English Aviator Escapes From Inside Enemy's Lines

By William G. Shepherd.
(Copyright 1915 by the United Press; copyright in Great Britain.)

Headquarters of the British army, Northern France, April 28.—(By mail to New York.)—It's after "roosting" at night when everybody is down out of the death-filled sky, that you can get the English flying men to do what little talking there is in them. I sat down to a small table full of them this evening. They were all young fellows and I felt as if I might be dining in a Harvard or Yale mess hall, except that our eating place was a room in a little French farmhouse. They were all English school men, come out of England's best homes. One of them I had known in Texas some years ago, when Ozeo, the Mexican rebel, had employed him to fly for the rebel army; the others had all learned flying since the war began.

"I suppose," said I to one young man, "there are times when you wait and wait at 'roosting time' and the fellow doesn't come back?"

"Oh, yes," he said. "That does happen. But we don't ever give up hope. See that fellow over there," he said, indicating a young man down the table. "Well, one night he didn't come back."

We put out the flares and waited and waited, but there was not a sign of him. We gave him up for good. Ten days passed and one day a strange aeroplane appeared in the sky coming from the direction of England. You know we fly over here with our new machines from England instead of waiting on boats and trains, and we thought this was a new flyer coming to join our camp. The machine alighted and our stepped our old friend who had been missing for so many days and whom we had given up for dead.

"Then he told us his story. He had come down in the German lines and around. He ran away from the place and went into a French cottage. He could talk French and the good French people helped him with a suit of old clothes. He had no money, but he had a bank account in London. So we went to a French storekeeper to whom he had been recommended by his French cottage folks, and the storekeeper cashed a check for him. Then he made his way on foot to another town and finally reached home. After that the rest was easy. He took the boat for England, got another machine there and flew back to us."

Big Meeting Of Loganberry Men Is Great Success

any pool unless he was given an iron-clad guarantee that he would receive a net profit upon his product for this year, an impossible condition to meet under the present chaotic situation of the market and the industry, and he was afterwards declared by members of the association and other pools a perfect type of the element which stands out in the hope of benefiting by results attained at the expense of his fellow growers and jumps his product into the market to the highest bidder without regard to the future.

He acknowledged, rather boastfully, that he had sold to the canneries two years ago at 3 cents per pound for the fresh fruit and last year at 2 1/2 cents, and said that he couldn't see any advantage in coming into the pool when many of the growers who belonged had not received their money for their crops as yet. He was stumped, however, when Seymour Jones, a director of the association, asked him how much he could sell for at the canneries this year, and he had to confess that he could not get an offer and no encouragement whatsoever. He called at the expense of employing salaried and trained men to look after the business of the associations and pools, and in this he was encouraged and patting on the back by two or three small growers of the same disposition, who sneered at every suggestion of contributing to the expense of advertising and exploitation of the industry, and they left without joining.

Big Job for Organizer.

Nevertheless, the meeting was a most harmonious one, a large representation of the association membership being in attendance, and it was pronounced a decided success by the officers and directors. While these latter expressed great satisfaction in the success of yesterday's meeting, they realized, they stated, that the victory was not won as yet by any means, but that they would have to keep hammering away until every available crop is tied up in one of the three pools and the danger of ruinous short-selling eliminated altogether.

One of the most aggressive growers in attendance in favor of complete organization and pooling of interests was Frank Hrubeta, of Liberty, who, by his forceful argument and merciless scolding of the growers who invariably stood out of pools and co-operative movements as "enemies," and cited his own experience of past years in connection with the red raspberry, blackberry and other small fruit ventures, which resulted disastrously, as an example. He did not spare himself an iota for the part he took in bringing about the downfall of the small fruit industries during his early experience about 19 years ago, but is now an unalterable convert to organization and co-operation as the only salvation for the producer in any line of productivity, and he won many doubting souls over.

Benefits of Co-Operation Explained. At the opening of the meeting H. S. Giles, on behalf of the Willamette Valley Fruit Growers' association, and Assistant Manager Robert Paulus, of the Salem Fruit Union, outlined the policies of the pools which their respective organizations represented and the results accomplished and spoke of the encouraging prospects for the future, and President C. W. Keene, of the Loganberry association, outlined the plan for the government of the association pool. Max O. Buron, of the mercantile world, was appointed by the Salem committee to attend the meeting and extend welcome to the members of the association, addressed the meeting after the business had been concluded, assuring them of the hearty support and co-operation of the Commercial club and inviting them to join and participate in the benefits. Mr. Buron presented the friendly attitude of the business interests of Salem very forcibly and convincingly and was kindly received.

While it was explained that the association has no funds available with which to guarantee advancement of harvesting and curing expenses it was tentatively understood that if means could be devised all of the growers who need financial assistance to harvest their crops and prepare them for the market would be advanced 10 cents per pound for packing and exporting, which is the most price advanced to the members of the grape growers' association and fruit union pools. The 35 growers to introduce at yesterday's meeting, the great majority of whom were included in one up with the association pool, represented an aggregate of 127 acres, or approximately over 300 tons of fresh fruit and 60 tons of evaporated grapes, the reduction of yield by reason of the April rains and frost being taken into consideration.

DRIVING THE PEOPLE FROM GOD AND BIBLE

Are "Doctrines of Demons" Responsible?

Satan's Successful Method—Why God Permits Darkness For Light—Faith and Love Tested—Responsibility of Preachers—God Standered—Truth Soon Triumphant.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Pittsburgh, May 9.—Pastor Russell gave two addresses here today. We report the one from 1 Timothy 4:1, 2. It is a severe arraignment of education and especially of ministers, notwithstanding its moderate language.

The Pastor declared that we are gradually awakening to the fact that the world does not love God, and that few of the churches recognize Him as the gracious Heavenly Father. Although the Bible tells us that God is Love, that His mercy endureth forever, and that from Him comes every good and perfect gift, nevertheless the doctrines of demons instilled into our minds from childhood have hindered us from appreciating these statements. Back in the Second Century, when Bibles were very expensive and few people could read, Satan laid the foundation for gross errors. The clergy began to claim that the bishops were successors to the twelve Apostles, thus implying that their teachings were of equal authority. Nobody was allowed to preach unless authorized, or ordained, by these so-called Apostolic Bishops. The result was the separation of the Church as the clergy—the pulpit being called children of the Church.

Conditions During the Dark Ages.

Later the Apostolic Bishops, with Emperor Constantine, started creed-making. Thereafter creeds took the place of Bible study; for the Emperor decided that the Nicene Creed was the standard of Orthodoxy, and that whoever differed from its teachings was a heretic and subject to persecution. This condition lasted twelve hundred years. When we consider how much error could be brought into the Church in twelve centuries, it is no wonder that our creeds are more than half error, and that the doctrines of demons as inherited the whole mass that it became injurious to spiritual health.—Matthew 19:3, 11, 12; Luke 15:21.

Then the authority of the Apostolic Bishops began to be questioned. The Bible began to be sought and studied, but all who did this were esteemed heretics. Finally the people insisted that they be permitted to read the words of Jesus and the original Twelve. The pseudo-apostles (Revelation 2:2) were forced reluctantly to give the people the Bible in the vernacular. Both Catholics and Protestants warned the people that the other's edition was especially wrong. The object was to prevent Bible study.

The same spirit is manifested everywhere yet. Whoever agrees with the creeds is tolerated by his own class. Whoever presents the Bible without sectarian bias is branded a heretic; and vilification heaped upon him is reckoned service to God, however false.

What Are "Doctrines of Demons"?

Doctrines of demons, the Pastor explained, are various falsehoods designed to misrepresent God's dealings and character, and thus to hinder God's Message from taking effect in human hearts. The Almighty could have prevented Satan from practicing deception and slandering the Divine character. But it is not God's purpose to sue for peace in gathering the Church. He sent forth His Message, that those hearing should have opportunity of responding voluntarily.—2 Peter 1:4.

Personally and through his demon host, Satan seeks to misrepresent God's Message (2 Corinthians 4:4). He induced us to believe that before man's creation God had made a great place ready for him, supplied with precious jewels and fuel to last to all eternity, and then made man, knowing that nearly everybody would go there. Additionally, we were taught that we would be considered industrious in order that our torment might last eternally. No human mind ever invented such doctrines. They are the work of demons, to separate us from God and His Word, through preachers, ministers, and the creeds handed down from the past.

Satan began this opposition to God by telling Mother Eve that her sin would not bring death as God had said, and he has continued the statement until the whole world are convinced that when men die they are more alive than ever. This is the fundamental doctrine of demons, upon which are based all the false doctrines that have troubled us. The Bible says, "The dead know not anything"; "The wages of sin is death."

These doctrines of demons include purgatory and masses for the dead. They include the work of spirit mediums; for so bishops and priests are deceived, so are spirit mediums. They think that they communicate with the dead; whereas the Bible makes clear that they are deceived by the fallen angels the demons, thus giving the only confirmation of Satan's original lie, that the dead are alive.

GRANT COUNTY SHERIFF BRINGS BRIDE AND CON-VICTS ON HONEYMOON

When Sheriff William Welch, of Grant county, came to Salem last Saturday, he performed the double function of custodian of two prisoners who were sentenced to servitude in the penitentiary for horse-stealing and house-breaking, respectively, and as one of the principals in a honeymoon trip. Sheriff Welch and his bride, Mrs. Lena Hanna, a former teacher in the Grant county schools, were married at Canyon City on Friday last week, and on the following day he handcuffed Leonard Fox, taken to Canyon City to testify in the Ben Colvin perjury case, and sentence of one to seven years for larceny from a dwelling, together, and started for Salem.

Nothing out of the ordinary was reported as having transpired to mar the happiness of the honeymoon trip, and when Sheriff Welch arrived here, although he is well known by the prison authorities and local officers, none suspected that he was a "newly-wed," and he got away with it without anybody suspecting the truth. Before returning to their home in Canyon City, Sheriff and Mrs. Welch will take in the Rose Festival at Portland. While here Sheriff Welch took his bride through the penitentiary.

SENATOR MARTINE IS ORATOR WHOSE FLIGHTS STAGGER AND DELIGHT

Washington, June 1.—One of the unique characters in the United States senate is James E. Martine, from New Jersey. Mr. Martine is in a class by himself, according to the press photographers. The newspaper paragraphs delight in Martine. He is an orator, for one thing, an orator who indulges in flights of rhetoric that sometimes stagger as well as delight. Then, again, Martine, so the correspondents point out, is never afraid to indulge in any debate, especially if he can wave the stars and stripes in wordy imagery. Before Senator Martine deflated for some United States Senator James Smith, Jr., of New Jersey for the Democratic seat, through the efforts of Woodrow Wilson, then governor of New Jersey, he had run for pretty nearly every office in the state and had never been elected. But he kept right on, and a queer political turn of the wheel landed him in the senate.
