THE "FAILURES" OF WILSON

The jingo press of the country is ringing the changes on the alleged failure of the administration's foreign policy. Of course the outcome of the negotiations with Germany has recently done much to silence the clamor. And after all what constitutes success or failure in diplomacy at this time?

We have not secured peace in Mexico. That is unfortunately true. But would war with Americans be better for the Mexicans than the existing state of affairs? Could war gain for us what diplomacy has failed to gain? Would conquest of that unhappy country make of us a better nation, or of it a more enlightened and happy people? If so these matters can be attended to quite as well in the future as in the past and in the meantime there remains at least a remote chance that Mexico may adjust her troubles in her own way, and come out of her bitter civil war a free and law abiding nation. The only "failure" as to Mexico has been the "failure" of the administration to plunge us into war.

Have we failed in our European diplomacy? Very possibly some persons may think so. But we are facing new issues in a new time. How have European nations met these issues? By war upon each other. And at the end of a year of fighting on the greatest scale the world has ever seen nothing is settled. Some day, in some city of the world, the diplomats will get together and do exactly what could have been done before the murder and pillage started. The only real "failure" made by the administration in its conduct of diplomacy with Europe has been its failure to become one of the insane and warring nations.

We have failed to have war, and we have peace. Peace may not continue to be our portion. But whatever the stress of events the die is not yet cast, and there is opportunity for other nations to resume that attitude toward us which is the assurance of peace for the future.

This is not weakness. It is the attitude of all peace loving people, and in this sad hour of the world's mighty travail can win more of lasting value for us as a nation than can the rattling of the sabre.

Exports from the United States to South America during recent months show marked improvement over last year, the total for June, 1915, being valued at $13,744,000, against $7,573,000 in June, 1914; and for the six months ending with June last, $60,573,000 in comparison with $52,263,000 for the first half and $38,751,000 for the last half of 1914. Imports from South America are also considerably larger than a year ago. For June the official figures of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, just published in its "Monthly Summary of Foreign Commerce," show a total of $26,210,000, against $17,118,000 in June, 1914; and for the six months ending June 30, $156,043,000 against $144,074,000 in the first half and $105,447,000 in the second half of 1914. During the earlier months of the fiscal year our trade with South America was seriously disturbed, and our total exports thereto in 1914 fell in value to $99,324,000, or $25,000,000 below 1913, and it was not until March, 1915, that the upward trend was definitely resumed.

When this country gets a force capable of keeping Colonel Roosevelt from speaking right out what he thinks it will be able to lay down the law to both hemispheres, remarks the Chicago Herald.

Dr. New, leader of the "New Thought" idea, thinks he will live to be five hundred years old. Evidently has a new thought coming on that subject.

NO GOOD TO BE A GROUCH

There is nothing in being gloomy, nothing in sulking, nothing but meanness in taking a frown into the home. Give us the fellow that can smile in spite of a troublesome liver or an unmanageable sweetheart.

Grouches do not pay. When a cheerful disposition is backed by a resolute purpose, success likes to meet it at least half-way. Smiles make friends where frowns incite antagonisms.

To be sure, there are times when everything seems to go wrong. Wishes fail of realization, hopes are disappointed, plans miscarry, efforts are defeated. It's natural then for depression to take hold; but the man worth while keeps his head up and his face a-smiling.

Some one has said that there are links in the chain of every life that must be forged of sheer nerve. We all know it to be true. In forging these links, however, we are forging that most priceless of possessions—character. Are not the sweetest of our memories those that recall the smiling fights we made nobody knew or even guessed? There is nothing but meanness and misery in a grouch.

BEFORE AND AFTER

"To gain a smile from your starry eyes, I'd slay a dragon," the lover cries. "I'd dip the sea from its ancient bed, I'd scoop the snow from yon mountain's head, I'd grab a star from the spangled sky, to light your path as you toddle by. I'd catch a whale, though it's fierce and fleet, and proudly lay it before your feet. Whatever a mortal man can do, will be done by me, dear love for you." Oh, the fair maid falls for this tommyrot, and off to the parson then they trot, and the good man says, "You are man and wife; I have sentenced you, and your terms for life." The passerby, when a year has flown, may hear the passionate husband groan: "The minute I step within these doors, you have a list of a thousand chores. There is no rest for a weary soul; you want some water, you want some coal, I should be mowing the ding-donged lawn, or pulling weeds till the light is gone, or pruning trees with a butcher knife—a man's a chump when he takes a wife!" Oh, girls who plan to be happy fraus, beware the man who is long on vows!

Life Long Friend Extols Honor of H. H. Savage at Bier of Pioneer Teacher

As H. H. Savage, who was one of the pioneer school teachers of this state, and Hon. William Galloway were life-long friends, the latter was asked to make a few remarks at the funeral of his lifelong friend. A few extracts from Judge Galloway's talk were written out and are published at the request of the family of the deceased.

THE TARIFF BOGY.

In this last fiscal year our purchases of foreign goods were smaller by $200,000,000 than in the year before, and at the end of the period commodity prices in the United States, as reflected by Bradstreet's index number, were the highest ever known. But in spite of that the country, our protectionist friends tell us, is being mysteriously ruined by the pauper labor of Europe.

The tariff labor is getting killed and maimed to an extent that appalls the world. The factories in which it was employed are increasingly disorganized by war. The capital behind it is being shot away at the rate of tens of millions of dollars a day. But those things were mere broken reeds to lean upon, unless we are further fortified against European competition by a very high tariff.

A Galley o' Fun!

HIS APPLICATION ALREADY ON FILE.

Justice of Peace.—Your wife says you struck her. Have you any excuse to offer, Uncle?
The Prisoner.—Ah suttinly has Judge. While I wuz prayin' fo' rain fo' mah yardin, she starts in prayin' fo' fair wedder 'case she was 'gwine to wash!

HYPNOTIC.
Margaret.—I think Mr. Baker could easily hypnotize people.
Katharine.—Why do you think so?
Margaret.—He often holds my hand till it falls asleep.

INEVITABLE.
Husband.—Why do you ask Mr. Hobson to every one of your dinners? Who wants him?
Wife.—The cook. He's the on' friend of ours whom she likes.

THE GENTLE HOG.

We are all for Cheap Goods
When we start out to buy.
And we're all for Free Air
When we're minded to fly.

We are all for Free Smokes,
Like a lot of old Japs;
And we favor Free Lunch
When the other man pays.

We lie on Free Beds
In the Hospital Ward;
And we sponge on our Friends
For a little Free Board.

We approve of Free Farms,
When we're ready to fence;
And we cabage Free Seals
At the Public Expense.

We approve of Low Freight,
When we're shipping the Stuff;
And the Postage is high,
And we're paying enough.

We will take a Free Pass
With a wink and a grin;
And we cuddle our Grabs,
And we think it no sin.

And when others are Clubbed,
We're for Raking the Muck;
And we're all for Free Trade
In the Other Man's Truck!

PERSUASIVE.

Far from concealing anything of pertinency to the issue, the old serpent freely confessed that, if Eve should eat the apple, it meant clothes from that time forward.

EVEN THEN.

First Antediluvian (to Methuselah's dame).—What's the discussion about over there?
Second Ditto.—Same old topic: Whether a man aged 320 ought to marry a girl of 140.

BEFORE AND AFTER.

Bella.—When you are engaged you tell him that he must economize.
Bella.—And after you are married he tells you that you must.

IN THE GLOAMING.

The Almost-Victim.—You said these lots fronted New York. Why they're at least thirty miles out.
Real Estate Agent.—True, but what of it? See that glow in the sky? That's New York!

THE FIRST INTIMATION.

A poet, once upon a time, was teasing off some trifles light as air. He was not particularly different from other poets, yet when, by chance, he tossed off a trifle lighter than air, he fell for a moment thoughtful.

TO UPBUILD DAIRYING.

Portland, Or., Sept. 9.—The upbuilding of the dairy industry of Oregon and the entire northwest is planned by local creamery and dairy interests who will immediately put forth inducements to those willing to improve former methods.

The plan of the creamery is to offer a special premium to dairymen to take better care of their product, to secure cows that will produce a better grade of cream and for the shipment of supplies to market more quickly and in a cleaner condition than previously attempted by a majority of the dairymen.

NO PAJAMAS FOR JACK TARS

San Francisco, Sept. 10.—Your Uncle Sammy's boys of the fleet will never again resemble the pajama girl in a twentieth century musical comedy.

Far from concealing anything of pertinency to the issue, the old serpent freely confessed that, if Eve should eat the apple, it meant clothes from that time forward.

EAT LESS AND TAKE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you.
The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

CLERGYMAN BLEETED
