The Washingtonians Instrumental Quintet

The Grand theatre inaugurated yesterday its experiment of putting Salem on the vaudeville map, and the patronage accorded the venture is distinctly encouraging for the future. The bill of five acts from the Sullivan & Considine circuit was an acceptable one, and it has been long since the big house in High street has known so much tumultuous applause as was accorded the various acts on last night's program. Kouget & Co., who open the vaudeville program, have a good balancing act, with at least one genuine thrill. The Washingtonians—four saxophones, drum and traps—might have continued their act indefinitely had they responded to the demands of the audience. Christy, Kennedy and Faulkner, who call their act "Harmony and Hilarity," have named it well. "Within the Lines," Menlo Moore's war sketch, is a strong bit of realism. It is the story of a French soldier and a German one. The Frenchman has returned to the home of his fiancee to see his mother whose sickness has been reported to him. The German breaks into the house while he is there and they agree to a truce while they eat. The Frenchman finds that his mother is dead. A sight of her picture discloses the fact that she also was the German's mother. A bursting shell wrecks the house and kills both brothers. "Karl," on his one-stringed violin, made a hit, not alone with his music but otherwise. The Alpha Troupe is an extraordinary novelty. Salem people have never seen, either in the big circuses or elsewhere, a performance combining more beauty with cleverness than are combined in this. It alone is easily worth the price of admission. The full program will be repeated at the Grand tonight, including two reels of pictures, one of which is a Chaplin comedy.

MARRIED IN DOME OF STATE CAPITOL Ceremony Performed Yesterday Which United Young Couple of Rickreall

Court house weddings are rather common nowadays, but it doesn't fail to the lot of many young folks to have the ceremony performed in the dome of the state house where there is barely standing room for the prospective bride and groom, minister and witnesses. According to the oldest inhabitant, there had been but two weddings in the dome within the past twenty-two years, previous to the ceremony that took place yesterday morning when Andrew Loranee of the Waldo Hills, and Miss Marjorie Hayes, of Rickreall, were pronounced man and wife the Rev. Willard Hayes of Rickreall, a brother of the bride, officiating. The groomsmen was T. J. Hayes and bridesmaid, Miss Mabel Hayes, brother and sister of the bride, both from Rickreall. Martin Loranee, a brother of the groom, was also in the wedding party. Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Loranee left for Bellingham where they will visit for two weeks with the bride's relatives. They will make their home on a farm belonging to Andrew Loranee father of the groom. Photographs of the wedding party were taken by Francis Hendricks, of the Novelty studio. Rev. William Hayes, who officiated, is a graduate of the University of Oregon and at present is a minister in the Christian church.

Stockton WHEN PURCHASING TRY SALEM FIRST SALEM COMMERCIAL CLUB Improved Batteries Doing Wonders for Electric Cars One of the most remarkable changes wrought in electric car building has been in the matter of batteries. It is often noted and commented upon that electric automobiles of today show greater speed and endurance than ever before. Another noticeable feature is the ability of electric cars to always run satisfactorily regardless of weather conditions. These improvements are largely due to the advancement that has been made in storage batteries. It used to be that thirty miles was as far as an electric could travel on a single battery charge. By contrast the modern electric car can cover 85 miles or more—the equivalent of several days of usual service—on one charge of the battery. Then, too, facilities have been improved by reason of conveniently located central charging stations which make it practical for any electric car owner to get quick service. It used to be a common occurrence to see electric pleasure cars travel at an extremely slow pace because of radical changes in the weather, particularly on cold or snowy days. However, the type of battery compartment and trays in use today are so designed that sufficient protection is afforded against severe weather to insure the satisfactory performance of batteries in winter as well as summer. Electric car batteries used to be considered somewhat of a mystery and the average owner was almost afraid of them. Today they are well understood by owners because they have been simplified and thoroughly explained in commonsense instruction books issued by both battery and car manufacturers. Greater strength and longer life has naturally come with development in battery manufacture. In every detail, batteries now used in the quality electric cars are more efficient. They make greater speed possible, as well as added power in climbing hills, or negotiating heavy roads. There is no doubt that the radical changes made in electric car batteries have been largely instrumental in increasing the popularity of electric pleasure cars in every part of the country. No hills are considered too steep for the electric to climb. To improved batteries is also due the greater economy which the modern electric car shows over that of several years ago and over other type of motor vehicles.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG IN "MARRYING MONEY." A Splendid Comedy Role for Clara Kimball Young. The millions of people who admire the finished motion picture art of the beautiful and gifted Clara Kimball Young will have an opportunity of seeing her in a delightful comedy, "Marrying Money," which comes to the Oregon tomorrow for a three day engagement. The comedy is based on a stage play of the same name, which had great success in the regular theatres of the country. Mildred Niles has a socially ambitious mother who wishes her daughter to marry money and a title. Along comes an apparently eligible count, who, however has nothing but his title in his favor. Mildred does not favor the count's suit and he is sent to the right-about. Niles Sr. meets with financial reverses, so it is more than ever desirable that the beautiful Mildred should make a successful match. Instead of that, to the consternation of all, she falls in love with, and marries, Ted, who hasn't a dollar to his name. Still, the young couple are happy—ideally so—and to the surprise of all, Ted suddenly becomes rich through an unexpected inheritance. So everything ends pleasantly, and Mildred is conscious of having carried out the maternal instructions.

HUBBARD'S NEW CHARTER. Hubbard's proposed charter was adopted at the special election Monday. Voting was very light in the morning, the greater number of votes were cast after three o'clock. The provisions of the charter taken as a whole, had been considered by the people as practically what was needed for the next few years at least. It seems that the greatest fight was made because of a misconception of the powers of the city council in creating indebtedness, presumably paragraph No. 38 on page 12, which specifies $5,000 the limit the council can go without the issue carries by a three-fifths majority, and then not to exceed $10,000.—Enterprise.

GRAIN YIELD NEAR PERRYDALE. J. Pay Morrison of Perrydale, an authority on crops in his neighborhood, gives the yields there as follows: H. Keyt, wheat, 30 bushels per acre; G. Keyt, wheat, 30 bushels per acre; W. H. McKee, wheat 35 bushels; oats, 55 bushels per acre; L. J. White, wheat 30 bushels per acre; oats 50 bushels per acre; George Woods, wheat 20 bushels, vetch and oats 40 bushels per acre; P. W. Plannery, 20 bushels of wheat and 45 bushels of oats per acre. Most of the farmers are holding for better prices, believing they will come ere many months elapse.—Dallas Itemizer.

WEST SALEM. Rev. and Mrs. T. D. Yarnes and children were overnight guests at the John Simmons home at Summit recently. Their little son Raymond remained for a week's visit. The J. O. Vincents have as guests their son E. M. Vincent, wife and little ones of Hooper, Washington. Mr. Vincent and family are on their way to the expositions and took this opportunity of a stop over visit with their parents. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bauer and children of Dayton, were Wednesday visitors at the T. D. Yarnes home. Mrs. Bauer is a sister of Mrs. Yarnes. Master Forest Rhodes has been confined to his home with a very bad foot caused by running a long splinter nearly through it. We are glad to report that it is getting better. Master Kermit Eton the small son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Eaton is visiting at the home of his uncle, Mr. Mark Siddall in East Salem. West Salem residents who have been off camping in the various hop yards are returning to their respective homes, as picking is about completed. The Murphy-Belford boys are all picked and will be baled this week. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Delap, of Oak Grove, were recent callers in the neighborhood. The 14th Quarterly Conference of the Methodist church of West Salem circuit was conducted Saturday by Dr. James Moore. Miss Flora Grier, of Summit, was elected as delegate to the annual conference which convenes at Roseburg.

MARTY—At his home two miles north of the city, Sunday, September 13, 1915, Joe Marty, at the age of 73 years. The remains are in care of the Terwilliger Cottage Parlors. The funeral announcement will be made later. DIED. PUBLIC SALE—Consisting of horses, dairy cattle, hogs, poultry, a large assortment of farm implements; disc harrow, plows, spring wagon, buggy, carriage, hop baler, baskets, sacks, Deering binder, mower, grain drill, 3 sets work harness, buggy harness, cream separator, incubator, etc., and numerous other articles from a well-equipped farm. Sale begins at 10:30 a. m. Free lunch. Take O. E. railway to Quincy or Hoquiam; S. P. trains to Brooks. Farm one mile southwest of Brooks. Sept 21. ONION PROSPECTS. The Eastern and California onion crops are reported short, and the prospects for the Oregon grower are said to be very encouraging. Last year was considered a disastrous failure for state growers, and this year they are deriving considerable comfort from the historical fact that Oregon has never seen two succeeding failures in the onion growing business. The Sherwood Onion Grower's association recently elected the following officers: W. W. Shaffer, president; A. Campbell, secretary; R. V. Rasmussen, A. Anderlin and C. L. Seely, directors; and J. E. Mohack, sales agent.—Aurora Observer.

Fighting For Control of Northwest Butter Market to Fix Prices Portland, Or., Sept. 20.—A fight for the control of the butter market in the Pacific Northwest is on today as a result of the attempt by eastern meat packing interests to invade the coast market by shipping large quantities of butter to Portland and Seattle. Big creamery concerns in these sections are
