IT MIGHT HELP SOME

If the United States had any authority in international law through which it could restrain England from ramming German submarines bent, as claimed, merely upon searching merchant vessels for contraband, a solution might be furnished for the vexatious problem of submarine warfare as involving the possibility of further sacrifice of non-combatant lives, says the Boise (Idaho) Statesman.

It is indicated, but not officially promised, that if England would withdraw its orders to the commanders of merchant vessels flying the British flag to ram German submarines the German government would not hesitate to comply with our demands. But the best students of international law hold that the United States could not impose such restrictions, and even the German foreign office does not contend that such representations to England would be in line with international law.

We cannot go beyond steps for the protection of American lives and property. We cannot say to England that she must not attack an instrument designed for and exclusively used for purposes of war no more than we could say to Germany that she must not attack an English battleship.

It is only when United States citizens or their property are being transported within their rights on such vessels as have always been recognized in international law as being immune from assault, at least without first searching them and taking off their passengers, that this government may legitimately interpose an objection, excepting, of course, on humanitarian lines.

It might not be out of place for our state department on such grounds to suggest to England that merchant ships should be ordered not to ram submarines but to submit to search. We believe our position would be strengthened by such a course, although admitting that there is no warrant in international law for drastic representations on our part.

MAJORITIES OFTEN WRONG

On almost any question a very large number of the people would vote wrong—wrong, as history would prove. Thus about half of Philadelphia's respectable citizens strongly opposed the Declaration of Independence.

Very nearly half the people in the thirteen States voted against the Constitution under which we have lived for 124 years and which we now revere. Patrick Henry, James Monroe and scores of leaders declared it would lead to a kingdom.

Half the people of the country were led to believe the United States Bank was a political monster, and so Jackson handed the Republic over to a system of corrupt State banks.

"Let the erring sisters go in peace," was a popular phrase prior to the Civil War, and disunion rather than fight was preached in many a pulpit and applauded by newspapers and eminent citizens.

Far more than half the voters of the United States voted against the first election of Lincoln.

Every big American city fought against the introduction of gas as a deadly menace. When the railroads came at about the same time they were branded as the sure death of a great part of the population. "Franklin's lightning rods" were ridiculed by some as "lightning catchers." The trolley cars only a score of years ago were pictured as so many juggernauts.

The populace combatted vaccination against smallpox, and it still fights in India against scientific treatment of the bubonic plague.

The county court of Marion county is doing much good, permanent road work this year. And best of all they are issuing no bonds.

For once official reports from Berlin and Paris agree. Both say today that Arras is being battered into a mass of ruins by German shells.

The Chautauqua spirit seems to have taken hold of Salem people in earnest. Last night the big tent was filled to overflowing.

The Mexican situation does not improve. The real trouble is that Mexico has no leaders who combine both thought for the common people with ability and that tact which is necessary to hold the middle classes in line for the land-law reforms that must precede Mexican peace. Give a man a job, a home, plenty for the present and security for the future and you have a very poor rebel. Rob him of all these, turn him adrift with his family and he is bound to fight. When Mexican landowners realize this and adjust themselves to the inevitable, peace will come to that country, and not before—unless the United States concludes to take a hand in the enforcement of law and order.

Cyclones and tornadoes are sweeping over the middle West this week. It is just one catastrophe after another back there.

A Galley o' Fun!

AROUND THE VICIOUS CIRCLE
According to reliable newspaper reports our large cities Vice has been suppressed.

It is true that thousands of men and women are still being worked at a starvation wage, and that thousands of others are so broken in mind and body that even if there were jobs for them they could not work one day's work.

It is true also that honest hard work still brings to the worker nothing but disease, accident, and premature old age, and that the only always-sure way to wealth still lies through the exploitation of some form of Vice.

Yes, it seems an admitted fact that Vice has been suppressed. It is true, moreover, that wealth for some men is still being made, but that Vice becomes inevitably a necessary part of their lives. And it is true that other men are still so poor and so broken that they can only get their daily bread from the same old Vice.

However, Vice has been suppressed. But would it be important to suppress it if it were not for the fact that, by suppressing it, the suppression of the poor and the broken in mind and body would be the result. The suppression of Vice would be the suppression of the poor and the broken in mind and body.

A QUICK, SURE WAY TO END CATARRH

Catarrh Germs Bred By Millions In Air Passages of Nose and Throat. Just One Way to Drive Them Out.

To stop catarrh for good you must drive from your system the germs that cause catarrh and that are now feeding and growing fat upon the swollen, inflamed mucous membranes of your nose and throat.

A splendid means of destroying catarrh germs and overcoming catarrh has long been recognized by physicians in the well known oil of Hyomei (pronounced High-oh-mee) and it is now a very simple matter for any catarrh sufferer to use it with splendid results at home, by breathing it air through a little hard rubber inhaling device which leading druggists are supplying with each large complete treatment. Just pour a few drops of the oil of Hyomei into his inhaler, place it between your lips and then breathe the naturally and the pleasant smelling antiseptic, germ killing air will penetrate deep down into every fold and crevice of your raw, sore nose, throat and lungs and give you quick certain relief, opening up the air passages, making you breathe easily, stopping the inflammation and discharge and driving from your system every catarrh germ that has found lodgment there.

If you want to be free from every symptom of catarrh, are tired of trying one thing after another without benefit go to Dr. J. Fry or any other reliable drug store, get a complete Hyomei inhaler outfit, use it every day for a few minutes and if it does not drive the catarrh germs out of your system and give you real lasting relief from catarrh, your druggist will give you your money back.

United Press War Writers Scoring Daily Triumphs

San Francisco, July 8.—Declaring the United Press played a big part in making the new order of things in journalism possible, James Schermerhorn, publisher of the Detroit Times, spoke for that organization at today's session of the International Press Congress here. He declared that under the old system of restriction and limitation, it was practically impossible for a newspaper to adopt an aggressive policy with as much the progressive newspaper of today. He paid tribute to the achievements of the United Press staff men in the European war, declaring the organization had come with flying colors through the greatest test to which modern journalism had ever been put.

GO NO FARTHER

The Evidence Is At Your Door.

Salmon proof is what you want and the statement of this highly respected resident will banish all doubt.

"I. H. Root, Route No. 9, Salem, says: 'I believe a good started kidney trouble is my case. The frequent action of my kidneys annoyed me day and night and sometimes I was unable to sleep. The passages of the kidney secretions were attended with a burning pain. If I tried to stop, I had sharp twinges in the small of my back. I felt weak, tired and listless and often I took away. Nothing helped me until I took Dr. King's Kidney Pills as a friend's advice. In less than a month I felt like a different man and four boxes made me well. The pains went away and the kidney secretions became natural. I highly recommend Dr. King's Kidney Pills after they helped me so greatly and I now willingly confirm that statement.'"
