CAMPERS CLING TO TRUE SPIRIT OF THE FAIR DESPITE CHANGE

Many Believe That to See the Fair One Must Live There for a Week

The campers' parade led by Mayor Tozier, of Camptown, and with about 1500 of the campers on line formed yesterday afternoon at five o'clock to begin their first of the formal entertainments for campers. The parade was a huge success and was one feature needed to get the campers together for the general good times that have become historic and are counted as part of the business of camping.

The campers have a dance pavilion and a special orchestra and in the evenings they meet to trip the light fantastic and the heavy drag and all of the latest steps and twists. The campground is the tented city and keeps alive the spirit of the fair with the past when the state fair was the one big event of the year and the families came from miles around to camp out for the week. The crops had been harvested and dad's old weasel skin was well lined with cash, all the youngsters had new shoes and new suits for the fair and the "Fair wags" served as a topic for discussion during the long winter months.

Today the farmer, instead of hitching up, cranks up, and they whiz into town for the day and then get home in the evening by milking time. Back they come the next day but they miss the quiet sociability or the old campground and the pioneer spirit that prevailed before the odor of burned gasoline became a familiar rural smell.

There are some, however, who still believe that the only way to enjoy the fair is to camp out and the following is a list of the 2000 people who populate the tented grounds:

FAST TRACK ADDS INTEREST TO RACE PROGRAM AT FAIR

Record Crowd Packs Grandstand to Watch Horses Sprint for the Purse

The 2:08 pace was the feature of yesterday's races at the fair grounds and although Patero Boy took the three straight heats the race for places was keen and every heat was a real race. Drumbeller took the relay race completing the four laps in 4:01 1/2 with Armstrong behind and finishing in 4:01 1/2. Up to the time the horses hit the straightaway in the last lap Armstrong and Drumbeller were together and it was a royal race for the finish.

The Shetland race was a special event and was won by Ade with Floyd Skaggs up. Firefly was piloted into second place by John Ward, and Happy with Dwight Skaggs up, was third. Toy ridden by Harry Skaggs was forced into fourth place. The distance was one-eighth mile and the time 14 seconds flat.

The result of the races follow:
3 year old pace—Bonalene (Daniels) 2-1-1; Dayo 4 (Gro. Durfee), 1-2-2; Janice (Kirkland), 3-3. Time: 2:09 3-4, 2:10, 2:12 1-4.

Ballet, "Dance of the Hours" (La Gioconda) Ponchielli
This fascinating "Dance of the Hours," from Ponchielli's famous Opera "La Gioconda," is the best known excerpt from this impressive work. It occurs in the third act of the opera, the scene of which is laid in the House of Gold. The music begins with a tender episode indicating the hours of day-break. Then the movement becomes more graceful and refined and the dance of the hours of the Day begins. This in turn is followed by the hours of the Evening and finally there enters the hours of the Night. The masked dancers representing the hours of the Night enter into combat with the forces represented for supremacy, all of which is prettily set forth. Finally, Day is victorious, and the music goes to a close with rushing brilliancy.

Finale—"The Star-Spangled Banner."

Friday Evening's Program.
March "The Banner" Von Blou
Overture "Morning, Noon and Night" Suppe

Dedication and Benediction from "Les Huguenots" Meyerbeer
Humorous Descriptive "Setch" "A Southern Wedding" Adolph Lotter
Synopsis. 1. It is night. The moon sleeps peacefully and dreams of his happy bachelor days, his favorite clog and sand dances appear to him in a vision. He snores lustily. Dawn approaches. The clock in a neighboring steeple strikes seven. A cock crows. The alarm clock in his bedroom rings.

2. The moon arises from his slumber. It is his wedding day. 3. He indulges in a merry dance. 4. He soliloquizes on his future happiness, whistling his favorite negro melody. 5. The wedding bells ring and the guests assemble. 6. Wedding procession starts for the church, led by a con band playing the wedding march in their own peculiar way. 7. Arrival at the church. The village organist plays a short voluntary.

The Wedding Scene.
The parson, bride and bridegroom come forward. The parson is represented by the Jockey. The bride by the Flute and bridegroom by the Trombone. The wedding ceremony begins. "Will you take this woman to be thy wedded wife?" The bridegroom answers, "I will!" The parson then turns to the bride, and after putting a similar question, tells her to repeat the usual words after him, which she does in a shy and retiring manner. The parson then ends the ceremony by giving some words of advice to the newly married couple.

9. Amen.
10. The happy couple now leave to the strains of the wedding march, and amid the clanging of bells and general congratulations, this descriptive piece is brought to a joyful conclusion.
Bassoon, played by Mr. Heit Kemper.
Flute, played by Mr. Merigioli.
Trombone, played by Mr. Schiele.
Grand selection, "My Old Kentucky Home" Dabney
Introducing solos for all instruments.
