Marvelous Scenes In "Lady Audley's Secret"

Theda Bara, famous the world over, for her wonderfully characterizations of the Vampire, in "A Fool There Was" and "The Devil's Daughter" is seen in a somewhat different role in the recent William Fox sensational photo drama "Lady Audley's Secret."

Heretofore Miss Bara has portrayed the parts of women who are innately bad or wicked. In "Lady Audley's Secret" however, she is cast for a part that depicts a woman who causes misery to two men, but does it subconsciously. It is the story of a woman cursed by a hereditary insanity which is brought out by a series of terrible misfortunes, catastrophes which would seem to cause any sound mind to become unbalanced. It is the fact that Lady Audley commits the crimes she does while insane that makes the characterization so particularly delicate. It is necessary to trace the oncoming of the insanity from a vague, undefinable beginning through to a series of horrible crimes. Miss Bara maintains the crescendo tempo of the action marvelously, as perhaps she alone could have done it.

As a matter of fact when the scenes depicting the emotional crisis of the story were being made, when Lady Audley loses herself in a frenzy of madness, Miss Bara was so overcome by terrific strain under which she labored that she was unable to go on any more that day. She seemed to lose herself altogether in her superb interpretation of the part she was portraying.

Miss Bara is undoubtedly one of the most sincere and convincing artists either on the screen or on the legitimate stage today, and "Lady Audley's Secret" will surely be hailed as an added wreath to her laurels.

S. P. Attorney Will Talk At O. & C. Land Conference

Governor Withycombe has received a telegram from D. W. Campbell, general superintendent of the Southern Pacific railway in Oregon, stating that the Southern Pacific will be represented by P. F. Dunne at the Land Grant conference. It is asked that Mr. Dunne be given an opportunity to speak for twenty minutes, setting forth the railroad company's view of the Land Grant case.

In issuing the original invitations for the Land Grant conference, the governor asked the railroad to be represented should it care to.

The majority of the county courts of counties embracing O. C. lands have already named their delegates to the conference, as have the several organizations requested to appoint delegates.

To this Governor Withycombe replied:

"Most certainly you may quote me as favoring Federal amendment for woman suffrage. I have always believed in equal suffrage for Oregon, and what is good for Oregon is good for the nation."

15 EIGHTH GRADERS ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

Number Taking Examination
In Special Subjects May Enter High School

Fifteen pupils of the schools of this county were awarded eighth grade diplomas after their examination which was held early this week in a number of the towns of this county. The pupils taking the examination at this time were for the most part those who failed to make the required grades in one or two subjects at the county examination held June 4 and 5 and by passing at this time are enabled to enter the high schools at the beginning of the fall term.

Among the pupils who passed the examination at this time was one boy from the Oregon State Training school, the remainder were from the various school districts of the county.

The names of those who were given diplomas are:

Alla Henry Mell, Woodburn; Edna P. McElhenny, Shaw; Dora Arnold, Route 7, Salem; John Clarence Green, Aurora; Oliver S. Olson, Woodburn; Harold Moonaw, Hubbard; Ruth J. Cooke, Silverton; J. Wesley Downs, O. S. T. S.; Helen Williams, Salem, Route 6; Alice Mathey, Salem, Route 6; Bella Schroeder, Salem, Route 6; Minerva Hershberger, Hubbard; Lucille Gladys Neidel, Woodburn; Lauretta Kramer, Woodburn; Bertha Leona Wilson, Woodburn.

Idaho Supreme Court Sustains Prohibition Law

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 13.—The supreme court of Idaho on Saturday sustained the constitutionality of the stringent liquor law enacted by the last legislature.

The act makes it unlawful for a person, firm or corporation to sell, manufacture, dispose of, have in possession, or transport any intoxicating liquor within a prohibition district.

The only exception is the use of pure alcohol for scientific purposes.

The law was attacked on the ground that the clause making it unlawful to have intoxicating liquor in one's possession was in contravention of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States and of the state of Idaho.

The court holds that the law is a reasonable exercise of the police power of the state.

January 1, 1916, the act will apply to the entire state.

Attack On Prohibition Law In Washington

Olympia, Wash., Sept. 13.—On the ground that the initiative and referendum was never legally adopted, another attempt will be made to prevent enforcement of the dry law in this state January 1. Attorneys for M. and K. Gottstein, local wholesale liquor dealers have filed their brief in the supreme court attacking the liquor law on the ground that it was enacted according to the requirements of the initiative and referendum. They claim proceedings leading up to the vote on the initiative and referendum were in violation of the constitutional provisions for amending the constitution.

Republican Leaders Favor Ship Subsidy

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 13.—Ship subsidies instead of a seaman's law is recommended by Representative Simon D. Fess, of Ohio, who is in Seattle today, and who voted against the seaman's bill.

"American ship owners need a subsidy if they are to pay the American standard of wages, and maintain American standards of living," he declared.

With James R. Reynolds, of Massachusetts, Secretary of the National Republican committee, Fess addressed the Young Men's Republican club today.

A BUSINESS TRIUMPH

(Corvallis Times-Gazette.) A fine example of business ability and common sense is displayed by the McElvays Brothers' store of Salem. They came to Salem from Chicago about eight years ago and opened up a tiny booth in an obscure part of the city and put in a lot of cheap notions. Then they advertised them. The average merchant would have said he had no small a stock he couldn't afford to advertise. Not so with McElvays. They published their prices and the prices sold the goods. The larger department stores didn't even notice them at the time,—but they do now. McElvays kept right on in the even tenor of their way. None but the ones to whom a penny saving meant a good deal were to be found in their store for a while. Then they moved into better quarters, carried a better and larger line of goods—and kept on advertising. Their ads spoke out right from the shoulder. They didn't deal in glittering generalities, but contained arguments as to why it was to the advantage of the people to buy goods at their store. Then they had to have more floor space and more clerks and more newspaper space. The haughty stores began to sit up and take notice. Then the town high-brows began to realize that the McElvays had something to sell that was worth investigating. Now the store has moved into the best corner in the town, takes

Central Cigar Store Is Entered by Burglars

When Page & Kane opened up the Central Cigar store at 367 State street yesterday morning they discovered that the place had been ransacked by burglars during the night and about $36 worth of merchandise pipes and eight water fobs each containing a $2.50 gold piece had been taken as well as about 100 cigars from the stock. The watch fobs are made by encircling a $2.50 gold piece with a gold ring which has a loop to hang upon a fob and as they are of genuine U. S. gold coin they may be readily passed by simply spreading the ring and removing them from the fob.

The burglars entered through the rear door which they reached over the roofs of the building next to the store. They pried off the door frame moulding and lifted the latch of the door lock with a thin bladed instrument. The police were notified immediately but no clue to the robbers has been found. The place was entered between midnight Saturday and 6 o'clock Sunday morning.

A page ad in the local papers, had added to its departments and to its prestige. And it is loyal to the Pacific coast products, carrying Pacific coast coffee, spices and teas; Pacific coast condensed milk; Pacific coast cereals and crackers; Oregon pickles, fruits, canned goods and flour and is being refitted with new furniture, constructed of Pacific coast materials and made in Pacific coast factories.

Their success is due entirely to good business methods which were exposed to the public constantly by persistent newspaper advertising.
