Williams Still Tennis Champ, Beating McLoughlin

Newport, Aug. 21 - R. Norris Williams, the national tennis champion, again took the measure of Maurice McLoughlin, former title holder, by defeating him in the final match for the classic Casino cup here.

McLoughlin faded quickly after winning the first set and thought he obviously was bringing all his cunning into play. Williams took the remaining sets with comparative ease.

Williams was playing at the top of his game while the "California comet" did not display the form which restrained the national title for him so long. The first set went to deuce and McLoughlin then smashed his way through the winning 7-5.

A great gallery was present to witness the match.
