OREGON STATE FAIR BANNER EXHIBITION WEST OF ROCKIES

Old Fair Follower Says This Year's Is Best of Its Class He Has Seen

"I have been in the fair business for a great many years and have seen and been actively connected with a great many fairs, both local, state and national, but I must say that for a state fair west of the Rocky mountains this Oregon fair certainly takes the banner," said Martin Olds, of Wenatchee, Washington, who made a special visit to the state fair and viewed its wonders yesterday.

Mr. Olds who made this statement was formerly an officer of the North Pacific fair association and is now one of the leading spirits of the national apple show, to be held in Wenatchee this fall and he is here to get some pointers upon some innovations in the way of special exhibits and concessions for their show.

Mr. Olds said that he had never seen a larger and more representative agricultural, livestock and horticultural exhibit as that on display at the Oregon fair and he was also highly complimentary of the exhibits in the dairy division and other classes of industry at the state. He was captivated with the spirit of rivalry and interest displayed in the agricultural and industrial competition between the counties of the state; the boys and girls industrial club exhibits and the fine appearance of the grounds, especially the landscape gardening inaugurated for the first time this year by Superintendent A. L. Peck and the fair board.
