

A Galley o' Fun!

INTERVIEWED. "Did I say that?" the statesman cried, And read the words, aghast, In which he Germany defied.

"Did I say that?" the heiress flared, And read the words anew In which her heart of hearts she bared And held it up to view.

"Did I say that?" the banker wailed, And read the words again In which his colleagues he assailed "As selfish, narrow men."

AFTER THE MEETING.

"The speaker seemed to think that the sale of liquor can be stopped." "But that's nonsense. You might as well try to stop the Prohibitionists from thinking it can."

IN OLD KENTUCKY.

"The Bowling Green Bangfords have come into their inheritance, and such insufferable airs as they are putting on!"

"Automobile, I suppose." "No; but they sent abroad for a machine gun and are using it in their feuds!"

QUITE UNNECESSARY.

Jack Huggard—Shall I ask you father? Miss Innit—No; just TELL him—you're so big and strong you don't need to ask!

THE USUAL COURSE.

Passenger—I'm afraid I have no money with me. What do you do when a respectable-looking person can't pay his fare? Conductor—Why, we let him ride free to the next corner.

AN UNDOUBTED CHAMPION.

Wearly Willy—Dat's our golf champion. New Recruit—Wot's his record. Wearly Willie—He's stols ten clubs, four balls, two caps and six medals in four weeks.

LA CHAUFFEUSE.

A dash down the boulevard, Close skimming all the corners; With naught that can her course retard,

Not even scores of mourners. Behind, a little trail of steam Floats upward in derision, To mock at sundry folk who deem That they've beheld a vision.

Fast bicycle and steed pass: Past baby-carriage, sparrow; Past park police, she speeds her way Tho' howsoever narrow.

A rattle of a chiding gong— A peal of saucy laughter— Beware! Beware! O wondrous throng!

For havoc follows after.

A case for court is this, methinks. But, ah! each white-gloved coppers Upon her passage only blinks.

And does not try to stop her. An errant lock upon the breeze His clumsy eyes entangles; And, strange to say, he never sees "The many hearts she mangles!"

BLANCHE SWEET IN "THE SECRET ORCHARD"

Heredity is one of the principal, compelling themes in Blanche Sweet's new starring photoplay, "The Secret Orchard," from the play by Channing Pollock, founded on the novel of the same name by Agnes and Egerton Castle and produced by the Lasky Feature Play company.

Not even a childhood and girlhood seclusion in a convent could neutralize the latent taint of character which prenatally was stamped upon the heroine of "The Secret Orchard."

This secret weakness is intensified through contrast between the natural loveliness of the girl's personality and the sweetness of her manner.

When "The Secret Orchard" in novel form was the most widely read book in America several years ago there was endless discussion of the extraordinary theme.

Heredity, as adapted table to dramatic exposition was proved conclusively in Channing Pollock's dramatization of the novel, and again in the screen version.

DON'T SUFFER—LAUGH AT STOMACH MISERY

Daniel J. Fry Will Return the Money If Mi-o-na Does Not Relieve Dyspepsia.

Among all the remedies in Daniel J. Fry's popular drug store, there are few that he is willing to sell on a guarantee to refund the money if they do not cure.

Mi-o-na, the famous dyspepsia remedy has helped so many of his customers that Daniel J. Fry says, "If this remedy does not relieve you, come back to my store and I will cheerfully return your money."

Anyone who has dyspepsia, indigestion, headaches, dizzy feelings or liver troubles, should take advantage of this chance to be made well without any risk of spending their money to no purpose.

Mi-o-na will relieve you, will regulate the digestion, will enable you to eat what you want. If it does not do all this it will not cost you a cent.

Daniel J. Fry has sold hundreds of boxes of Mi-o-na in the last few weeks and has yet to receive the first complaint from any customer.

Such a record is simply marvelous and speaks volumes for the merit of the remedy.

It is easy enough to fill a column with the symptoms afflicting those who have dyspepsia, but there is no need of describing their condition.

What they want is relief and they can get it in Mi-o-na. Do not suffer a day longer with disordered digestion. If Mi-o-na relieves you it costs you 50 cents a box, if it does not, you have Daniel J. Fry's personal guarantee to return your money.

 QUICK, SAFE WAY TO REMOVE HAIRS  (Toilet Talks.) *****

Keep a little delatone powder on your dressing table and when ugly, hairy growths appear, make a paste with a little of the powder and some water, apply and let remain on the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. This treatment is quite harmless and rarely more than one application is required, but to avoid disappointment care should be used to buy the real delatone.

CONFESSION PRINCIPAL BUSINESS OF M'GILL

His Revelations In Past Have Not Been Altogether Reliable

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 28.—James McGill, who has confessed at Stockton to having been incited to incendiarism by the I. W. W., is revealed today as a professional confessor.

Under the name of McMurty, last spring, he confessed here to having been one of three men in a vacant house to which a Paul Ainsworth, a messenger boy was summoned, with medicine and change for $50, resulting in Ainsworth shooting Ralph Carotte, a youth whom Ainsworth charged with attempting to hold him up.

McMurty was arrested at Davis as a vagrant and taken to Woodland where he confessed numerous burglaries in Sacramento. When he was brought here he said he was one of three men in the vacant house when Carotte was shot. He told a thrilling story of the tragedy.

Later he admitted that he confessed the alleged robberies because he was hungry and wanted to be put in jail where he could get something to eat. He also admitted that his story about being in the vacant house was false.

McMurty, that being the name he had chosen, was released after being held here about a week. The next heard from him when he was arrested at Watsonville and taken to Stockton, where he has pleaded guilty to barn burning, implicating the I. W. W.
