Steamship Is Attacked By German Submarine

Amsterdam, Feb. 12--The German submarine U-2 yesterday attacked the steamship Laertes of the Ocean Steamship company, off the Maas lightship. The captain, however, manipulated the liner so that the torpedo fired by the submarine missed its mark.

The Germans, however, continued to fire on the Laertes and riddled her funnel and several of her boats. News of the attack was received here today in a wireless message. The captain of the Laertes said the submarine rose suddenly in front of his ship and signalled for him to stop. After showing the Dutch flag, the captain refused and headed for neutral waters at full speed. The Laertes finally reached Ymouste and the submarine gave up the chase.

The man who would retain the good will of his friends should remember that there are a great many things he must not forget to forget.

WOULD BUILD CLUB HOUSE.

That an up-to-date club house should be built at the Country Club, one that would be a credit to the Capital City is the general opinion of the members of the club. As the season is approaching when many of the members will be on the grounds every day, the general feeling is that a suitable house should be erected before the season is in full swing.
