CAROL S. DIBBLE.

One of the most pleasurable picnics ever given by the Salem Alumni association of the Oregon Agricultural college was held Friday night by the graduates and ex-students at the George Weeks' country home. The excursion party made the trip in jitneys, thus involving the spirit of meriment and jobification at the very start. Arriving at the Weeks' farm, the picnickers proceeded to the river bank, where swimming, boating and other water diversions were enjoyed. An inviting surprise awaited the merry-makers in the form of a huge basket of peaches, donated by their hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Weeks. Those features without which no college picnic is complete, a companionable bonfire, the aroma of roasting waffles, and the singing of old college songs, were part of the program, as always, and helped to make the evening one long to be remembered. Those present were: Honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hulffson, Mr. and Mrs. George Weeks, Mark D. McAllister, Dorothy E. Steusloff, Mrs. Harace Sykes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward, Miss Frances Ward, Roland McAllister, Roy Smith, Mabel B. Robinson, Lloyd L. Robinson, Frances Gellantly, Ada M. Allister, Mrs. Perry A. Capper, David Wright, Wilda Solomon, Mrs. David Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Connel Dyer, Mrs. Joyce Hays, May Steusloff, Edith Shaw, Mildred Wilson, J. C. Leedy, L. W. Metzger and Curtis Wetzel.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Downing and little daughter, Iona, who have been visiting Mr. Downing's mother, Mrs. J. H. Cradabaugh, for two weeks, left for their home, Council Bluffs, Iowa, Saturday evening.

Miss Philippine Schmidt, of Olympia, Wash., has been the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Schmidt the past week. Miss Schmidt, who is Mr. Schmidt's cousin, is a student at the Ethical Culture college of New York.

The Degree of Honor Sewing society met at the pretty country home of Mrs. Emily Aufrance, east of Salem, Friday afternoon. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by the members and their guests, who brought their work, though the gathering Friday was rather more social than the regular meetings. Delightful musical numbers contributed by some of the ladies added to the pleasure of the occasion. It was decided to hold a banquet later in the season. Mrs. Aufrance was assisted in serving by Mrs. Eugene Aufrance and Miss Adams. Those present were: Mrs. Carrie Holman, Mrs. W. R. Auler, Mrs. M. J. Hill, Mrs. R. Stutzman, Mrs. L. Hansen, Mrs. M. Johnson, Mrs. Wm. Koch, Mrs. M. Veyen, Mrs. R. Richter, Mrs. E. Thatcher, Mrs. J. Crasman, Mrs. J. Sellwood, Mrs. E. G. White, Mrs. E. Mason, Mrs. P. Anderson, Mrs. E. Aufrance, Mrs. B. Dinsler, Mrs. E. Bailey, Mrs. H. Hight, Mrs. T. Panjady, Mrs. C. W. Scott, Mrs. G. Hunter, Mrs. Hanfria, Mrs. Devere, Mrs. Standleford and Miss G. Stutzman, Miss Adams and J. W. Holman and Emil Aufrance.

Miss Clara J. Cooley, formerly of Salem, now stenographer for the Farmers' Fire Insurance company at Butteville, Ore., spent the week-end at Bay Ocean with a crowd of young people who are passing a few weeks there.

Dr. M. P. Mendelsohn has received word from Mrs. Mendelsohn that she and her daughter, Ruth, would arrive home the latter part of this week.

A family reunion was held Sunday at the home of Mrs. Emily Aufrance, the occasion being the joint celebration of the birthday of Emily Aufrance on Sunday and that of her brother, Eugene Aufrance, on Monday. The birthday dinner given by Mrs. Aufrance was a most happy one, several friends and neighbors of the family being present also to add to the festivity of the day. Those who celebrated the birthday table were the parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Aufrance, of Duquoin, Mr. and Mrs. B. Aufrance and children, of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Aufrance and children and Mrs. Aufrance's mother, Mrs. E. Z. Mason.

Honoring Miss Leah Watson, who became the bride of Elmer Armstrong Saturday evening, the Arto-Peaco club gathered at the home of the bride-elect on Friday evening, surprising one with an informal dinner. The evening passed merrily with music and story-telling. Present were: Miss Pearl Cooney, Miss Audrey Hicks, Miss Trana Rowley, Miss Olive Castro, Miss Mabel Brushfield, Miss Mabel Holstein, Miss Francis Anderson, Mrs. Pearl Collins and Miss Ruby Backy.

Miss Mary Fox and her sister, Miss Helen Cox, of Brown, Indiana, have been passing to and from Salem as the guests of Mrs. L. M. Kessler and Mr. and Mrs. Al Poland. Having come west by way of Canada they visited relatives in Spokane and Seattle, Wash., and in Portland. Saturday night they left for San Francisco, where they will remain a month, returning home about September 15th via Alameda and Kansas City, who is a history teacher in Brown, Ind., and was one of the surviving passengers of the ill-fated Columbus, which was wrecked off the coast of Florida, Cal.

BRINGS PRESIDENT NEWS FROM EUROPE

Ira Nelson Morris leaving White House after conference with Wilson.

Ira Nelson Morris, American minister to Stockholm, Sweden, has just returned to the United States for the purpose of having an operation performed. It is rumored, however, that the time chosen for the operation is opportune to bring to the president all important confidential information regarding the relations between the Scandinavian countries and the fighting powers. Immediately after his arrival last week he called at the White House.

August Kehrberger Back From Convention of German-American Alliance

August Kehrberger, president of the local German society, is home from San Francisco, where he went as a delegate to the German-American National Alliance convention. He reports a splendid gathering and the greatest meeting he ever attended.

The attendance and enthusiasm at the convention was unprecedented, and prominent men from all over the country made addresses during the sessions.

On German-American day at the exposition there were 35,000 marchers in the parade, according to the estimates of San Francisco papers, and great crowds of spectators lined the streets through which the procession passed.

It was a wonderful exhibition of the strength of the allied German-American societies of the United States.

Mr. Kehrberger is enthusiastic over his trip, his greatest surprise and pleasure being in the magnitude of the convention and the interest manifested by the delegates. It was probably the greatest gathering of German-Americans held in this country, the delegates representing organizations whose membership runs into hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of American citizens of German descent, and represented every profession, business and pursuit in this country.

A Galley o' Fun!

COMFORT. Mr. Fluddub.—You women are mighty slow. During the time it took you to select that hat I went out and made two hundred dollars. Mrs. Fluddub.—I'm so glad, dear. You'll need it!

WHERE HER THOUGHTS WERE.

The husband was reading a newspaper account to his wife. Now and then he paused and asked a question. The nature of her replies made him doubt that she was listening closely. He accused her of having thoughts elsewhere, and she indignantly retorted that she had heard every word.

He continued reading for a few minutes, and then glanced at her. From the far-away look in her eyes he knew her thoughts were not upon the item he was reading. So, turning the sheet as an excuse for the pause, he continued as follows apparently reading:

"Last night, at about two o'clock in the afternoon, just a few minutes before breakfast, a hungry boy about sixty years old bought a doughnut for nine pins and threw it through a concrete wall twenty feet thick. With a cry of despair he jumped into a dry mill-pond, broke his arm at the knee-joint, and was drowned. It was only ten years later, on the same day and at the same hour, that a goat gave birth to six elephants. A high wind then came up and killed three dead horses and a wooden cigar Indian." What do you think of that, dear?" he questioned suddenly.

She gave a little start, smiled, and said: "I think that's a splendid bargain, Henry. You had better get a half-dozen, for your stock of shirts is low!"

THE CAUSE OF HIS TROUBLE

The Professor.—Interesting! Very interesting! The Drone.—That's it! I'd be let alone if I wasn't so blamed interesting!

ANTIQUITY.

A chair encumbers our dim hall. Moth-eaten is its faded seat; Its legs are short, its back is tall; 'Tis but a trap for passing feet. You cannot sit upon the Chair; Its framework is so very weak; But Wife insists its place is there Because it's real antique.

A Tale came from our home town. 'Twas shaky, scratched, and full of nicks. One leaf folds up, and one folds down; It holds a brace of candlesticks. It wobbles if you go too near; The knobs are chipped, the drawers all leak. Yet it has come to stay I fear, Because it's real antique.

A Bed has shown up to replace The staunch couch where I sought repose. The hanging draperies brush my nose; And each one of the post quartette Has a distinctly different squeak; But Wife is singing psalms yet, Because it's real antique.

All through our house it's just the same. I'll grin and bear it, I suppose. Perhaps, when I get worn and lame, And dull and careless of my clothes, Perhaps, I say, they'll prize me then, And in exulting terms they'll speak, And praise me to my fellow-men, Because I'm real antique! Ella Randall Pearce.

ALL CUT UP.

Miss Simpson.—Kin you cut mah nails on de see. Mistah Johnson? Mah name's Gertrude Libbeth Agnes May Gladys Denelope Dorothy Simpson.

Mr. Johnson (sighingly).—Wal I could do dat Miss Simpson but it would spoil de pond to skatin'!

IN PRACTICE.

Husband.—Your extravagance is awful. When I die you'll probably have to beg. Wife.—Well, I should be better off than some poor woman who never had any practice.

KIND OFFICES.

The young person in the story, on being apprised that she was about to sleep a hundred years, so to become the Sleeping Beauty, was not a little skeptical.

"Beauty, nothing! Why by the time I wake up every blessed thing I've got will be out of style!" she exclaimed petulantly.

But her fairy godmother, reassured, ever, could offer some consolation.

"At all events, my dear," chirped she cheerfully, "you need have no fear of the usual effect of slumber in making your nose shiny, for I shall drop in every little while and dab on a bit of powder!" With what result is well known, since the Prince, who at length broke the spell, is squarely on record as never having seen any one half so ravishing.

Madam, Allow Me To Introduce the New Post Toasties

You may have eaten "corn flakes" but you have never tasted any that equal the New Post Toasties.

These new flakes, madam, are crisp and flakey, and have a substance and toastic flavour, a snap and zest that make them distinctive.

Dainty to be sure in their sweetness, the New Post Toasties have a body and firmness that don't mush down when cream or milk is added; and a true ripe-corn flavour that makes one feel that here, at least, is something really new and good to eat.

New Post Toasties—selected Indian corn, prepared for the table as it was never prepared before.

Your grocer has them now.
