BIG PACKING FIRMS WILL FIGHT DECREE

Confiscation of European Cargoes Will Be Resisted To Last Ditch

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Big packing houses, who suffered from yesterday's British prize court confiscation of valuable meat cargoes, planned today to make early protest to the British privy council against the decision. They expect to follow this with an insistent demand that the state department protest the decision upon the ground that it was a violation of international law and a blow at the freedom of the seas.
Thirty-four ships loaded with American meat have been seized by the British since the fall of 1914. Packers explained that four of these were confiscated and carried cargoes valued at $2,500,000, while the remaining thirty are almost certain to be similarly confiscated. In that event, the total packers' loss will be $14,000,000.
Packing representatives were admittedly pessimistic regarding the outcome of the appeal to the privy council, and pointed out that this body has seldom reversed the prize court decision. They are determined, therefore, to fight through diplomatic channels.
C. J. Faulkner, representing the Armour company declared today that the packers intend, however, to do all they can through legal channels to force redress from Great Britain.
The apparent hopelessness of the task however, was emphasized from the fact that he and Henry Veeder, Swift & Co.'s representative, will go to Washington Sunday to confer with Secretary of State Lansing.
Faulkner formally took issue with the prize court decision, calling unreasonable the deduction that the goods were intended for Germany because of the heavy increase in exports to contiguous territory. The increase in shipments to Denmark, he claimed, was due to the fact that she was not receiving her usual supplies from Germany. This will be the chief argument which Faulkner and his assistant will present to Secretary Lansing. Packers hinted that the blow comes "with mighty poor grace" at a time when the allies are attempting to float a big loan in this country.
They did not reply, however, to questions of whether they will attempt to fight the loan project in retaliation. Nor would they say whether any hesitation in shipping meat abroad under present conditions would have the effect of lowering home prices.

CZAR NICHOLAS DASHES EXPECTATIONS

Liberal Element Had High Hopes When Grand Duke Was Demoted

By J. W. T. Mason. (Written for the United Press.)
New York, Sept. 17.—Czar Nicholas has repudiated expectations of the liberals which were aroused when Grand Duke Nicholas was demoted.
Prorogation of the duma was the hardest blow to the democratic movement since the Russian peasants failed to support the revolution of a decade ago.
It is most deplorable from the standpoint of democracy, that the czar should have shown his repugnance for the duma so quickly—after the liberals overthrew the conservatives. It is not the duma itself that the czar distrusts, but rather the duma controlled by progressives who waste human rights.
In his attitude toward that body, the czar has missed an opportunity voluntarily to ally Russia with western progress. Instead, he has turned to his own spirit of irresponsible autocracy. But, if he fails to save Russia from defeat he must abandon his effort to make Russia more autocratic than it now is.
Whether the liberals can force him to recognize the mistake he has made—without assistance from the German armies—cannot be now answered.
Yet now is the time for them to attempt to force this recognition upon him. If they do not now seize this opportunity, but wait instead until the war is over the czar will be able to use the same bloody tactics with which he put down the revolution a decade ago.
He cannot, however, fight the Teutons and an internal revolution at the same time.
BILLY CLIFFORD TO-NIGHT AT THE GRAND
Billy "Single" Clifford, who has been a regular annual attraction in Salem for a number of years, appears to-night at the Grand in a characteristic musical farce, "Walk This Way," which is guaranteed to banish the blues and cheer the heart of the wearied business man and his entire family.
A feature of Mr. Clifford's show this season is a lady's brass band, which will give a street parade this afternoon and a concert before the entertainment at the theatre.
"Walk This Way" contains absolutely nothing of a serious nature. It was made for laughing purposes only and to provide an evening's entertainment of high character. Briefly it may be described as a riot of girls and mirth and melody, and those who attend the performance will be amply repaid for doing so.
Prices are 25c, 50c, 75c and $1.
SALEM MAN APPEARS IN "THE PUPPET CROWN"
"The Puppet Crown," picturization of the well known novel of that name, which is to be shown at the Grand theatre tomorrow, will have an added interest for Salem people in the fact that Steve Henderson, formerly a clerk in the Barnes store and who has been seen a number of times in home talent dramatics, appears in a minor part. Salem people will look eagerly for his familiar face among the Lasky stars.
SUBLIMITY SEOTS

Mrs. Geo. Bell left this morning for a few days' visit in Portland.
W. H. Downing states that a tree at the back of his house was riddled from top to bottom, Sunday morning when the lightning struck it.
Jack Peterjanos, wife and baby and A. Zuber drove to Jefferson Sunday.
Louis Koenig sold a fine cow to Sestak & Sons Monday.
Glenn Smith, with a party of friends, met with what might have been a serious accident, on Saturday night while riding on a road near Independence. Just as Mr. Smith with his Buick turned a corner another Buick driven by a man named Quirk, came around the corner from the opposite direction and drove directly into the front of Smith's car. It is supposed that he was temporarily blinded by the lights on the Smith car. Mr. Smith took his car to the garage at once for repairs. It was found that two lamps had been torn off and a large hole made in the radiator. It is stated that the other car was damaged to such an extent that it could not be made to run. A lucky incident in connection with the accident, was the fact that no one was injured.—Stayton Standard.

FRANCE PESSIMISTIC ON PEACE OUTLOOK Last Call of Reserve Is Notice That War Will Be Fought To Finish

By William Sims. (United Press staff correspondent.)
Paris, Sept. 17.—France sees no prospect of peace, despite the heavily mounting cost of hostilities. By passing the bill calling 400,000 more of her sons to the colors, the French parliament will notify Germany that the war is to be a fight to a finish.
Officialdom today endorsed the statement of Premier Asquith, of England, that the struggle is a gigantic battle of resources. Recent developments, including the German machine failure to crush the Russian armies, has convinced the French that the tide is about to turn in favor of Germany's enemies.
Inasmuch as the class of 1917, called to the colors in the newest draft submitted to parliament, cannot take to the trenches before 25th, this is regarded as an indication of belief that the war is to continue at least another year. The orders to hold the 1888 class in readiness for service were issued as a precautionary measure, because otherwise it would have been mustered out next month, under the time limit. The bill introduced yesterday makes them liable for service in case of an "emergency."

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE NOW ON IN BERLIN Effort Will Be Made to Settle All Differences With America For Good

By Carl W. Ackerman. (United Press staff correspondent.)
Berlin, Sept. 17.—An important series of conferences designed to settle for the remainder of the far all German American differences began today, following receipt of a long communication from Ambassador Von Bernstorff, transmitted through American Ambassador Gerard.
Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg, Foreign Secretary Von Jagow and Grand Admiral Von Tirpitz constituted the conferees on the Bernstorff message. It was understood to carry evidence of the Arabic torpedoing, as gathered by the American state department from sworn affidavits made to its diplomatic officials abroad.
Before Germany makes further reply bankers, business men and government department heads will be asked to express their views.
The conferees realize that the final decision rests with Germany. Hence it is intended that the reply shall be the voice of the whole people.
Von Bernstorff will continue to play an important role in negotiations between the two nations, it became known today, thus disposing of reports that his government did not approve his attitude of conciliating the United States. Rumors that one hears the most frequently are:
First, that Von Bernstorff reported to the foreign office that America demands a written, direct assurance that submarines hereafter will not attack passenger carrying vessels without warning, and without opportunity for them to escape.
Second, that America is seeking assurances that Germany will never make war on her, and will never question the Monroe doctrine.
Third, that the whole German-American controversy will be settled by arbitration through The Hague tribunal.
The American situation has aroused more interest than any phase of developments arising from Germany's submarine warfare. The popular belief is that the negotiations will end satisfactorily to both governments.
President Wilson's decision to conduct negotiations through private discussion between the two countries was greeted most favorably here. As a matter of fact, officialdom has never been able to understand why America desired to publish state documents.

Faith In Success of Loan Negotiations (Copyright, 1915, by the New York Evening Post.)
New York, Sept. 17.—What is evidently an increasingly confident belief in Wall street in the success of the allies' loan proposal, found expression again today in the sterling market. The rate which advanced three points during business hours yesterday and advanced another point after the exchanges closed, rose three points further today. At 84.73 1/2 thus reached, the rate was highest since August 12. A reaction from the high mark in the closing hours indicated that the movement of readjustment may have spent its force.
None assumed from the sterling markets action this morning, as many did yesterday, that the loan negotiations had been successfully completed. This will take time and will necessitate a good deal in the way of adjusting details that still conflict.
Stocks were entirely governed by the over-night announcement of a 50 per cent cash dividend of the General Motors company derived chiefly from profits on the war contracts of the past fiscal year, though partly from other surplus funds.
This news was naturally utilized by other "war stocks" which have not confessed what the war has really done for them. Some of these as may be readily supposed were bid up violently.
