SHOULD A MOTHER TELL WAS GREAT DRAMATIC ACTOR

In the latest William Fox production "Should a Mother Tell?" there is seen dramatic action that is rarely if ever beheld upon the screen. The story itself, by Rex Ingram, is one of exceptional power and presents a problem that calls for dramatic action of such intensity as could be portrayed by perhaps no other actress than Betty Nansen. As the mother torn between an almost fanatical sense of justice and a desire for the happiness of her daughter, Miss Nansen has opportunities to display her wonderful emotional powers exceptionally. Indeed, it may be said that in "Should a Mother Tell?" an ideal vehicle has been found for this extraordinarily gifted actress.

Stuart Holmes, who supports Miss Nansen in this production as Gaspard, the secondarily husband, portrays the part to perfection, and Arthur Hoops and Claire Whitney, as the Baron and Baroness Gaurier, do exceptionally well with their respective roles. In many respects this picture is one of the most remarkable released in quite some time.

Strenuous Feats Performed By Actress Marie Dressler

New York, Sept. 18.—Supposing you were built on rather generous lines—about six feet or so altitudinously and fairly well horizontally—supposing so, how would you like to:

Fall twice off moving automobiles. Be pushed through a brick wall. Be yanked up into the air on a steel cable. Be rolled under the open spigot of a molasses keg. Jump from a culvert onto the top of a moving freight train. Jump from the address moving train into a little box?

Marie Dressler, comedienne, does all these things and a lot of other slightly less bone-breaking stunts in her new movie—and likes them. In fact, she is crazy about the movies and insists, nevermore for the stage. She is taking a vacation just at present after working out "Tillie's Tomato Surprise" in her new six reel laugh producer in which she pulls the stunts enumerated above.

"Yes," she remarked, "those stunts are a little hard on the nerves, and I've accumulated a number of bruises—but there was an awful lot of fun in making the picture. In one scene I'm supposed to be pushed through a brick wall. Naturally we built that wall with watery mortar, not expecting it to stick together very much. But something intervened and we couldn't take that particular scene on the afternoon the brick wall was constructed. The next day when we came to filming it, we found the mortar had dried—and I want to tell you that it was a mighty hard brick wall that I was ramed against."

Miss Dressler is a great movie hooster and is advising all her stage friends to take up the work. She had a private exhibition of her new film at the Geary Farms Hotel, White Plains, recently, and invited William Courtney and his wife, Virginia Harwood, Louise Dressler, Ethel Barrymore, and a host of other stage stars to witness the film. All through the evening she was as nervous as if she was going through the "first night" of a real stage show.

Movie News Notes

"Well, you dear old things, how beautiful you are!" That's the way Kathryn Williams talks to lions and tigers. She does truly. First she walks over to the cage and looks 'em in the eye. Then she speaks to 'em kindly, and after that they just naturally become her friends. It is all the system she has, and Kathryn says it's not copyrighted.

Chester Conklin is some swimmer. If you don't believe me you should hear the story they tell about one of his adventures in the hairy deep. In making a new two-reel Keystone there was a scene that left Chester in a state of exhaustion at the finish. It was a lively scene, with Chester and a half dozen of the other members of the company in deep and rough water. He fought bravely after the other members of the company had returned to shore, and finally triumphed; but if it hadn't been for his swimming we wouldn't have had any more Chester.

Myrtle Steadman has been chosen to play with Maelyn Arbuckle in "The Reformed Politician" for the Moscow people at the Bosworth studios. The piece will be directed by Frank Lloyd. Miss Steadman is delighted with her new part.

That pretty little ingenue, Neva Gerber, who has thousands of friends she made in "America Beauty" (Mutual), makes it a point to find out what her friends really think of her. Every week she takes a different group of them to see her new releases and binds them in honor to express their true opinions, whether favorable or not. In this way she learns how to correct her faults and accentuate her talents.

Mike is the name of the Lubin monkey in Philadelphia. And some monkey in Mike. He receives $3 a day and enough peanuts and candy to feed a whole family of ordinary monkeys. Mike's pet aversion is the office cat. He spends most of his spare time tearing poor pussy. The other day he took his best friend, who in the Lubin dachshund, in his arms and carried him to where Pussy was and dropped him on top of her. The dachshund, being Mike's playfellow, did not object to the voyage, but even he did not like the contact with the cat and a lively fight ensued to the amusement of Mike.

Winifred Greenwood has the record of playing the greatest number of parts of any film favorite. You will remember her as the gifted young American (Mutual) player. She has played over 800 parts and has only been in the movies a few years. During her career in the "legitimate" she played 300 parts, varying from that of a child in "Zigzag Alley" to leading woman in her own road company.

Uncle Jimmie Daly is one of the most important people in the Lubin studios. He is 60-odd, but doesn't look over 40. Two-score years ago he became an actor and played many parts in many productions. Thirty years ago he had a dramatic school in Philadelphia, and today some of his pupils are stars of the theatrical world.

Portland Golf Club House Is Destroyed

Portland, Ore., Sept. 18.—Starting from a defective flue, fire totally destroyed the club house of the Portland Golf club at FRILOCK station early today. The loss, including the building, furnishings and the members' personal property, is estimated at between $4,000 and $5,000.

Several club members, who were making their homes in the club house during the summer months, were handicapped in fighting the flames on account of the lack of water.

Former Governor West Speaks To Conference On Land Grant Question

Former Governor West made one of the principal addresses before the land grant conference Thursday. In concluding his remarks he said:

"In the consideration of the construction of the railroad company we should keep in mind that the court in enjoining further sales of the lands had this to say of past illegal sales:

"In view of the disregard of the covenants, and gain of illegal emoluments, and in view of the government's interest in the exact observance of them it might seem that restrictions upon the future conduct of the railroad company and its various agencies is imperfect relief; but the government has not asked for more. In other words, had the government asked for a greater relief they would undoubtedly have received it."

"It also said:

"This suit was brought, it is alleged, to determine title rights and remedies as to the unold lands and that subsequently other suits will be instituted as to the sold lands, rights and remedies as to them being in effect reserved. Therefore, the decree in this suit shall be without prejudice to any other suits, rights or remedies which the government may have by law.

"In analyzing the claims of the railroad company with a view of arriving at the amount which is justly due them which have been made and remember that it had in the beginning a no greater equity in the grant than $8,000,000; that its receipts from sales, leases, etc., amount to over $5,000,000, leaving a balance due of not exceeded the amount it claims it has paid to date; that the administration expense the company claims to have incurred was of its own making and can be properly be charged as against its equity in the lands. These facts, however, should not stand in the way of the state making liberal allowances to the company should negotiations be entered into with a view of purchasing the grant.

In conclusion let me suggest that whatever plan may be submitted to you by the governor of our state should receive your most careful consideration.

"This holding company could, with the consent of congress, take over the grant, and after pledging it for security for the funds necessary to satisfy the claims of the railroad company, deed the lands to the state for the benefit of the school fund.

"The grant, of course, would be taken over by the state subject to the mortgage indebtedness which could be cleared in due time through the sales of timber. Under state ownership the control of the grant would pass to the state land board, and as it could undoubtedly be handled with little or no increase of force in that department the cost of administration would be reduced to the minimum."
