Heavy Buying Renewed On Wall Street Today

(Copyright 1915 by the New York Evening Post.) New York, Sept. 27.—In view of the speculative excitement of several days past, the renewed heavy outside buying today was not especially surprising. As a matter of fact, the momentum of the market was emphasized by the days news.

The morning papers contained definite reports that Dupont and Bethlehem Steel interests had bought control of the Baldwin locomotive company whose "war contracts" have been extensive. Simultaneously came news of allied successes on the western front. The sentimental effect of the Baldwin purchase lay in the fact that, to the speculative mind it suggested a possible general program of amalgamations based on war munitions business. This is always a possibility which appeals to Wall street, and especially in its present mood. Only in the closing hours did prices show signs of reaction. Realizing sales were heavy, but the market took them without a sensational break. Sales ran far above 1,000,000 shares.

"The Henrietta" Tonight at the Grand

Mable Taliaferro, who appears in person with the five-star aggregation presenting "The New Henrietta" at the Grand tonight.

A good play is always welcome to him who feels, if he does not know, that there is no art quite equal to stage art for refreshing the spirit of a way-faring mortal. It is cheering news to read that one is to be offered here for our enjoyment.

And the pleasure is doubled by the announcement of a star cast, one of which could not be or would not be associated with other than a congenial part. It means the piece must be very effective in character roles (and it is), and that the same parts have a singular appeal to the star actors concerned. This is just the enviable status of things in the forthcoming engagement of "The Henrietta," scheduled for this city tonight. This is the best comedy written by Bronson Howard, and was first produced by Robson and Crane, when that fun-making firm was at the height of its career. It made them and the author a fortune. William H. Crane is the only one of the trio left, and he is now gleefully enacting his original role of a lion of Wall street. Thomas W. Ross is cast as Bertie the Lamb, Robson's old part and no young comedian of the American stage is better qualified to give it the droll distinction and humor the author intended. Maclyn Arbuckle is the selection for the fashionable dominie who puts the zest of living into his work of saving. Laura Hope Crews appears as the charming widow, and has inspired the reviewers to write many positive lines of appreciation. Mable Taliaferro, she of Polly of the Circus, Springtime, and Young Wisdom fame, is the bewitching engine of the romance. What more could a critic and patron ask for the best expression of this snail comedy, The Henrietta, than a cast of individual fitness of this summary.

Here is the play of demonstrated worth, refreshed and refurbished by Winchell Smith and Victor Maps to harmonize with another generation, and interpreted by actor stars perfectly suited to the parts they assume. The sequel of this combination is a uniquely delightful and satisfying performance, and a toll of business unlike anything known for a long time.

"The New Henrietta" will be presented at the Grand Opera House on Monday evening, September 27th.

The Misses Hamilton and Davenport of the new Frank Rich Company.

RICH CO. GIVES FINE SHOW. With an entirely new chorus, and several new principals, the Frank Rich Co. opened a 4 nights' engagement at the Bligh theatre yesterday to three capacity houses. This company is by far the very best organization that Mr. Rich has ever had, and also the largest. The company is composed of twenty people and the opening bill, "The Great White Way" is surely worth seeing. The scenery and wardrobe are as good as ever seen in any of the high class road shows and the whole production is the same as was used at Portland, Messrs. Burton, Knight, Conner and Evans are still strong favorites and the Misses Hamilton, Gardiner, Schuler, and Davenport, were heard in five musical numbers and all wore stunning gowns. If you want to really enjoy a good snappy show and hear the latest music, and have a hearty laugh, by all means go to the Bligh.

ATTRactions AT YE LIBERTY.

In keeping with its standard of presenting always the best pictures, Ye Liberty will offer as its second feature photodrama under new management the tense emotional story of a woman's soul barred to the quick, aptly named, "A Modern Magdalen."

In selecting a cast for this elaborate photoplay the Life Photo Film company selected Cathrine Countiss, one of the brightest lights of the modern stage, and Lionel Barrymore, a film favorite for many years. This happy combination of stage and screen is supported by a cast of wonderful excellence, and the production has created a far greater sensation in picture circles than any of the releases of the past season.

This production will be presented tomorrow, (Tuesday), and Wednesday, at regular prices and special comedy attractions will round out the bill.

If it's for sale, a Journal Want Ad will sell it.

Good Roads Boosters Will Gather at Fair

Oregon good roads enthusiasts will assemble at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the auditorium at the state fair, where the good roads day program will be given. From all indications the meeting will draw hundreds from all sections of the state. Julius L. Meier, of Portland, who will be chairman of the day, has promised to allow all persons who have some definite plan of state wide road construction, to present their propositions. By inviting suggestions and discussing various phases of the subject it is hoped to arrive at an understanding as to a defined procedure in practical road planning and road legislation in Oregon.

Special invitations have been extended to public officials and prominent men throughout the state to attend the meeting. These include Governor Withycombe, Secretary of State Olcott, State Treasurer Kay and members of the state highway commission and the advisory board.

It is expected that several well known road workers of Portland will be present, including S. C. Lancaster, engineer of the Columbia River highway, John B. Leon, roadmaster of Multnomah county, S. Benson, A. S. Benson, and Samuel Hill. A delegation from the Portland Chamber of Commerce also will attend.

C. W. Myers, editor of Motoroad, arrived in Salem this afternoon as a special delegate from the Chamber of Commerce to assist in working out details for tomorrow's program.

Simultaneously the Bulgarian legation received word to call all reservists in America between the ages of 21 and 43.

Willis Scofield Dives Through Windshield and Escapes Serious Injury

Willis Scofield, the 13 year old son of C. F. Scofield, of Marion, while riding his bicycle on North Commercial street at 5:30 yesterday afternoon was hit by an automobile and thrown through the windshield and when he recovered from the shock of the collision he found himself standing on the running board of the opposite side of the car.

The boy suffered two gashes in his scalp and another gash that began at his jaw bone and extended down his
