Court House News

Charles Bennett, who was given a preliminary hearing in the justice court this morning before Justice Daniel Webster, was bound over to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of lewd and lascivious cohabitation. His wife, who recently came from Seattle to this city, was examined as a witness, and Iva Nelson was also in court. It developed from the testimony that Bennett left his wife in Vancouver, B. C., in 1912, and was not located until the officers found him living with the Nelson woman near Locust. When he was arrested he told Deputy Sheriff W. L. Needham that Mrs. Nelson was his wife. Later he admitted that he had been married to her, though he had been living with her and her father for a year. Mrs. Bennett came to this city to offer to take her husband back with her, but it was reported to the district attorney that the Nelson woman was in a delicate condition and he thought it best that Bennett be arraigned on that charge here. His bonds were fixed at $250, which he was unable to furnish, and he was sent back to the county jail.

Claude O. Ross, a prisoner at the state penitentiary, was arraigned in department No. 1 of the circuit court of this county this morning on a charge of rape and pleaded not guilty. It is alleged in the indictment returned by the grand jury that Ross committed the crime upon the person of Ada L. Sullivan. As the man is in safe keeping at present the charge will not be pressed until he serves out his present sentence.

Judge Perry R. Kelly opened department No. 1 of the circuit court this morning to hear motions, demurrers and cost bills. The principal business this morning in Judge Kelly's court was the hearing of the bill of exceptions in the case of the state against Hsinus Grasser, who is now serving a life sentence in the pen for the murder of the 17-year-old son of Alva Bacon, who resides a few miles south of this city.

Governor Revokes Parole of Convict Liberated by West

Governor Withycombe today revoked the parole of one Charles Adams, alias Charles Miller, who has just been arrested in Portland on the charge of forging checks. Adams was convicted in Linn county in December, 1913, for larceny in a store and was paroled from the penitentiary on the fourth of January, 1915, by ex-governor West. Parole Officer Keller leaves for Portland this afternoon to return Adams to the penitentiary, where he will have six more years to serve.

H. S. Gile left last night for an extended business trip in the central states and the east where he has gone to spread the gospel of the loganberry.

His first stop will be at St. Paul and Minneapolis, and from there he will go direct to Chicago. During this trip Mr. Gile will give his whole time to demonstrating the value of loganberries and to the distribution of advertising matter showing what can be done with the berry. He will go direct to the largest distributing agencies and wholesale grocers in the east.

For fine machine repairing try Gilbert & Pater, 560 Perry street.

The Rev. H. B. Dork, of the Castle chapel, United Brethren church, is entertaining Professor L. L. Eppley, president of the Philomath college, of the United Brethren denomination at Philomath, Ore. Professor Eppley will remain here a few days, but will return on April 4, when he will give an address at the educational day exercises to be held in this city. Professor Eppley is lately from York, Nebraska, where he has filled the position of professor of language in a college located in that city.

Fine concert by chorus of men's voices, assisted by soloists. The musical artists' course gives as its third number one of the most interesting concerts ever given in Salem. A large chorus of men's voices in the most beautiful ensemble work. From 60 to 75 voices. Such fine voices and so carefully trained that it seems as one voice singing. Then the program is so varied that it surely will please all who are privileged to hear it. Mr. Boyer, who conducts this great chorus, is one of the best chorus conductors on the coast, and the fine work of this chorus has not only received praise on the coast but eastern papers have given it much praise.

BAD BOYS KEEP POLICE CHASING AFTER CLUES

Score of Salem Youths Are Rounded Up for Long Series of Misdeeds

Whether it is the spring stir or the spirit of the Old Nick that prompts certain youths of this city to deeds of devilry is unknown to chief Walsh, but the officers are right now in the midst of a campaign against a series of minor offenders who show a wide range of activity. Since the first citation no less than 20 boys, ranging in age from 14 to 20 years, have been brought into police court. Many of them were from well known and respectable families and whose parents were willing to pay all damages. Some were tearful and penitent, others were defiant and careless, some were arrested and are now wards of the justice reform school, and some of the boys have left town to elude pursuit.

Their crimes consist of basement robbery, thefts of stores of wet goods, automobile thefts and petty thievery about the town in numerous places. Thursday night an auto was stolen from the Congregational church and taken for a severe drive evidently over country roads, as one of the tires was cut and torn beyond repair. The car was returned to this city and left standing on North Church street. In the car was a slip of paper bearing the names of a baseball lineup which had evidently been dropped by one of the joy riders. The police began rounding up the boys on the team, and from this time found the boy who wrote the lineup. He said he gave it to another lad, who evidently dropped it.

Many Friends Attend Impressive Services

The funeral services of the late Clayton Unruh who died suddenly last Saturday were largely attended by his many friends in the city and members of I. O. O. F. Chemeketa lodge No. 1 of which he was a member.

The services were held this afternoon at the chapel of Webb & Clough, the Rev. J. Montevale Brown of the Jason Lee Memorial conducting the services. A quartet composed of Mrs. Dave Eyre, Miss Myrtle Knowland, C. E. Knowland and Ivan Martin, sang "Saved by Grace," "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

The pall bearers, all members of the Odd Fellows lodge of which the deceased was a member, were J. A. Patterson, J. H. Dunlap, R. W. Simeral, R. Carlton, Carl Engstrom and C. P. Gard. Burial was at City View cemetery under the auspices of Chemeketa Odd Fellows lodge of this city.

Four-Year-Old Lad Goes Upon Exploring Expedition

Considerable excitement prevailed in South Salem yesterday afternoon, caused by the mysterious disappearance of the little four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Robertson, who resides on South High street, and at one time not only the whole neighborhood was out taking part in the search but the entire police force and many citizens were enlisted. He was last seen playing around the house about 9 o'clock in the morning, and no trace of him was found until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when he was found enjoying himself at play with a band of children in the farthest part of the City View cemetery. Mr. Robertson, a salesman in the Meyers department store, was driven almost to the verge of distraction on account of the disappearance of the little fellow, and it was after 4 in the evening when the father notified the police that the wanderer had returned.

GENERAL SIBERT ASSIGNED.

Washington, March 16.—Secretary of War Garrison today announced the assignment of Brigadier General W. L. Sibert to command the Pacific coast artillery with headquarters at San Francisco.

WASHING WONT RID HEAD OF DANDRUFF

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.
