this city, to William Bert Powell, of Portland, the ceremony taking place Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, the Rev. Albert C. Moses, of the Waverly Heights Congregational church, officiating. The service was read in the young couple's new home, 1132 East Croton street, only relatives and a few friends being in attendance. Miss Hall has many friends here, who regret that her marriage takes her from the city.

Governor and Mrs. Moody will entertain as a week-end guest their son, Malcolm Moody, of The Dalles.

Three charming girls compose a house party at the John McNary home, Miss Mildred Bagley, of Eugene, and Miss Margaret and Miss Gertrude Gray, of Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brown are home from Portland, where they were guests for the greater part of the week of the W. W. Bothertons, Mrs. Brown's parents.

Dr. J. C. Olinger is a holiday guest at the Dr. Harry H. Olinger home.

Christmas guests at the A. N. Moores home were Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Moores, Miss Bertha Moores and Miss Carrie Moores, all of Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Moores will return to their home tonight, the remaining guests staying for the week-end.

The holiday vacation is being fittingly celebrated with a merry house party at the B. C. Miles home on Court street. Miss Izra Miles and brother, Ross Miles, home from Pacific college, Newberg, have with them interesting college friends, Miss Luella Beas, Miss Henrietta Welch and Robert Dunn. They will return in time to take up their studies again January 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Minton, of Albany, are spending the holidays with relatives and friends here. They will be entertained as dinner guests by the R. B. Houston's today.

Among Salem people enjoying the coming week at Newport will be Mr. and Mrs. Hal D. Patton, Colonel E. Heffer, Paul Howe, James McTellan, and latter two to be joined by Professor James Shaw, of Corvallis.

David Warfield, the eminent actor in "The Auctioneer," at the Helix theater, Portland, next week, will attract many from Salem. Mrs. S. G. Sargent will go down for the Monday night performance, and many others have signified their intention of attending.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Waters will attend the David Warfield performance in Portland Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Prael, of Portland, were entertained as Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Eldridge. Mr. Prael returned to his home last night, but Mrs. Prael will remain for several days.

CHIC TROTTER SUIT DEVELOPED UPON REDINGOTE LINES

This serviceable and dainty costume is designed to be worn on country trips, on the golf links or during the morning shopping expedition.

The George K. Waters' home was another where the festival of Christmas was observed with a gathering of relatives and friends. Those who enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Waters were Mr. and Mrs. John Blakely and daughter, Zelma; Mrs. E. E. Waters, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Kightlan, Wayne Waters and Northrup Waters, of Portland.

The second dancing party to be given by the Ladies' club will occur Monday night and is looked forward to by those in receipt of invitations as being one of the most delightful events of the Yuletide calendar. Scores of holiday guests from out-of-town will be among "those present," and a large number from nearby towns will arrive tomorrow and Monday for the event, being slain as guests of Salem friends during their stay. Mr. Clarence Bishop, of Pendleton, holiday guest of the C. P. and H. C. Bushops, will attend, and the Bishop's will also entertain as members of their party on the night Miss Lorraine Young and Miss Anna Dawson, of Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Young, of Albany, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Slade, of Silverton, will be guests of the John J. Roberts.

Christmas day at the John J. Roberts home was celebrated according to the beautiful old-fashioned custom, with an all-day house party. Guests came early, the following circling the prettily appointed Christmas dinner table: Mr. and Mrs. Claude Slade, of Silverton; Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Smith, Mrs. M. A. Goff, Miss Anna Stout, Malin Smith, Prita Slade and Dr. D. S. Fields. The climax of the day, however, occurred later in the evening when the den was opened displaying the splendor and cheer, with its twinkling candles, gay festoons and gifts for all.

Robert Prael, of Portland, will arrive shortly to be the guest of Freeman Boise, at the E. P. Boise home.

A Christmas guest at the P. S. Craig home was Frank Harritt, of Eugene, formerly of Salem, who was the guest of Charles Craig. He will remain for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Poage have with them for the holidays Edwin Cox, of the University of Oregon.

Rev. Mr. Deeks and their children are in Eugene to spend the holidays with Mr. Deek's parents. They will return after New Year's.

Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Cooper, of Carlton, Ore., are spending the holidays with Mrs. Cooper's sister, Mrs. Carrie Chase.

Celebrating the Christmas table of the Louis Sheboun in Albany were Mr. and Mrs. Roma Hunter and daughter Mayvel, and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Caldwell, of Perrydale, and their children. Guests remained for the day, the festivities culminating delightfully with a pretty tree.

Thursday afternoon, December 24, the marriage of Miss Lois Katherine Wilson and Mr. Francis Edwards Neer was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wilson, at 152 North Thirteenth street. Rev. Mr. Sherman, of Corvallis, officiating, and using the impressive ring service. The color scheme through the house was carried out in green and red, smilax and poinsettias being used. In the living-room palms were banded, forming a background for the ceremony. The bride wore a beautiful gown of ivory crepe de meteur and lace, carrying a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Her veil being held in place with white hyacinths. Miss Winifred Patterson, of Corvallis, played Lohengrin's wedding march during the ceremony.

Mrs. Neer, by her charming personality, has won herself a host of friends both in Salem and Corvallis. Mr. Neer, although not so widely known here, comes from Pasadena, Cal., where a large circle of relatives and friends join in heartfelt good wishes. Mr. Neer is one of the supervisors of the Los Angeles school gardens. The romance which culminated in the marriage Thursday began with their college days at the Oregon Agricultural college, where both graduated in the class of 1914.

The wedding was a very quiet affair, only relatives and a few college friends being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Neer will be at home after January 21 at Los Angeles, Cal.

A party of relatives and friends numbering 35 gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cummings, corner of Fourteenth and State streets, Christmas day to enjoy the day in a fitting manner. The house was beautifully decorated with holly and mistletoe. A splendid dinner was served. A pretty tree with its lovely decorations, added to the enjoyment of the younger ones. A program consisting of instrumental and vocal solos and recitations added much to the pleasures of the day. Later games were indulged in, which ended the celebration of a really old-fashioned Christmas day, which was enjoyed by all present.

With the Dr. H. E. Lee Steiners for Christmas and the week-end, were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Kerron, of Portland.

A charming little breakfast party was Miss Paula Linn's contribution to a number of her close girl friends to usher in the merry Christmas day. Holiday greens were in evidence throughout the house, smilax, splendid poinsettias, blossoms, holly and a pretty tree representing the season most artistically. Covers for this pretty affair were laid for Miss Carolyn Dick, Miss Marjorie Kay, Miss Margaret Rodgers, Miss Ida Spaulding and Miss Eliza Nolan.

A marriage of the New Year of much interest will be that of Miss La Rue East, daughter of Mr. W. G. East, of Newport, to Dr. D. R. Ross, of Salem, which will take place at the East home January 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Alberts have with them in holiday guests, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Krusone and daughter, Helen, of Portland; Miss Anna Andrews, of Long Beach, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Jorgensen and Mrs. Sarah Daley, of Portland. Miss Andrews will remain for a month or more. The party joined the John Griffiths yesterday to celebrate the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth M. Kerren and son, James, of Eugene; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Knight, of The Dalles, and Mr. and Mrs. James C. Wagner, of Portland, were Christmas guests of the Henry W. Fawcett and Miss Elene Fawcett, and all will remain for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Marcus entertained as Christmas and week-end guests Mrs. Marcus' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Watt, of Portland, and their children, Miss Lois, Thomas and Ernest.

The H. E. Bollingers entertained Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Moores, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hoff and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Huff, of Portland, for Christmas. Miss Clara Bollinger, of Aberdeen, Wash., at so joining their house party.

The Frank Meredith, P. A. Legg and J. W. Meredith families united with the latter in reunion to celebrate Christmas day.

Governor West has appointed Mrs. Millie R. Trumbull, Mrs. Sarah A. Evans, Mrs. L. Grace Mrs. Robert H. Tate and Mrs. W. F. Osburn, all of Portland, as delegates to the eleventh annual conference of national child labor to be held in Washington, D. C., January 26.

One of the most beautiful celebrations in recognition of Christmas was that presided over by Dr. and Mrs. M. P. Mendelsohn, who entertained with an elaborately planned dinner at the hotel Marion, and with music and cards later at their residence, 235 Canton street. Thirty Portland guests came down for the event, among them being Dr. Mendelsohn's son, Harry P. Mendelsohn, and his fiancée, Miss Gertrude Lesser, in honor of whose approaching nuptials the festivities were held. The guests arrived on the ten o'clock limited electric train and were met at the depot with taxis and conveyed to the Mendelsohn residence. The rooms were beautifully decorated with Christmas colors of red and green, festoons of vining ivy, smilax, carnations, ferns and potted plants, lending most artistic embellishments.

Dinner was served at the hotel, in the red room, at one o'clock. The table was lavishly with ornaments of smilax, evergreen, ferns and carnations. Miniature dolls costumed in bridal array marked the places for the two honor guests, and "Kewpie" place cards designated those of the remaining guests. The appointments were exquisite throughout, and the Portland visitors were delighted with the service and handsome interior of Salem's hostelry. They proclaimed the former to be equal to that of any hotel, cafe or restaurant in their home city. Following the dinner, cards and an impromptu musical program was enjoyed at the residence, a buffet luncheon being served by Mrs. Mendelsohn, assisted by Mrs. S. Mendelsohn, previous to the guests' departure.

Mrs. J. W. Cox very pleasantly entertained the Marigold club Wednesday, December 23. The house was tastefully decorated in the seasonable colors. A dainty luncheon was served. The club will meet with Mrs. Colonel Olmsted, 476 Marion street, January 6. All members are requested to be present.

MUSICAL

AT THE First Baptist church tomorrow evening, beginning at half past seven o'clock, the Cherrian annual service will take place, with special Christmas music, and a sermon by Rev. Harry E. Marshall, a popular member of the organization, who will use as his subject, "A Drummer and His Samples."

The Cherrians will meet in uniform at the Commercial club at seven o'clock and enter the church in a body.

The younger pupils of Mrs. W. A. Denton gave their first recital for the season Monday afternoon at the studio on Twelfth street. Only parents of the children were present. It was an enjoyable event for the children and their guests as well. The program was interspersed with Christmas music. Songs were rendered by Ruth Griffith, Florence Elgin, Frances Hodge, Elbert Lauchie and a chorus by the girls of the class, each one entering into the spirit of their music.
The piano numbers were very well rendered and were heartily applauded. The music room was appropriately decorated in the Christmas colors, red and green; red carnations, with holly, mistletoe and Oregon grape being used effectively. A decorated Christmas tree was banded behind the piano, making a beautiful background for the instrument and performers. Christmas bells also festooned the room.
Those taking part were: John Curry, Madeline Brown, Pauline Maxmuth, Helen Eomer, Pauline Patterson, Ruth Moore, Blonnie Carter, Elbert Lauchie, Monford Adams, Galena Aufranc, Lola Barr, Ruth Griffith, Florence Elgin, Miltie Steiner, Eugenia Bondhuson, Louis Frost, Mary Hall, Frances Hodge, Mary Hall, Catherine Vincent, Earl Shafer.
