SEND IN SOCIAL NEWS.

The Capital Journal is always glad to print social news from outside of Salem, and will appreciate anything of this kind sent in over the telephone or by mail. In sending in news the writer's name should always be signed, not for publication, but as a guarantee that the matter is reliable. We do not print anything sent in unless we know the author of it.

The John Coughells have been entertaining, this prominent Eastern visitor, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Lord, of Waupun, Wisconsin, who are touring the West, with San Francisco as their objective point. Mr. Lord is president of one of the leading electric roads in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Elmer Kemano leaves Saturday morning for Biggs, Oregon, to visit her sister, Mrs. Charles Willard. Mrs. Willard was formerly Miss Myrtle Lenon. On the return trip Mrs. Kemano will stop in Portland to visit relatives and friends.

Saturday afternoon the Senior Girls King's Heralds social gathering will be held at the home of Mrs. A. A. Lee 1415 State street.

Mrs. B. L. Stevens was at home to the members of the West Central circle of the First Methodist church Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. George Bedford being asked to assist.

A large number of friends of Miss Vera Reeves called unannounced at her home recently to surprise her on the occasion of her birthday. Informal diversions of various description were enjoyed, culminating with a cafeteria supper. Those who participated in this enjoyable affair were: Mr. and Mrs. Hubby, Mr. and Mrs. Mada Eddy, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Pottor, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. John Paris, Mr. and Mrs. Holman, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. Myrtle Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Elliot, Miss Ella Bennett, Miss Mary Barrick, Miss Nellie Shaefer, Miss Orpha Elliott, Miss Alice Reata, Miss Vera Brookins, Miss Helen Brookins, Miss Vera Reeves, Miss Reta Austin, Miss Ruth Robinson, Messrs. D. T. Pottor, Edward Robinson, Clyde Robinson, Walter Holman, Ernest Bennett, John Demore, Loyd Henderson, Kenneth Hurely.

The senior girls King's Heralds of the First Methodist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. A. Lee, 1415 State street.

The members of the First Presbyterian church are planning to hold a reception and social for the new members of the church on Friday evening, one week from tonight. The reception will be held in the church parlors.

The Degree of Honor closed its biennial convention Wednesday at the Mulholland hotel, Portland, with the election of officers. The session included reports from officers and the installation of the officers. Those elected were: Past grand chief of honor, Mrs. Maggie Gilchrist; grand chief of honor, Mrs. Nora Hendricks, of McMinville; grand lady of honor, Mrs. May R. Moorhead, Junction City; grand chief of ceremonies, Mrs. Millie Dug, Salem; grand recorder, Mrs. Margaret Becker, Portland; grand treasurer, Mrs. Ida Mosier, Portland; grand orator, Mrs. Lizzie Read, Albany; grand luncheon watch, Mrs. Hattie Koejke, Eugene; grand order watch, Mrs. Myrtle Randall, Lebanon; supreme representative, Mrs. Sadie Moore, Portland.

Probably the first Jitney party to take place in Salem occurred Saturday evening when a group of young people, for the most part high school students, chartered by Mrs. J. A. Mapiethorpe, filled Jitney cars, motoring to the country place of Miss Mary Schindler, occasioning a most pleasant surprise. Those in the party were: Misses Deanie Hall, Lucie Mapiethorpe, Evah Mapiethorpe, Nellie Keeton, Beulah Mapiethorpe, and Miss Karlene Warner, of Albany; Messrs. Roy Westley, Elmer Westley, Wilbur McCracken, Klosey Smith, Pogo Smith, Angus Fraser, and Land White, Henry Lundeen.

Without letting their closest friends in on the secret, Edward A. Stevens and Mrs. Grace G. Pierce quietly went to Oregon City Monday and were married at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stevens. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock at night by Rev. J. R. Landsborough, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Oregon City. Mrs. Stevens is a native of Oregon and the daughter of the late Josiah Parrish, a pioneer of Salem, and is well known here. Mr. Stevens is traffic chief of offices outside of Portland for the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company. They have taken up their residence at 6010 Twenty-seventh avenue Southeast, Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer T. Connell, of Deer Island, are being showered with congratulations upon the arrival of a son, born Wednesday. Mrs. Connell was Miss Helen Steiwer, popular in Portland and Salem. She is the daughter of John Steiwer, of Jefferson.

The old parsonage of the First Methodist church was filled with merry makers Wednesday evening—all young people of the Epworth league and congregation—who gathered for their annual springtime party. The participants were separated into groups representing birds and flowers. Competitive games were enjoyed and old-fashioned diversions revived. A business session was part of the program, alternatives being elected to lighten the work of the president and vice president's offices. Those elected were: Miss Genevieve Avison and Miss Eva Scott, presidents; Laura Cummings, Carrie Cooksey, first vice presidents; Dr. R. W. Walton and Rupert Hall, second vice presidents; Ruth Boyer, Lorenna Walton, third vice presidents; Alice Field, Laura Heist, fourth vice presidents; Evelyn De Long, secretary; Wesley Hammond, treasurer; and Elva Smith, pianist. Scotch broom, used in profusion, transformed the rooms into a suitable setting for the event.

Former Judge Beaten To Death By Gangsters

San Francisco, April 23.—Charles Knapp, 40, said to be a former judge of San Jose, was fatally beaten early today at Second and Market streets here. He died of his wounds at the Emergency hospital.

This was the second time within a week that Knapp has been attacked. The police believe that he was slain by gangsters.

When found lying in a pool of blood in the heart of the downtown district, Knapp was still able to talk. He gave the name of Fred Uffer and gasped a fragmentary story of being waylaid and charged. Surgeons recognized him as Charles Knapp, who was brought to the hospital several days ago after having been beaten. They cannot understand why he wished to conceal his identity.

Knapp was well dressed and had money, but no attempt at robbery was made. No motive for the crime is known.

GERMANS CAPTURE GUNS AND FORCE PASSAGE OF YSER

Little excitement was evident in London as a result of the report of the approach of the airships. In the Northumberland district warning was given all towns that Zeppelins had been sighted, and every preparation was made to give them a warm reception. Anti-aircraft guns were prepared for action and automobile and motorcycle corps maintained a constant patrol to watch for the enemy's aircraft.

Paris Admits Reverses.
Paris, April 23.—Official admission that the allies were forced to retire north of Ypres was made today in the communiqué from the war office. The French and British were compelled to withdraw in the direction of the canal, the statement said, owing to the use of explosive bombs by the Germans. The effect of the powerful bombs was felt for a distance of 2 kilometers behind the battle line. Later vigorous counter attacks resulted in the re-capture of a part of the ground which was yielded and many prisoners were taken. The Belgians repulsed an assault upon Chateau Viegone, on the Yser, inflicting heavy losses, it was added. In the Ally forest the French took 700 metres of trenches and captured 100 prisoners.

Nicholas Goes to Front.
Petrograd, April 23.—Czar Nicholas arrived in Lemberg today, en route to the front to inspect the Russian lines in Galicia and the Carpathians.

With this announcement here it was accepted that the Russian forces are being prepared for a new offensive against the Austrian and German armies on the southern front to be launched as soon as the weather settles and renders the free movement of artillery and infantry possible.

Because of melting snow and spring rains the campaign generally remains at a standstill.

Deny Hill 60 Recaptured.
London, April 23.—An attack upon the German Zeppelin shed at Ghent by possibly more dirigibles are believed to have been destroyed, was announced by Field Marshal Sir John French in his weekly report to the war office.

French confirmed reports of the desperate attacks the Germans were said to be making in an attempt to retake Hill 60, the important height east of Ypres captured by the British forces. The enemy has been thrown back with heavy losses, he stated. Denial was made of claims that the Germans had succeeded in re-capturing the height.

Trawler Is Torpedoed.
Grimsby, Eng., April 23.—The trawler St. Lawrence has been torpedoed and sunk in the North sea. It was learned here today. Two of the crew were drowned. Those rescued by another allied aviators during which two and Germans Take Positions.

Berlin, via wireless to London, April 23.—The capture of Anglo-French positions in the region of Langemarck, Stenstrate, Helzans and Pillein was announced today by the war office here. Sixteen hundred prisoners were taken and 50 cannon captured.

After celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of her birth a girl begins to hope something will happen to the tribles containing the family records.

but I did not know that it went into effect. I did not call the people's attention to the combination because I could not prove it. There were merely rumors.

"If they had done anything I would have made the same open fight against the combination that I made later," Roosevelt made this answer in a loud, piercing voice, punctuating his remarks with slaps of his hand against the witness chair. The vigorous objections of Attorney Ivins to the colonel's tactics resulted in a reprimand for him from the bench, but at the same time Justice Andrews warned the witness he must confine his remarks to answering the attorney's questions.

Ivins insisted to the court that Roosevelt was making speeches instead of answering questions and suggested that he be restrained "like any other witness."

"He shall be," replied Justice Andrews indignantly, "and I don't want to hear the suggestion that he is being given greater privileges here than other witnesses be."

Ivins apologized.

"You say Mr. Barnes expressed doubt as to the people being able to govern themselves?" asked Ivins.

"Yes, habitually," came the emphatic reply.

"You say you regarded him as an undesirable companion and friend, but then invited him to your dinner table?"

"I did not," the colonel snapped.

Colonel Roosevelt not only said he regarded Barnes as a Jekyll-Hyde character, but that he had found most politicians to be of the same stripe.

"I have found most politicians to be men of two characters, like Jekyll and Hyde—some good and some bad," said the colonel. "Some were hopelessly evil. I never broke with anyone until I believed a reformation was hopeless."

"Then you regarded Barnes as a Jekyll and Hyde," asked Ivins.

"Yes."

"When you appointed him to office, was it Jekyll or Hyde you named?"

"I did the best I could to get the Jekyll side out of him."

Barnes eyed Roosevelt while the former president gave this portion of his testimony without the slightest trace of emotion. Occasionally the eyes of the republican boss would narrow as he looked sharply at the colonel, but he gave no evidence that he was in the least disturbed by the manner in which his character was being described.

The Day in Detail.
Syracuse, N. Y., April 23.—More dark and secret pages from New York's political history were brought to light today in the $50,000 libel suit of William Barnes, Jr., against Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. The disclosures came from files of Roosevelt's letters to Barnes while the colonel was governor of New York. These documents were brought into court on a subpoena from the plaintiff.

Roosevelt's explanation of how he worked with the machine but was never its supine creature, left doubts in many minds as to the view the jury would take on that question.

William Ivins, attorney for Barnes, hoped to conclude Roosevelt's cross-examination today or Monday. The trial probably will last all next week.

Roosevelt was led into a discussion of "invisible government" through Beebe and the acceptance of campaign contributions from corporations during the morning session. He said he had discussed this subject with Francis J. Heney, famous graft prosecutor of California, and later sent a special message to congress urging a law for the publication of campaign contributions.

The colonel was also questioned regarding his autobiography published in 1913. As the quizzing concerning this progressed, Roosevelt interjected:

"I particularly did not wish to make a warrant and malicious attack upon Barnes. I avoided unnecessary attacks against him."

Bryan Challenges Statement of the British Ambassador

Washington, April 23.—Secretary of State Bryan today challenged the statement of Sir Cecil Spring Rice, the British ambassador here, throwing responsibility for the holding up of American shipments to Switzerland by way of Italian ports, upon Italy.

Minister Ritter, of Switzerland, it was stated, informed Bryan that such shipments were held up at Gibraltar, the British fortress in the Mediterranean. Ritter asked that the good offices of this government be exercised in London and not in Rome to end the delays resulting from the stopping of vessels.

Militia Ordered Out.

Austin, Texas, April 23.—The militia was ordered out here this afternoon to prevent looting in the sections of the city swept by the flood.

Two houses, bobbing on the surface of the flood waters, crashed into a bridge this afternoon. It was then seen that several victims had been trapped in the houses when the flood came. They could be heard screaming piteously for help.

There was danger this afternoon of a big reservoir breaking. This is a new reservoir recently built here.

STUNNING BLOUSE OF GEORGETTE CRAPE WITH UNIQUE COLLAR

The blouse shown here is of striking colored georgette crape. It is uniquely yoked and breasted and is buttoned in front with tiny black and white buttons. The collar and cuffs are of organdy, hemstitched and the collar is bell shaped. The sleeves are the once popular bishop style, which is gaining fashionable favor again.

CITY HALL NEWS

Oliver Reishack and Jack Campbell were arrested about 10 o'clock last night by officer Stubbs and Varney on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and using profane language on the street. They were also accused of securing sandwiches from Fred Dodd and not paying for them. In jail last night they were so hilarious they had to be quieted. This morning they appeared before the police judge and pleaded not guilty. Their trial was set for one o'clock.

E. Metzger and George Ebert, two weary wandering Willies, were given beds at the police station last night and this morning were questioned by Chief Welsh concerning their whereabouts. Ebert told very conflicting stories and his narrative tangled like a Chinese puzzle under the cross-questioning of the officers. Nothing suspicious was developed and the men were dismissed.

Damage Case Against Grasser In Hands of Jury

In the damage suit brought by Alva Bacon against Blasius Grasser for the death of his son, Elmer Bacon, for the killing of whom with a shotgun recently Grasser is serving a term in the penitentiary of from one to fifteen years, the taking of testimony was concluded this morning and the evidence submitted to the jury at 11 o'clock. The suit was to recover $3122 general damages for the sum that the boy would have earned until his death, twenty-one years of age. Punitive damages in the sum of $10,000 had been asked but was ruled out by the court, which instructed the jury to take no consideration whatever of the punitive side.

German Raider Ready For Dash To Sea

Norfolk, Va., April 23.—With the most important necessary repairs having been made, the German converted cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm was at anchor in mid-stream at Newport News today, practically ready to make a dash to sea should Captain Thierfeldt decide to attempt to run the blockade of the allied warships off the coast.

Captain Thierfeldt will be advised, probably today, as to the length of time he may remain in port before he must make a dash of return. The hull of the Kronprinz Wilhelm has been repaired and repainted, and new boiler tubes are being installed.

Silver Dollar Saves Life Of Indian

Fendleton, Ore., April 23.—Joe Hayes, a well known Indian buckaroo, today avows his life to a silver dollar; he says it was his last, too. George Akley, proprietor of a tamale house, following an altercation, fired pointblank at Hayes with a revolver. The bullet struck the silver coin, was deflected, and the cowboy is unharmed. Akley, Hayes and another Indian, Patrick Isadore, were arrested for the disturbance and subsequent shooting.
