

VARIED FEATURES OF OSTROM'S WORK

Evangelist Reaches People of All Classes in His Campaign for Betterment

A unique feature of Henry Ostrom's work is the varied character of it. He reaches all classes of people. All denominations rally to his efforts in these united campaigns for the betterment of the cities. And this is true in the small towns and villages as well as in the big cities.

The dedication of the tabernacle promises to be the big feature of the week. Stores and offices are expected to close and the schools as well.

Thursday is to be known as a Day of Prayer beginning in the early morning hours with neighborhood prayer meetings in many homes and continuing with public prayer services in the First Methodist church with a new leader each hour until 7:30 p. m. when the mass meeting will be held in the tabernacle.

TWO COMPENSATION BILLS IN RACE AT ONCE

Schubel Has Measure for House, Bingham in Senate. Contest Now Over First Passage of Bill.

House bill 222, Schubel's bill proposing to readjust the rates to be charged the employers in the different classifications of hazardous employment in amendment of the rates at present in force under the state workmen's compensation act will come up for third reading and final passage in the house some time today and it is expected that it will be the signal for one of the hottest legislative fights of the session to date.

Senator Bingham's bill in the senate, No. 108, which is also up for third reading and since there is bitter rivalry between the two bills, the one which receives the highest number of votes in its favor in either branch of the legislature stands the best chance of becoming a law.

Those who are familiar with the workings of both laws claim that the Bingham bill simply turns the matter of accident insurance over to the casualty companies to be conducted under the supervision of the casualty companies, which also prescribe the rates, collect the dues and adjust the claims of the injured workmen, also upon their own schedule of indemnity rates, and reap a handsome profit upon the cost of administration at the expense of the employers.

Statistics are quoted from the latest report upon the Michigan law which show that of every dollar paid in for accident insurance the workman receives 25 per cent and the insurance companies 61 per cent. It is also shown that, under the present compensation act, the cost of operation of the Oregon industrial accident commission is less than 7 1/2 per cent, while the casualty companies pay their agents three times that amount.

It has been claimed that the Oregon industrial accident commission is on the verge of insolvency, whereas a last report shows that there is $150,202 in the general fund, $45,025 owing by the state, or a total of $201,274 cash in the treasury.

Bavarians Ban Stories About Foes' Atrocities

Berlin, Jan. 20.—(By mail).—The Bavarian War Ministry, in a circular warning newspapers against disregarding the rules of the censorship, says of a particular case: "The Munich Augsburg Evening Gazette published in No. 325 an article written by Hans Bayerl in Karlsruhe, entitled 'England's and France's Colored Troops,' in which horrible atrocities were reported. The official investigation has disclosed that the author is not able to adduce the slightest proof for his assertions. Inasmuch as the populace is needlessly aroused by such thoughtless articles, written only for the sake of coarse sensation, the editors of this newspaper must be strongly warned against giving space to such articles hereafter."

While the authorities of the other German states have not taken similar action in regard to atrocity tales, such stories have practically disappeared from all but a few of the less responsible papers. A great part of the credit for the saner mood now prevailing in this regard is given to the Socialist paper Vorwarts, which from the first set out immediately to show the groundlessness of atrocity tales.

RECEPTION TO OFFICERS.

The spirit of war pervaded the atmosphere at the Army in this city Tuesday night, yet the dove of peace, love and honor was still hovering over the assemblage gathered for a fitting farewell to Adjutant-General W. E. Finzer, of the Oregon National Guard, resigned, and Colonel C. H. Martin, commanding the Third Regiment, O. N. G., who has been summoned by the federal government to return to duty with the regular army. There was a large attendance of interested and enthusiastic citizens of both sexes. The program began at a little past 8 o'clock with a selection by the company band, under the direction of Professor McDougall, and the numbers by this excellent musical organization throughout the evening elicited much applause. The boys played exceedingly well, their ability giving many who heard them for the first time a pleasurable surprise. The band interspersed the drills and speeches with selections and added materially to the entertainment.

Foot and Mouth Scourge Discovered in Kansas

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 2.—Squid in Kansas of the foot and mouth disease, discovered in a dairy herd near Winfield, Kansas, is today considered most unlikely by William H. Weeks, assistant general manager of the Kansas City stock yards company, because of the fact that the infected cattle had not been unloaded from the time they left Wisconsin until they arrived in Winfield.

Dr. James Fleming, government inspector in charge at the stock yards declared he did not expect the quarantine of Crowley, Sedgwick, Stanton and Butler counties to affect the market here as that section is grass country and not many cattle are shipped from there this time of the year. All cattle usually shipped from these counties ordinarily go to the Wichita stock yards.

Deputies guarded the infected cattle during the night to prevent a spread of the disease, and the state live stock commissioner will supervise the killing of the herd.

For Counties Infected.

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 2.—Appearance of the foot and mouth disease in Kansas, and the quarantine of four counties is expected to be followed immediately by the introduction of a bill by the legislature providing for reimbursement of the farmers for their livestock killed in the fight against the epidemic.

Stockton Bandit Escapes After Revolver Battle

Stockton, Cal., Feb. 2.—Stockton's street car bandit, who is thought to be the same man who has been robbing cars in Sacramento, got away again last night, but a policeman shot the street car conductor in the leg. Policemen Washburn and Gaou had bid in an unoccupied house at the end of the Ophir street line, which point had been a favorite field of operations for the street car robber. The latter appeared on time and held up the car crew, composed of Motorman Dennis Norton and Conductor Eugene Fessler. The motorman had a revolver, and when ordered to hold up his hands, he backed into the shadow. The robber followed him into the shadow of the car's headlight, whereupon the motorman promptly fired at him. The bandit returned the fire and then fled. Conductor Fessler followed him, thinking to keep him in view until the policeman arrived. The officers dashed out of the house, and seeing a man running, fired. Fessler fell with a bullet in his leg. The wound is not serious. The robber secured nothing.

San Diego Exposition Was Well Attended

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 2.—Despite the heavy rains since the opening of the Panama-California exposition here, together with the cool nights, 180,170 persons passed through the exposition gates during the month of January. This was the official announcement of Director General H. O. Davis. It means, Davis says, that the exposition has been a financial success, fully paying expenses in the opening month, and that the attendance records for the month of almost all other expositions have been broken. San Diego has gone ahead of Omaha, Buffalo, St. Louis and Nashville for first month attendance. As against 180,270 for the first month here, it is pointed out that the opening month figures at Omaha were but 166,822; Buffalo 179,337; St. Louis 125,754; and Nashville 104,255.
