BLIGH THEATRE
10c-ALWAYS GOOD-10c

W. A. Darby, whose organ-playing has pleased so many patrons of the Oregon theater, has accepted a position with the Circle theater at Portland, and left today to assume his new work. He will have charge of one of the new automatic picture players, in which one man handles the effect of an entire orchestra. W. E. Talmadge, who takes the position as organist for the Oregon, has played with the Rex theater at Eugene and the Lyric at Spokane, and comes highly recommended.

Dr. Thomas E. Green, who lectured here last year on "The Burden of the Nation," will appear here again on April 7, as part of the Willamette university lecture course. Dr. Green in his last lecture took the stand that Belgium had no great interest in the war-like preparations of the nations of Europe. This lecture was before the present war commenced, and the lecture next Wednesday night will be more in the way of an answer to the stand taken by him last summer. The subject of this lecture will be "The Forces That Failed."

W. Al Jones, the newly-elected secretary of the state fair board, will take his oath of office before Secretary of State Olcott some time today, and assume full control of the duties of the office. Frank Meredith, who resigned the office to accept a position with the Washington State Fair association, is in North Yakoma making arrangements to take charge of his new post, but is expected back in a day or so. When Mr. Jones was elected secretary no date was fixed for him to assume his duties, and he has received no advice in the matter, but assumes that, inasmuch as the position is vacant and he is attending to the duties of the secretary in the absence of Mr. Meredith, he had better qualify and "get busy."

The state land board made an order this morning extending the time in which the holders of deeds to lands embraced in the Hyde-Benson land fraud case, in which the state has suit pending to cancel title to the lands, have for presenting their cases to the department of the interior and securing clearances as to the claim of "innocent purchasers," 30 days longer upon the recommendation of the attorney general. These applicants represent approximately 20,000 acres of public land under the Hyde-Benson transactions and the state land board agreed to give them a confirmation of deed upon the payment of $2.50 per acre and proof from the department of the interior as to their right to title to the land.

BRIDGE HAS A HISTORY.

The head in the road, where the bridge across Mill creek is located, has had a hazy history, according to the tale related by the oldest inhabitant. Last evening it broke down with a wagon and two boys. Four years ago J. E. Roberts was murdered near the bridge. Several robberies have been committed in this locality, and about 30 years ago two men were found murdered in the cabin that stood at the head of the road.

Farmers and Merchants Plan Co-Operation Meeting

Invitations will be issued to 1500 requesting their presence at a great get-together meeting between the merchants of Salem and the farmers of this vicinity, to be held at the armory on Saturday, April 10. The invitations will be sent not only to the farmers but their wives as well, as it is intended that the women also attend this first meeting. In order that the women may have some special interest, the domestic science class of the Salem high school will give a demonstration in the basement of the armory when the men are talking crops and other things.

Luther J. Chapin, county agriculturist, has been asked to assist in making this meeting a success. Governor Withycombe will be invited to make an address and several speakers, including men from the Oregon Agricultural college, will make short talks.

The dinner will be served free. The commercial club is making every effort to have this first meeting of the kind one of the greatest get-together meetings ever held in this section.

Rosie Whitlock Tells Pitiful Story of Abuse

Riverside, Cal., April 2.—A pitiful story of alleged abuse in which she declared she was confined to a bed by F. M. Meek, so she would not be able to leave his house, was told in court here today by Mrs. Rosie Whitlock, former housekeeper for Meek.

Her story was corroborated by Meek's son, who was responsible for the release of Mrs. Whitlock.

In her testimony before Justice Elliott today, Mrs. Whitlock declared Meek brought out a big log chain with which to make her a prisoner.

"I promised him that if he would not chain me I would remain with him," she testified. "Then another chain was brought out and I was made a prisoner with it. I also was handcuffed. The ends of the chain were fastened to the crossbar of the bed so as to prevent my getting to it and gaining my freedom."

Meek's little son wanted to release me, but I would not allow him to do so, telling him that his father would punish him.

"I got the boy to take a note to an officer, which finally resulted in my release."

Mrs. Whitlock said that she had escaped from the room dressed in her nightgown, but that she had been overtaken and returned to the room by Meek.

Meek's son, on the stand, corroborated the main incidents related by Mrs. Whitlock.

The defendant introduced no testimony.
