THOUSANDS PICKING HOPS IN POLK NOW

Growers' Association Aims To Control Fifty Per Cent of Total Crop

Approximately 7,000 persons are now engaged in the Independence hop district gathering the harvest from an acreage closely estimated at 3,000, of which the Willamette river town is the logical center, according to the Dallas Observer. Portland has sent about 3,000 persons into the hop yards this season, the remaining number coming from various parts of the state. About 225 persons are required to a 100-acre tract. Nearly all the yards are short-handed this season, accounted for from the fact that the harvest began unusually early, overlapping the grain harvest, and the reduction from 50 to 40 cents per box for picking, which is considered by the growers to be a fair price under present market conditions. The price outlook for 1915 non-contracted hops is not encouraging; neither is it depressing. The average hop man will say that the price will be somewhere between 12 cents and 40 cents. Twelve cents is reckoned as the bottom price, because it will cost 10 cents to get the hops "in the bale" this year. The growers say the price will depend mainly on the following: The ability of the hopgrowers' association to control a majority of the supply; the buying activity of the London market; the quantity and quality of the general output. There is no doubt that market equilibrium will be brought about in time by the formation of hopgrowers' associations. Hop men agree that if a fair percentage of the supply can be controlled the business can be made conservative. Anyway, these associations which now have taken definite form are eliminating the middleman by selling directly to the brewer.

J. S. Cooper, of Independence, who is engaged in association work, is of the opinion that 50 per cent of the non-contracted hops will be lined up by the associations this year. If London firms come briskly in the market and cheerfully pay the excessive extra cost of war insurance, high exchange and prohibitive freight rates, the price will be good. It is evident that there is a shortage of hops in the country generally, but the quality is excellent. This ought to make for better prices certainly. Contrary to some reports the crop around Independence is both heavy and of high quality. C. A. McLaughlin, big owner and a man whose opinion is given much consideration, says his yard will average 1,400 pounds per acre and believes about 25,000 bales will be shipped from the country tributary to Independence. The raising of hops in Polk county furnishes employment to a large number during the three weeks of the harvest, and that hop-picking is remunerative is illustrated by the earnings of a family coming from the Skelton country, where they have a home-stand and where they have undertaken to carve out a home for the future. This rural resident is the possessor of a wife and ten children, who are picking in the Cooper yard, where, according to the family head, together they are averaging fifty boxes per day, or $20. Counting $4 per day for expenses a handsome sum is being netted. To a newspaper man who visited this field the mother said she expected to make near $300, which would clothe the children through the winter months and provide them with books for school.

In Other Districts. But the Independence district is not the only section of Polk county which produces hops. Surrounding Dallas are many smaller hop yards, where hundreds of persons are now engaged, most of them going forth in the morning and returning to town at the close of the day's work. The upland crops are showing up better than was anticipated before the harvest began, while the quality is considered fairly good by the growers. Some of the yards have finished picking by a whole the gathering of the crop is only about half through. The one yard from which a larger crop than that of last year will be gathered is that of Fanning & Brooks, at Ballston. They have 45 acres and estimate that from this year they will harvest between 70,000 and 80,000 pounds. This is in what is known as the Sheridan district, where a conservative estimate of this year's output is 2,000 bales, or just 50 per cent of the usual output. Ordinarily not less than 4,000 bales are gathered. This estimate is based on the result of pickings in some of the yards where harvest has begun. The Horst yard, containing 567 acres, is the largest in the world. From 1,250 to 1,500 pickers, besides a machine, are employed there to gather the crop. The machine cost $17,000 to build, and while it requires forty persons to operate it, it performs the work of 100 human pickers. The machine, however, is used only in the poorer grade of hops. Five thousand bales of hops is the estimate from the Horst yard.

At other representative hop yards in the Independence district pickers are being employed as follows: C. L. Mitchell, 400 pickers; H. H. Hanna and John Hanna, 400; Mrs. J. H. Burton, 400; Spurling Brothers, 200; Walker Brothers and Cook Brothers jointly, 150. At the 300-acre yard of C. A. McLaughlin, from which 2,000 bales of hops are expected to be produced, 700 pickers are employed, and at the Wigham yard of the same acres 800 pickers are working. The latter yard is owned by Wigham & Richardson of London, England. At the Krebs yard the picking is being carried on by contract, Japs being employed.

"New Thought" Convention Meets In Los Angeles

San Francisco, Sept. 8.—Dr. New Thought New, of Los Angeles, originator of the "New thought movement," whose devotees are in convention here, today declared that his life will span 500 years, and that he has his work planned that far ahead.

Dr. New thinks the old and the new, the good and the true in scriptures, psychology and religion are found in Newology. "Eventually it will overcome error, poverty and death," he said. Dr. New asked if his father, John Fair New, founder of the New thought science was still alive. Dr. New hesitated and said: "He did not complete his mission here on earth, but he has designated me his successor and I shall carry out the propaganda."

(Helps to Beauty) A safe, reliable home-treatment for the quick removal of superfluous hairs from your face or neck is as follows: Mix a stiff paste with some water and powdered talc, apply to objectionable hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This simple treatment is unfailing and no pain or inconvenience attends its use, but to avoid disappointment be certain you get genuine delatone.

SUICIDE SCARE AT M'COY.

"If I had no children to consider I believe I would end these worldly woes," said Mrs. Lance, the widow proprietor of the hotel at McCoy, as she mourned, before friends, the death of one member of her little family. With that expression she retired to her room. A lodger in quarters nearby heard the lady tumble onto her bed, sobbing pitifully. Soon there came a thud—she had fallen to the floor—and all was silent, with the quietness of death. The lodger hurried to the room, battered the door and found Mrs. Lance in a lifeless heap at the bedside. He cried for help and the populace of McCoy swarmed the place. Dr. Starbuck of Dallas was called to the case, and in the meantime first aid doses of strychnine were administered, in all a tenth of a grain, almost enough to kill a human being. The doctor found that the patient had fainted, exhausted by worry, and that she had no intention of suicide. He took some pains to relieve her from the effects of the strychnine and administered the first aid. Had Mrs. Lance died the verdict of the coroner would have been most likely, suicide. Still the fatal potion would have been administered by her well wishes.—Dallas Observer.
