READY FOR TRIAL OF DYNAMITER

M. A. Schmidt Will Face Jury At Los Angeles Next Monday

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—The stage is set for the trial of M. A. Schmidt, alleged accomplice of the McNamara dynamiters, who enters Judge Frank R. Willis' court Monday to defend himself against the charge of murdering Charles Haggerty, a core trimmer killed when the Los Angeles Times building was blown up October 1, 1910.

Much of the old bitterness between capital and labor here, which was so rampant during the days of the McNamara and Darrow trials, has been stirred up against. Flaring red posters, depicting an ogre labelled capital slaying Schmidt and David Caplan, jointly accused with him, cover every dead wall. Once more mysterious detectives guard informers and valuable state witnesses in secret hiding places near the district attorney's office.

One of the most important of these witnesses is George E. Davis, known as "a second McManigal." He confessed to many dynamitings when caught in New York October 2, 1913, and declared it was his work to cause explosions all over the country during the McNamara trial, to create the impression that the dynamiters were still at large. The sudden confession of the McNamara brothers put an end to Davis' program of destruction, he asserts. Davis has just arrived here from New York.

Orlie McManigal, principal witness against the McNamara who has not yet had opportunity to tell his full story, is the star witness for the state. There are 200 other prosecution witnesses, and some 700 state exhibits, including infernal machines and dynamite stores.

Fifty one prospective jurors report Monday for duty in the historic court room in the Hall of Records where Clarence Darrow was tried and acquitted. The trial will probably last six weeks.

Smoothing Relations With German Empire

New York, Oct. 2.—The conference today between German Ambassador von Bernstorff and Secretary of State Lansing, heralded as important in its bearing on German-American relations, consumed only ten minutes. Afterward the ambassador would make no comment.

Bernstorff with his secretary arrived at 11:15 at Lansing's hotel without a portfolio or papers. Apparently in high humor, he went at once to Lansing's suite.

It was supposed they discussed the submarine controversy briefly and perhaps the question of recall of Military Attache Von Papan of the German embassy, said to be in administration disfavor for his course in sending communications abroad with American Correspondent Archibald.

Lansing said he would see newspaper men at noon. It was understood the ambassador left with him letters he desired.

Visit Was Confidential. In his conference with newspapermen this afternoon, Lansing declared the ambassador's visit was confidential but it was learned there will be other conferences in the near future. The secretary will return to Washington tonight.

The reason for the deep official silence was a matter of conjecture, but it was assumed that the two men were only at the outset of negotiations involving the submarine controversy and the Von Papan case, and hence did not care to give too early publicity to their discussion.

Two engines were attached to the train. The first left the track, but remained on the right of way. The second plunged over a bank. The mail, dining and dynamite cars left the tracks, and went partly down the embankment. The cause is unknown.

In addition to C. J. Elder the engineer, these were injured: George Hooper, express messenger, leg wreathed, lacerations; Steve Antonio, electrician, bruised; W. F. Corder, unidentified, tramps.

McVilvie was terribly crushed when he attempted to leap from the first locomotive as it left the rails. Mrs. L. S. Jamiver, prominent in W. C. T. U. circles, enroute to Seattle, refused to accept berth No. 13 out of Los Angeles, declaring she had a premonition that a wreck would occur.

Miss Nellie May Loses Breach of Promise Suit

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—Holding that a kiss does not necessarily imply approaching matrimony, Judge Taft decided against Miss Nellie C. May in her $10,000 breach of promise suit against Dr. J. H. Johnson, a local physician and stirred up a stinging dispute which is raging briskly here today.

Miss May's principal contention was that Dr. Johnson, 15 years her senior, kissed her frequently. Dr. Johnson listened eagerly to this evidence, with the aid of an ear trumpet, and when the plaintiff's attorney asked him why he kissed Miss May if he didn't intend to marry her, the doctor replied: "Didn't you ever kiss a girl you did not intend to marry?"

Miss May admitted she herself sipped occasional osculations from Dr. Johnson's brow while he slumbered.

MARGARITA FISCHER in "INFATUATION" FOUR-ACT MUTUAL MASTERPIECE MADE BY AMERICAN

Playing "Imaginary" Mother Sure Cure for the Blues, Says Little Film Star.

Out in Santa Barbara, California, where the studios of the American Film company are located, Margarita Fischer, vivacious young star of "Infatuation," a four-part Mutual Masterpiece adapted from Lloyd Osbourne's novel of the same name, is known as the "imaginary" mother.

This unusual title was conferred upon Miss Fischer by fifty or more little inmates of the county orphan asylum, located some few miles from the studios. For the past several months Miss Fischer has been making weekly pilgrimages to the orphanage, ministering to the wants and spreading good cheer among the little unfortunates.

One of the inmates, knowing the day Miss Fischer usually visits the asylum, is always on the watch for her, and when she appears word is quickly "wireless" to those back in the institution. Reaching the asylum, Miss

Fischer remains for two or three hours, during which time the kiddies are always in for a big time. Pennies for candies and nickels for "sodys" are forthcoming as often as the authorities deem advisable.

"Being an 'imaginary' mother is something new to me," Miss Fischer declared, after a recent visit to the orphanage, "but I enjoy it immensely, and, what is more, I know the kiddies do too. You can find a great amount of happiness in helping those poor little unfortunates to a few hours of pleasure. It's a sure cure for the blues, and I would advise all those so afflicted to try it."

"Infatuation" will be shown at the Ye Liberty theatre tomorrow and Monday.

HERE'S NEW VIGOR FOR OVERWORKED STOMACHS

Daniel J. Fry, the popular druggist, has been in the drug business long enough to have his own opinion of the best way of selling medicines. He says the plan adopted by Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia remedy, is the fairest he has ever heard of. He doesn't believe that a medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good. And Mi-o-na is sold under a positive guarantee to relieve dyspepsia or to refund the money. You simply leave 50 cents on deposit with Daniel J. Fry and if, after you have used the box of Mi-o-na you decide that it has done you no good, all you have to do is to tell him so and he will return your money.

Hundreds of people have been relieved of stomach agonies by using this remarkable remedy. It is not simply a food digester; it is a medicine that puts all of the digestive organs into normal condition and gives ruddy, glowing, vigorous health. A change for the better will be seen after the first few doses of Mi-o-na, and its continued use will soon give the power to eat anything at any time and not suffer distress afterward.

Mi-o-na is sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. This is the strongest proof that can be offered as to the merit of the medicine.

Nothing lessens a man's success in his work or a woman's fascinating personality more than a weak stomach, with its attending evils. Use Mi-o-na and see how much more there is in life.
