

AUCTION

The closing out sale of the Thompson & Co. high grade jewelry stock still continues and the sale is attended by large crowds both afternoon and evening, and by some of Salem's best people. Why, they know that this is the finest line of merchandise ever offered at public auction in the history of the city, and that this sale is on the square, and every article is just what the auctioneer represents it to be and is sold for just what it will bring.

TWO SALES EACH DAY

2:30 and 7:30 p. m. until all is sold. Useful presents given away at each sale.

UNCLE SAM IS KEEPING MARKSMANSHIP SECRET

Gun Crews Get Valuable Training—Only They Don't Crow About Their Hits

Washington, Mar. 14.—Uncle Sam is keeping his playing fox. At least, he's that way when it comes to letting the world know just how good his bright young gunners are on their navy target practices, and there is a reason.

It used to be the custom for the United States navy to parade its target marks, when the "foreword" Uncle Sam had done with this advertising. The ratings stopped proudly forth, and the United States knew where they stood, on hits and misses.

But he changed a lot of things—among them the matter of advertising how far and how fast and how many American gunners can shoot. He has records of the past and present, and comparison with other nations, is withheld for the most part.

Hence, when a few weeks since, general reader, you read that William Rufus, a reporter aboard the Texas, had smashed a world's record to smithereens by making eight hits with a four-inch gun, firing at a moving target twelve miles away, you didn't have the exact facts. Neither did you have exact information when you saw in the Georgia portrayed as Uncle Sam's champion.

But did break into the limelight, but the marks—whatever they may be—were made with a small gun.

And when the crew of the San Diego, while on the coast of the San Diego, shot the Colorado islands, with an eight-inch gun, firing at a rate of three and a half shots a minute, that was not all.

On the other hand, the real dyed-in-the-wool gunners, for the past year, when it comes to hitting the bulls eye with a 14-inch cannon, is L. V. Lindsey of the Texas, an ordinary seaman.

Manipulating one of these 14-inch guns and nailing the bell frequently is not feat, so Lindsey gets special recognition for his work.

The leading 12-inch gunners are W. Wood, seaman, on the Arkansas, and L. L. Talley, coxswain of the Georgia.

Back in the days when Uncle Sammy used to be a bit of advertising about his gunnery ability—say around 1896—there were three minutes from the target—11, 12 and 14 inch was considered satisfactory, while now a minute from a six inch gun was also looked upon as a paper figure.

And if the hits averaged three and a half per cent, as in the battle of Sampson, the day felt well content. The thing is that battle, however, was fought with small guns at a range less than ten miles.

But in these days of "Big Berthas" and like shooting and hitting in the United States navy is far higher than it used to be.

There are two shots a minute from the target guns and about eight from the smaller guns is considered a fair record. The hits, however, run high.

The big fourteen inch guns which can make a lot of wreckage up to 14 miles, and that was the record when last year were made public in 1911 in connection with the firing at the old Mexico target in Chesapeake Bay.

Unluckily, several of the Navy Department had this to say on the general subject of target practice, a few days ago.

"Some people complain that our navy has not enough target practice records. But I want to say that the records we had in going to Vera Cruz were more valuable than the hits made in the target. We picked up the target and everything ran like clockwork. The training was invaluable."

WOODBURN NEWS

(Capital Journal Special Service.) Woodburn, Or., March 14.—Miss Nellie and Gladys Binkley entertained a number of friends at their home Wednesday evening. The young people had the pleasure of having Mrs. C. L. Weaver of Portland with them who gave them a talk on "How they might be of service to those that are in need," and she also organized a "Queen Ester" circle. The officers elected were: Mrs. L. Poor, superintendent; Miss Nellie Binkley, president; Miss Mabel Kennedy, vice-president; Miss Mabel Kennedy, corresponding secretary; Miss Ethel Bonney, recording secretary; Miss Lois Beebe, treasurer; Miss Ruth Tansted, mite box secretary. After the business part of the meeting was over the girls enjoyed a social time in games and music after which a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses assisted by their sister, Mrs. W. T. Jenkins, and Misses Ruth Tansted and Jennette Christensen. Those enjoying the evening were: Lila Jerman, Lois Holler, Della Web, Gladys Adams, Louise Beaman, Edith Hawley, Martha Hawley, Mildred Simmons, Ruth Tansted, Ruth Austin, Hazel Wells, Mable Kennedy, Mildred Walker, Mable Simpson, Ethel Bonney, Mattie Larson, Minnie Settlemier, Adale Dimick, Catherine Evans, Lois Beebe, Janette Christensen, Lydia Boynton, Mrs. L. Mrs. Frank Wolf is visiting friends at Kalama, Washington. She expects to be away about two weeks.

Gus Taw of Salem spent Sunday with friends at Woodburn.

HOPS WINTER BADLY

George Oglesby was in the city Tuesday from Marks Prairie. Speaking of the condition of the hop yards, he predicted that there will be more missing hills in Oregon yards this spring than ever in the history of the state. He believes that from 10 to 12 1/2 per cent of the hills in his yard are dead. As everyone knows, the Oglesby yards receive the best care, and missing hills are usually scarce in those yards. If such a yard shows a heavy loss of hills it is probable that others may be in still worse condition.

Mr. Oglesby's only explanation of the loss is that the cold weather froze the roots. Other yards are reported with many missing hills.—Aurora Observer.

THE "BIG BROTHER" LEADER IN SALEM

Chester A. Lyon, On Lecture Tour, Speaks at Willamette University Today

Chester A. Lyon, owner and manager of The Big Brother Farm for Boys, is in Salem today in the interest of his work. This morning Mr. Lyon spoke before the students of Willamette University telling of his efforts in reclaiming boys. He is on a lecture tour, having lectured in the First Methodist church of McMinnville Sunday evening. His farm of 20 acres is located one and one-half miles due south of Lebanon, Oregon, where he takes the poorest and worst boys he can find in Portland. He gets all his boys through V. R. Manning of the Associated Charities of that city.

His first group of boys he expects to get June 28th, and will continue to get different groups of boys during the summer months.

Mr. Lyon is a very strong speaker, and is an expert on the boy problem. Despite the fact it was a stormy night last night the M. E. church in McMinnville was well filled, and he held the attention of his audience to the very last minute, his lecture lasting about 45 minutes.

Recently he has published a paper, from the farm, telling of his work for unfortunate boys and dealing in general with the Boy Problem. Prof. W. P. Drew, a former instructor in Willamette University, will be one of the writers for the paper; also Dr. Wallace H. Lee of Albany College, and Dr. C. J. Bushnell of Pacific University. Anyone who is a lover of boys should get in touch with him. He is financing the work himself, so far, but is on the lecture tour to create interest, and allow people to ask questions about his work. When asking Mr. Lyon what was the first step to reform he replied: "Interest is the first step to reform."

Hubbard Enterprise and Canby Herald Change Hands

L. C. McShane, an old newspaper man has purchased the Hubbard Enterprise, the newly little publication of the North Marion county section, of G. E. Brookins, who, in turn, has taken over the Canby Herald. Both deals were consummated this week although Mr. McShane has been operating the Enterprise since last October under lease and Mr. Brookins has been negotiating for the purchase of the Herald for some time past. Mr. Brookins, who has been a resident and prominent citizen of Hubbard for a long time and both he and Mrs. Brookins were prominent in church and club work.

SHADOW OF FORMER SELF, MRS. ANGLE NOW ON TRIAL FOR DEATH OF FRIEND

1. Judge W. H. DAVIS. 2. Mrs. ANGLE at HER TRIAL. 3. MRS. ANGLE 3 YEAR AGO.

Stamford, Conn., March 15.—Worn to a shadow of her former self, Mrs. Helen M. Angle began here in the superior court the ordeal of a trial for manslaughter. It might be said that Mrs. Angle is now appearing in the third of her roles before the public. Before Waldo R. Ballou, her friend, was found dying on the sidewalk last June 23 in front of the Hippoxam building in Stamford, where she had studio apartments, Mrs. Angle was known as a vivacious divorcee. After Ballou's mysterious death and during the long inquest into it, which resulted in her arrest and indictment, Mrs. Angle was in a constant state of hysteria. She fainted frequently when called as a witness before Coroner Phelps. She was a large, stout woman then, giving the impression of great natural strength. When she slowly entered the crowded courtroom for this trial, leaning on the arm of Leonard Blondel, her father, she looked pale, slim and delicate. The chestnut brown of her hair was plentifully sprinkled with gray. The most startling change in her appearance, however, was expressed by the calm, optimistic smile with which she greeted friends. Here was a composure where last summer was complete apparent loss of self control and despair.

MANLEY'S LECTURE

The announcements made in various ways all over the city that L. V. Manley, secretary of the Associated Charities of Portland, would speak at the city library Wednesday evening were erroneous, the lecture to be given instead Thursday evening, beginning at eight past seven o'clock. Mr. Manley comes to Salem under the auspices of the Salem Social Service Center.

JOURNAL CARRIERS ARE WORKING FOR PRIZES

Boys Who Deliver Paper Every Evening Engaged In Keen Business Rivalry

From this time until May 15 the Capital Journal carrier boys will be engaged in business rivalry. It promises to be a keen, good-natured contest for a list of valuable and useful prizes offered by the newspaper management. The boys are given votes for every dollar they collect in old or new subscriptions, as an inducement for them to display their ability of business hustlers.

A voting coupon, good for 5 votes, appears every day in the Capital Journal, and readers are invited to clip it out and present it to their favorite carrier. It will assist him in winning a $50 bicycle or some other valuable prize. Subscription payment in advance and new subscription will also assist materially in this respect.

The first count of votes will be announced soon.

LINCOLN BEACHEY HONORED

Capitol, Sacramento, Cal., March 14.—By a rising vote the assembly today adopted a memorial resolution to the memory of Lincoln Beachey, the aviator who met a tragic death at San Francisco last Sunday. The resolution, introduced by Prendergast of San Francisco, eulogized the daring aviator and gave him full measure of credit for the valuable service he contributed to the better flying of heavier than air machines. Copies of the resolution will be dispatched to the bereaved parents of the dead aviator.

"The manager, you say, gave your part in the piece to another member of the company. Admitted. But you can not sue him for that!"

"Can't I? He took my character away, didn't he?"

AGGRIEVED.

If you will follow the lead of the other best dressed men in town you will surely "bring up" here. Our journeyman-tailoring is—and always has been—an education on correct attire.

There is an especially strong "lesson" in the superb assortment of Spring fabrics we are now showing. The materials are decidedly exclusive—and the prices, especially, are interesting because they are far less than you would expect for garments of equal excellence.

If you will compare the cost of our journeyman-tailored clothes with the prices of garments made by the average custom tailor, you will realize the wonderful advantage you enjoy in having us tailor your suit.

We await your call in anticipation of showing you the latest models and the newest fabric patterns.

This is the week of our Spring Opening Sale, during which you can buy new patterns at a reduction of from $5 to $10

The S. P. company is filling in some of the holes around the depot and fixing the drive-way to the side track by putting on a 14-inch granite. This is a much long needed improvement and everybody will appreciate it very much especially those who live in that end of town as it was a very unsightly place.

The members of the Priscilla club spent a very pleasant afternoon at the home of Mrs. Stella Seely, Wednesday. At the business session Mae Smith was elected secretary to take the place of Mrs. Seely who resigned. The afternoon was spent with fancy work and chatting after which the hostess was assisted in serving lunch by Mrs. E. C. Kirkpatrick. The club is planning some delightful social events for the near future.—Record.

MAY CALL EXTRA SESSION

Phoenix, Ariz., March 14.—Governor G. W. P. Hunt is considering today the advisability of calling an extra session of the Arizona legislature for April 15. After fighting the governor throughout the entire 60-day session, the state senate adjourned Friday without passing the necessary appropriation bills to carry the state through the next fiscal year. The state will have no funds after June 30 unless a compromise between the senate and the governor is effected.
