School Teachers In Portland May Marry and Teach

Portland, Ore., July 12.—With the exception of an occasional "stiff snuff" from a few one-eyed snobs, Portland teachers were today jubilant over Circuit Judge Morrow's decision granting the fair ones of their number the right to marry without fear of dismissal.

Judge Morrow in a decision Saturday ordered the school board to reinstate Mrs. Ansel L. Richards, who had been discharged in January for marrying, and to pay her the salary she would have received had she occupied her usual place in the school room.

A club woman here yesterday pleaded with Judge Morrow's decision. "Women have political equality in Oregon so why should they not be granted the privilege of marrying whenever they choose regardless of their position? It was the consensus of opinion of four me leaders in all lines of endeavor."

They also declared that "motherhood leaves of absence" should be granted by the school board without hesitation.

"Marriage is grand, but nothing is grander than motherhood," it was declared.

Mrs. Aristene Felts, president of the Oregon Congress of Mothers, urged on Thursday before Judge Morrow's findings.
