

THIS WOMAN'S SICKNESS

Quickly Yielded To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bridgeton, N.J.—"I want to thank you for the wonderful good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very much from a female trouble. I had bearing down pains, was irregular and at times could hardly walk across the room. I was unable to do my housework or attend to my baby I was so weak. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me a world of good, and now I am strong and healthy, can do my work and tend my baby. I advise all suffering women to take it and get well as I did."—Mrs. FANNIE COOPER, R.F.D., Bridgeton, N.J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Alsea River Road In Siuslaw National Forest

Portland, Or., April 26.—Forest Service officials at Portland, Oregon, announce that the Alsea River road, between Waldport and Tidewater, Oregon, will be completed in time to insure its use by July 1.

This road, which is two miles in length, is inside the Siuslaw National Forest, and will complete the highway between Waldport and the Willamette Valley. Hereafter it has been necessary for all traffic to go by boat from Waldport to Waldport. There was a road, but it was little more than a trail in places, and not at all suitable for heavy loads.

School of Anarchy For San Francisco

San Francisco, April 24.—Alexander Berkman, the anarchist, is here today for the avowed purpose of establishing a school of anarchy.

But the theoretical anarchy which Berkman purports to teach is not the anarchy of popular impression with bombs, fire, riots, deaths and lawless acts. Here is the gentle creed which Berkman said today he hoped to instill in the minds of his pupils:

"I am here to found a school, a new school, a school of no curriculum where children or grown men and women may realize in those things for which they have a natural inclination, which shall attempt to kill off all prejudice and lead a new idealism of which tolerance shall be the keynote."

University of Oregon Wins On Tennis Courts

The University of Oregon tennis team, which is considered one of the fastest teams in the northwest, won from the home players last Saturday in the six games played on the Willamette university tennis courts.

The home team was not in first class form to go up against such a strong team, but considering the small amount of practicing they have done this season, they feel that their chances will be pretty good when the return games are played.

The tennis association is planning for a number of games to be played in tournament, including teams from Eugene, Albany, Salem and McMinnville. The Salem tournament will be held some time in July and the championship for the Willamette valley a few weeks later.

The results of Saturday's game is as follows:

- Singles— Bond (captain U. of O.) defeated Smith, Salem, 6-1, 6-2. Benham, Salem, defeated Church, U. of O., 6-4, 7-5. Norene, U. of O., defeated Moores, Salem, 6-3, 6-3. Sealife, U. of O., defeated Putnam, Salem, 6-4, 7-5. Doubles— Bond and Church, U of O, defeated Benham and Howell, Salem, 6-0, 6-3. Sealife and Norene, U. of O, defeated Thieleen and Harrison, Salem, 6-1, 9-7.

players upon flutes, oboes, clarinets, horns, and bassoons. The fresh, pastoral beauty of these instruments suggest the blossoming springtime, breezes laden with fragrances and the songs of happy birds, the rhythm of dancing nymphs among the shadows of great trees where forests skirt the sunlit meadows. The rich contrast in character and tone-quality of flute and horn, oboe and clarinet, the humor like the laughter of mischievous elves, affords endless opportunity for novel and fascinating effects, unlike anything that has ever been heard in Salem before.

The genius of the great masters of music used to find expression in music of the most intimate and personal character, when writing for this quietest of instruments, such music being intended for little groups of friends, composed for special occasions and friendly gatherings by order of some duke or other potentate. The composer as a permanent member of the household of his patron is on terms of equality with the guests, for music levels all classes.

But such works of genius have been a closed book until the advent of The Barrere Ensemble. Thus we have many little masterpieces, beautiful gems, unknown to the public, yet revealing words of tenderness or gaiety, agitation, sorrow, or triumph, in harmony with the mood of the moment. One gains new insight into the heart and mind of such men as Beethoven, Schubert, Mozart and Haydn. And in our own day, the generation Debussy, Richard Strauss, Saint-Saens and others have written some of their most enchanting music for such combination of wind instruments.

George Barrere, who leads the organization, is the greatest flute player that the world has known, and the other artists with him are as great on their respective instruments.

Extract from letter of James G. Sayre (who is an authority on this kind of music) of Lincoln, Nebraska, to James J. Sayre, of Portland, Oregon, who had written his father for information regarding the Barrere Ensemble.

"I hope you will be able to get to hear The Barrere Ensemble. It is an event which comes very seldom in a lifetime—to hear the works of masters in the art played by a company of which every man is an artist and every one is taxed to the full capacity. After their appearance here every musician I spoke to said he had never heard anything like it. The perfect intonation, the beauty of the works rendered, and the perfection of the rendering will never be forgotten by anyone who has a musical memory."

"I once heard a company of five of England's best wind players give a similar kind of program, but here you have nine, and every work played just as written—no 'arrangements' of anything by anybody. Get there if you have to sell a bushel of potatoes to do it. You may never have another opportunity."

WALLOWA HIGH SCHOOL MARVEL, SAYS CARLTON

Boys Learn Cooking and Do Public Repair Work In Manual Training

Nearly one-fifth of the population of the little town of Wallowa, in Wallowa county, is in attendance at the high school of that thriving little community, according to Assistant State School Superintendent E. F. Carlton, and the pupils of the high school are the most active, industrious and enterprising of any other body of high school students in the state in his opinion. The total population of Wallowa is 600 and there are 119 pupils in the high school.

"All of the boys in the high school are taking a course in camp cooking, cooking for invalids and in the cleaning and pressing of clothes," says Mr. Carlton, "and the boys in the manual training department do all of the repair work such as mending sewing machines, furniture, etc. Recently the boys constructed a big gymnasium for the school and provided it with a stage where all of the public meetings are held, as well as the gymnastic exercises. The people are proud of the work of the high school pupils and also of the work of principal Roy Compton, who, in my opinion, is a marvel when it comes to handling boys in school work."

Mr. Carlton visited all of the high schools in Union, Ematilla and Wallowa counties, during his two weeks' official visit to the north-western part of the state. He states that most of the high schools are standardized and that no surances have been received from those which have not that they will meet the requirements and become standardized before the opening of the next school year. They are all especially pleased with the new high school district fund law, which goes into effect in May, and which makes it possible for a child living in a district where there is no high school to take advantage of high school privileges in another district at the expense of the taxpayers of his home district.

AURORA NEWS

The string orchestra from the Indian training school at Chonawa will give a concert in the band hall, Saturday evening, May 1, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society. Superintendent F. L. Burekhalter and Assistant Superintendents Sietter and Wild, were here recently inspecting the Southern Pacific property. While here Superintendent Burekhalter promised Councilman Miller, who was grading First street next to the depot, that the company will furnish two cars of crushed rock and a car of screenings to place on the street next to the station, if the city will spread it.

The meeting at the White school last Saturday to discuss the matter of consolidating that district with the Hubbard district was attended by a good number of the patrons of the school. No definite action was taken. A number of Hubbard people were present. The White school has about 40 pupils.

As no decision can be made until the regular annual meeting, the proposal was simply talked over, and information secured in order that the electors may vote understandingly when the question comes up for a decision. It is said, however, that the sentiment in the district is unfavorable to consolidation at present.

A real surprise party was sprung on E. W. Kraetz, of the Walnut Grove ranch, Sunday morning, when six of the husky young farmers of Battleville appeared on the scene with their teams and did up his spring plowing for him in short order. Mr. Kraetz recently lost his team through ergot poisoning, and is himself laid up with a bad foot, and the young neighbors took this means of showing their good will to ward him. Those participating were: A. B. Dental, Glen Yergen, Will Goad, Will Dental, Dell Yergen and Fred Dental. Their thoughtfulness was sincerely appreciated by Mr. Kraetz and his family, and the boys went home knowing the full meaning of "the better the day the better the deed."—Aurora Observer.

OPEN FORUM

Editor Capital Journal: I, as one of your constant readers, would claim a small space in your valuable paper in which to voice the sentiment of myself and many other citizens of Salem, in regards to the stand taken by the Salem military band towards the P. E. & E. Street Car company and demanded that the street car boys' band stand or that the street car system would be boycotted by the said military union. There must be a lot of jealousy on the part of the union. If I am not mistaken, the good people of Salem voted to see aside $1800 for the support of the Salem military band during the summer months, but if they are asked to furnish music at any public gathering or booster's meeting they demand big pay for their services. Why should not the street car boys' band have the same chance? It is a new organization and are progressing fine and should have the support of every public-spirited citizen. They will not only appreciate it but will do much toward making a live and enthusiastic city. Give the boys all the encouragement and support possible. ONE OF SALEM'S WELL WISHERS.

Commission Government. Editor Journal: This is a very favorable time to consider formation of a new city charter. Aldermen Macy and Mills deserve credit for having the courage to bring the matter up again. If a new charter is framed now and submitted to the voters in December

The fact must not be lost when there is no mayor to elect, the sight of that according to statistics recently published by the census bureau under the matter apart from any political excitement.
