DRIVE NON-UNION MINERS FROM CLIFTON

Monster Demonstration of Union Miners Is Arranged For Tonight

Clifton, Ariz., Oct. 7.—All non-unionists remaining in Morenci will be driven out tonight, according to the plans of the mine strikers. They have arranged for a monster demonstration, the climax of which will be general rounding up of all non-unionists who will be herded out of town.

Assurances of outside assistance greatly encouraged the strikers today. It was learned the United Mine Workers had levied an assessment of 50 cents on each member to raise a Clifton strike fund.

A letter from Miami brings news that miners there will give contributions of one day's pay and business-men profits of a half a day.

Confers With Governor

Phoenix, Oct. 7.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, conferred with Governor Hunt here today on the subject of the Clifton strike. Enroute here from Clifton, Moyer had a narrow escape from being mobbed by non-union workers who had been driven out of Morenci. The refugees boarded Moyer's train at Guthrie, twelve miles south of Clifton, rushed into his car and backed him into a corner, threatening bodily injury. Conductor Mike Reardon ran to Moyer's assistance and succeeded in persuading the miners to let him go.

Moyer said today that the strikers ask only justice and a living wage. He added that outside representatives of the federation would leave Clifton if they would restore peace there and bring about better conditions. This meets the chief requirements of the operators, who refuse to arbitrate as long as outsiders participate in the conferences.

Indians to Guard Mines

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 7.—Company F, National Guard of Arizona, composed exclusively of full blooded Indians, was today ordered to leave for the Clifton strike zone tonight.

County Agriculturalist May Not Be Retained

A committee consisting of D. W. Eyre, Chauncey Bishop, W. S. Low, Ivan G. McDaniels and W. M. Hamilton called on the county court yesterday, asking that $6000 be placed in the budget for the coming year towards the maintenance of the office of county agriculturalist, with L. J. Chapin in charge. Should the county court give this much towards keeping up this office, the Commercial Club would agree to give $600. With these amounts assured, it was felt that money could be raised from other sources that would guarantee the continuance of this office, and that the work already under way, would be carried out.

Fearing that there might be objections to putting in this amount in the budget, the court took no action, but finally consented to take the matter under advisement.

Owing to the funds for this office being exhausted, work has been stopped by the Oregon Agricultural college, under whose direction the work was being done. Unless $1,000 can be raised by November 1, Mr. Chapin will be obliged to discontinue his work, and will accept a position elsewhere, as he has already received two flattering offers.

He hesitates to leave, as he has so many plans and coming events under way, such as the drainage of the French Prairie section, and the seven acre show, beginning with the one at Mount Angel, October 23.

"If all those interested in the work of Mr. Chapin will write me," said Mr. Hamilton today, "and state what has been done by the county agriculturalist and endorse his work, so that we may present the letters to the county commissioners to justify the appropriation, it will help us greatly. The hesitation of the court in putting this amount in their budget, seems to be on account of their belief that the work is not desired and has no support from the farmers."

Will Collect Data On Unsold Grant Lands

S. W. Williams, an attorney in the department of justice, will arrive in the city today, as a personal representative of the attorney general, to collect data with reference to the unsold lands remaining in the Oregon and California land grant. This official is sent out by the government to get the general sentiment of the people regarding these lands, and to go on the lands in person.

With this in view, Mr. Williams will meet the members of the commercial club tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the auditorium of the club, and to this meeting will be invited Governor Withycombe, Secretary of State Olcott, State Treasurer Kay, State Engineer Lewis and P. A. Elliott, of the State Forestry, Judge Bushey, County Commissioners Goelet and Beckwith and County Assessor West have also been invited to be present in expressing the views of the community on the O. and C. lands. Charles L. McNary, P. G. Deekelban and W. J. Culver who were appointed as a committee on resolutions by the land grant congress recently held in this city, will also be invited to attend the meeting tomorrow morning.

Representatives Dana H. Allen, Sam H. Brown, D. C. Thoms, George W. Weeks, Thomas Brown and Senators C. P. Bishop and A. M. LaFollette are also expected to be present and take part in expressing the sentiment of the people regarding these lands.

Mr. Williams has been traveling in different parts of the state for the past few weeks, and through the opinions secured by him, the department at Washington hopes to get a general expression as to what should be done with the Oregon and California land grants.

PROPERTY VALUES HALF MILLION LESS THAN LAST YEAR

Assessor West Completes Segregation of Property In Road Districts

Although the complete valuation of Marion county, upon which the taxes for next year will be collected, will not be available until the corporation valuations are made up in December, the indications are that the property valuation for this coming year will fall about half million dollars short of last year. When it is considered that several large estates were settled up and the valuation removed from the county and also the brewery went out of business the property valuations will be estimated at about the same as last year.

The total county valuation this year exclusive of the corporation properties is $37,293,755 and adding to this the corporation value for last year, $5,563,900 makes the estimated total for 1915 as $42,797,715. In 1914 the property valuation of the county totaled $43,450,035 which is $652,320 more than for 1915. The city of Salem totals $11,963,384 for this year exclusive of the corporation taxes which is $500,265 less than last year when it was $12,463,649.

The taxes this year have been passed upon by the county board of equalization and have also been estimated upon on a close basis of property valuation. The declines in real estate have brought numerous complaints before the board, some of which were found to be just and others unreasonable but all were adjusted in a satisfactory manner by the board.

For school taxes the Salem district, No. 24, will collect upon $11,407,129 and for roads upon $10,662,520. The total property values in all of the county road districts for 1915 follow:

An answer and cross complaint was filed today in the circuit court in the suit of William Wells against Nellie Wells, an action for divorce. The couple were married at Hood River in 1913. The defendant in her cross complaint alleges that her husband drank intoxicating liquors to excess and in this condition became cruel and in herited 80 acres of land near Jefferson and after that became worse than before. She asks alimony in the sum of $50 per month and a judgment against the plaintiff in the sum of $500 which she alleges she loaned on a promissory note. In addition she asks the right to resume her maiden name of Nell Keefe.

JOHN PATRICK MORAN ALSO MIRACLE MAN

Takes An Aggregation of Misfits and Wins League Pennant

By George B. Holmes.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
New York, Oct. 7.—When George Stallings, a veteran at the managing game, steered a gang of baseball misfits into a National league pennant, and thence into a world championship, George Coban dubbed him "The Miracle Man." The name stuck. Stallings was a Miracle Man.

Now it's up to somebody to invent a name for John Patrick Moran. For if ever a baseball manager deserved some sort of a laudatory title, that manager is red-headed Patrick. Some say Grover Cleveland Alexander won a pennant for Philadelphia and Patrick. He did, and he didn't. Alexander wasn't the terrible shooting constabulary he now is until Moran was pitched somewhat precipitately into his managerial berth. He was a rattlin' good pitcher, but not an immortal last year. This year he is both. The records show that Alex has won 30 games. Thirty games do not win a pennant in anybody's league.

Stallings had a crew of baseball nobodies, among which were three good pitchers, and a second baseman. Moran had a pitcher, a catcher and a first baseman who could slug the ball. The rest didn't amount to much. They were—like Stallings' heirlooms—misfits, shunted from club to club. There were three men, all stars, whom Moran could see spelling what little ball club he had. They were Magee, a Philly slugger; Hans Lobert, credited with being the best third baseman in the league; and Charley Dooin, whom he had deposed as manager. Magee was sent to Boston, Lobert to New York, and Dooin to Cincinnati in deals which were the laughing stock of the league for a while. Moran got beautifully stung, they figured. For Magee, he got George Whitted and Oscar Duguey, both brave irregulars; for Dooin he got Bert Niehoff, and for Lobert, came Demaree, a collapsed sensation, and Milton Stock, whom McGraw had tried for three years to make a first baseman out of and failed.

First base was filled. Second was a huge aperture through which Moran in his dreams could see game after game slipping away. Niehoff was a comparative youngster, having seen but one year in the Big Time. Moran plugged second with Niehoff. At short there was a hole, left there since the desertion of the inimitable Mickey Doolan. From the Pacific coast, Moran reached out and grabbed a youngster—Bannister. Today there isn't a shortstop in any league that has anything on this bird.

The hole at third was a regular canyon. Moran took Bobby Byrne, a cog of Fred Clarke's old 1909 champions, and alternating him with young Milton Stock, got by.

Here with one exception is the building up of an infield which has stood up under the strain of setting a pennant race against such famous inner defenses as Schmidt, Evers, Maraville and Smith, and Merkle-Doyle-Etcheberry and Lobert, and it was built at a moment's notice.

Moran was lucky? Yab, so were Jess Willard, Percy Haughton, the Leland Stanford crew, Bill Johnston, Bob Gardner, and others who came through in the face of monumental odds.

In the outfield, Pat had Dode Paskert, a veteran of rather doubtful stability, and Cap Gravat, another veteran, noted solely for his long drives when he connected, which was not by any means regularly. There was also Beale Becker, a sort of baseball nomad, who had seen service under many managers. Moran alternated Becker with Whitted until he had his outer works running smoothly. There was the hole left by Slugging Sherry securely stopped.

Who is Pat Moran? Pat's just a big-headed, red-faced Irishman who doesn't know any more than just to do the best he can with what he's got. He never was a star ball player, as stars go.

John Patrick confesses to 39 years. He first yelled for more food in Fitchburg, Mass., and broke into the game in 1897 as a part of the Lyons club in the New York league circuit. The club went down at the end of the first season, and Pat fled up his other shirt in his other handkerchief and trekked up to Cortland, New York, close to the Canadian border. He made eating money for a while there, and the next season hooked on with Montreal, from where he was shipped to Chicago where he was Johnny Kling's understudy for several years. In the winter of 1909-10, the Phils got him.

Pat's a catcher by trade. But he hasn't worked at it for some time. Of late, he's been spending his time in building up a championship baseball team.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

The case of Carl Fauske and Alex Fauske against Ernest Neftzger was on in department No. 1 of the circuit court today before Judge Kelly. The jury was selected this forenoon and case went to the jury late this afternoon. This is an action brought to recover $250 damages alleged to have been sustained through a herd of swine belonging to the defendant rooting up potatoes belonging to the plaintiffs. It is stated that in April of this year the plaintiffs rented two acres of land and put in a crop of potatoes. They allege that the defendant failed to fence the potato patch and his hogs dug their potatoes before the owners could do it but the hogs were evidently working for their board. The defendant answers that he furnished the seed for the potato crop and was to receive one-fourth of the crop for rental and that he also furnished the plaintiffs with the material to fence the land but that they failed to fence it and it is their own fault that the potatoes were destroyed. W. C. Winslow is appearing for the plaintiff and Carson & Brown for the defendant.

Frank O. Bishop was arraigned before Judge Kelly this morning on a charge of living with one Anna Sines without being regularly married. The defendant was indicted by the grand jury at its last session and has been in the county jail since he was arrested late in August. He will plead tomorrow.

Herbert Merithew, who served a term in the Oregon state pen under the name of James Curtis, was arraigned in department No. 1 of the circuit court this morning charged with an unnatural crime alleged to have been committed in the Oregon state pen. Elmo White was appointed to defend him and will enter the plea tomorrow morning.

The jury in the case of Fred Kayser against Clarence Rockhill returned a verdict for the plaintiff yesterday evening awarding the plaintiff the sum of $10. This was an action brought to collect money alleged due for services rendered and for the use of some machinery amounting in all to about $75. The defendant brought in a cross complaint alleging that there was due him the total sum of $114 for rental and the use of some farm implements.

Loretta Neiderheiser was awarded a decree of divorce from James Neiderheiser by Judge Galloway today in department No. 2 of the circuit court on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. The defendant failed to appear. The couple were married in Iowa in 1883 and have five children, all of whom are of age but one son, Daniel Louis Neiderheiser. The property of the couple was divided and each agreed to take five acres of their ten acre tract. Carey F. Martin was the attorney for the plaintiff.

A default divorce decree was granted by Judge Galloway today to Katurana Zee Campbell against her husband, Charles Gilbert Campbell. The couple were married in Salem in 1911 and have no children or property to divide.
