THREE TEAMS TIED FOR SECOND PLACE IN LEAGUE

Watt Shipp Gauntlet Still Maintain Position at Top of Column

As a result of the basketball games at the Y. M. C. A. gym last night between the teams of the Commercial league, three are now tied for second place with a percentage of 500, and the race grows in interest. The first game was won by the Bishops from the Capital National bank by a score of 17 to 6. Baker, the bankers' captain and center, was out of the game with an injured hip, and his loss was keenly felt. Without him the bankers' offense was weak and the substitute center could not keep Brooks from shooting baskets.

The Capital Business college took the second game from the Bishops by a score of 28 to 5. The score should have been even larger in favor of the stenographers but the forwards failed to play together and Compton was overruled time after time while Geoffrey struggled for a chance to shoot in a mob of players.

The Watt Shipp defeated the Hansers 19 to 7 and maintained their lead at the top of the percentage column. Brill and Manning work well with Carson, the center, like veterans, and the success of the Watt Shipp has been due mainly to the team work of the team, as there are other teams in the league that are made up of stronger individual players. The league standing:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Shipp	6	0	100
Bankers	3	3	50
Bishops	3	3	50
Business College	3	3	50
Grocers	2	4	33.3
Hansers	1	5	16.6

Swiss-Italian Teams Wins Six Day Race

Chicago, Feb. 4.—The Swiss-Italian alliance proved too much for the remaining entries in Chicago's six day bicycle race at the International Amphitheater, and Egg and Verri, in a thrilling finish, took first money last night. Incidentally, the Egg-Verri variety set a new world's mark of 2504 miles—12 miles and 10 laps better than the old mark made at Madison Square Garden.

The Irish team of Moran and McNamara finished second. Egg and McNamara tied for individual honors in the sprints to decide the tie at the finish. Each scored 25 points. Verri made 20 points and Moran 23 points in the deciding sprints. First prize was $1000; second, $400; third, $75; fourth, $30; and fifth, $20. Carcano, Verri, De Bock, Verri and Walther-Baldell finished third, fourth and fifth in the order named.

American League Moguls Leave Gotham

(By Hal Sheridan.)
New York, Feb. 4.—Having taken a kick at the National league's pet theory of economy and adopted the playing schedule for 1935, the American league moguls folded their tents and quietly slipped away from New York today. Matters pertaining to spring training trips required their attention at "home" and there were few portents.

Economy has no place in the American league. Ben Johnson and his cohorts kicked the policy around for several hours at the Hotel Belmont before telling that the clubs could stand 25 players during the heat of the season. Barney Dreyfuss' pet plan to cut down the list to 21 was annihilated.

There were no trades. Bill Donovan of the Yankees set his foot down hard when the proposition was made to trade Peitz Meisel, the Amintive third sacker to the St. Louis Browns for Southpaw Earl Hamilton. And Joseph Lannin, owner of the Boston Red Sox put his fingers in his ears when the Yankees proposed to consummate a trade for one of his four left handers, Ruth, Leonard, Greg or Collins. Joe Birmingham almost wept with laughter when an attempt was made to trade him out of Joe Jackson. The suspension of the draft rule on the American association league was undecided. Magnates "passed the buck" to the National commission which is scheduled to meet either in Cincinnati or New York next Saturday.

The league will swing into action Wednesday, April 14, with Chicago at St. Louis, Cleveland at Detroit, New York at Washington and Boston at Philadelphia.

MAP SHOWING HOW RUSSIA IS FROZEN UP IN BALTIC SEA

This map illustrates the restrictions of the Russian fleet during the winter. The Baltic sea is practically unusable now for the most part. By using ice breakers Russia may keep a passage open for a larger area than she otherwise could, and it is reported that she is trying to buy ice breakers in America. An offer has already been made to New York city for a breaker owned by it.

DRUG CRAZED MAN DEFIES HIS RESCUERS

Crawls Out On Edge of Hotel And is Finally Roped By Firemen and is Hauled to Safety.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 4.—Drug crazed, W. A. Tracy, crawled out on a narrow ledge from his room on the seventh floor of a downtown hotel here early yesterday, and for an hour and a half fought off firemen who were called out to rescue him.

A great crowd was attracted by the screams of Tracy, who believed he was being pursued and loudly yelled for help. When another guest of the hotel endeavored to persuade Tracy to enter his room through a window, he refused. The firemen ran up an extension ladder but Tracy fought so bitterly he could not be picked off the ledge. Two firemen finally crawled out on the ledge and when Tracy kicked at one of them the other roped him by the foot. Screaming and kicking, Tracy was swung into space, and dangling at the end of the rope, was hauled to safety.

Motor Car Needed By Oregon Pastors

Eugene, Ore., Feb. 4.—The motor car is an essential need of a pastor in the Willamette valley, according to Rev. R. S. Gill, of Salem, who spoke before the Central Convention of the Episcopal church this afternoon. He commended the most economical method of bringing the most economical method of bringing the church to the rural districts. In his address he sketched the growth of the Episcopal church during the past decade, noting a very favorable record in advance of the increase of the population of the district. He stated that the seven Willamette counties, comprising the district, need four or five additional rectors.

The convention will close tonight with an address by Rev. F. K. Howard, chaplain of the city missions in Portland. He will speak upon city missions. This afternoon Arch Deacon Chambers, of Portland, in an address, spoke highly of the progress made by the Eugene church and of the improvements made during the year in the church and parson house.

A luncheon was held at noon today. Atilla Norman, of the Oregon Power company, was among the speakers, and he outlined the "every-member" canvass system of raising money.

THE MANICURE LADY

(By William F. Kirk.)
"I seen a gent in the subway last night, George," said the Manicure Lady, "that I honestly believe I could love all the rest of my born days. He was some handsome guy, but it wasn't his good looks alone which made me notice him. It was his tender mouth."

"You can't go much by that," observed the practical Head Barber. "A horse with a tender mouth is hard to drive. He might look as peaceful as an angel to you until he and you was spilled, and then there might be no living with him."

"I'd take my chances on that," declared the Manicure Lady. "I never seen a man with a mouth like that that wasn't good natured and ready to stand for any kind of dressmaker's bills with in reason. A mouth like that will wreath into a smile on the least provocation, but I wouldn't like to trust the rest of my sweet young life in the keeping of no square jawed gent. Every time I would kiss that kind of a husband before asking for some dough. I would feel as if I was kissing Tom Sharkey, and expect about as much in return. No, George, the way the hard times is, I think that every girl ought to pick out a husband with them little soft curves to his snout, denoting a gentle nature and a willingness to come across with a few bills upon demand or request."

"I never seen a fellow with a mouth like that unless he was broke," said the Head Barber. "The guy with the kink has mostly got them square jaws that you are kissing about. This world is full of money, kiddo, but the guys with the tender mouths ain't grabbing much of it. If I was going to choose a husband for a girl like you, he wouldn't have no tender mouth."

"But this gent that I was telling you about," said the Manicure Lady, "had an intellect that was something grand. I could tell it from the shape of his head. It was shaped like a pear, George, with most of it up at the top, which is supposed to be the seat of reason. I couldn't help thinking to myself about all the grand intellectual evenings that we would have, setting around in the library and talking about Henry W. Dickens and Lord Langfellow. After all, George, that is about half of this life, though I don't suppose a gent like you realizes it. Honing razors and betting on horses ain't what anybody could call truly intellectual."

"I was telling Mayme about this here I seen on the subway, and she didn't seem very enthusiastic, because she had a bean once that had more brains than money, and the only times she ever had with him was afterwards down to the public library, reading the works of the old masters instead of going to Coney Island or a good show, but as I told Mayme then, she didn't look far enough ahead. I say it is better to be married to a gent with a fair bankroll and a grand intellect than to be married to a gent with a grand bankroll and an intellect like Joe Grimm's. Of course, I don't want you to think that I regard a bankroll as a joke, George, when launching your bark on the sea of matrimony. Goodness knows I have reverence enough for a certain amount

Woman Whipped Man Burglarizing Home

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 4.—Awakened shortly before midnight by a burglar's flash light playing on her eyes, Mrs. E. S. Keebaugh said today that she bloodied the intruder's nose in a stand-up fight after he had knocked a pistol from her hand. The man fled, and escaped.

During a cool conversation with the burglar preceding the fist fight, Mrs. Keebaugh learned that the man was the same who recently informed a local newspaper, by mail, that he would write the editor a story of his coming robberies.

Mrs. Keebaugh was confined to her bed today suffering from bruises, her nightgown having been torn to shreds in the struggle. The adult male members of the family returned to the house from the movies shortly after the burglar's visit.

Reno May Become Socially Popular Again

Carson City, Nev., Feb. 4.—Reno is to come back into its own as the divorce center of America. This is indicated today by the attitude of the legislature and the governor toward an "easy divorce" bill which was passed by the lower house by a vote of 42 to 10 and is expected to pass the senate with little opposition.

The bill reduces the residence requirement in order to obtain a divorce in Nevada to six months. It is expected that the bill will be signed by the governor, following its passage by both houses of the legislature or will be permitted to become automatically effective by the executive's failure to take an action upon it.
