Oregon State Day Will Be Great Attraction

(Capital Journal Special Service.)
Oregon Building, Panama-Pacific Exposition, Oct. 7.—Oregon State day at the exposition has been set for Monday, October 30. This is an exhibition arrangement and on that day all the honors that can be heaped upon the Beaver state by the exposition officials will be forthcoming. This means that the chief dignitaries, as well as the lesser luminaries, of this greatest of all fairs will don silk ties and other prescribed paraphernalia, gather themselves into automobiles and with Governor Withycombe in the front car, will follow the exposition and Marine bands to the Oregon building, and there in the shadow of the modern Parthenon wax eloquent over the glorious achievements of the state to the northward. Governor Withycombe, whose business in life it has been to make two blades of grass grow where but one has grown before, will probably be asked to plant a tree where none has grown before, and in the name of the great state of Oregon he may receive a plaque, or, more artistically speaking a "commemorative medal."

All in all, Oregon day will be some large occasion, and during the entire time Governor Withycombe and his party are here, there will be things done calculated to be of special interest to Oregon people. At the Oregon building there will be as much social activity as the governor will stand for, and in every way possible, effort will be made to bring Oregon to the forefront. Crowds of Oregonians here will help very materially and those who delay their visit for the two weeks of which October 30 is the center will find much of interest extraordinary at the exposition. October 21st ushers in horticultural week, which will be a hummer, and at the same time the fall flower show will be under way. The stock show will be in full blast until the middle of November and November 23 is San Francisco day. The latter is certain to bring a crowd of 300,000 and the greatest day of special events and festivity of the fair period. The weather continues perfect, and those who know San Francisco best say that "settled" weather may be counted on until near December.

Klamath Gets Spurt On.
Sixteen hundred feet of movie film, made in Klamath county by a Klamath county man, is an added attraction in the Oregon building's theatre. This shows some magnificent forests and farm scenes and mountain glaciers of that region. This is attracting a great deal of attention. It is generally admitted that there is not a better picture shown on the grounds than that of the Oregon building. Klamath has also been freshening or broadening its county display. There is now a fine display of comb and liquid honey, sent by H. A. Katesharm, of Merrill; pears from H. F. Aurdock, of Keno; orange plants from L. C. Sisomero, of Klamath; celery from Frank Nitchling; beans, N. S. Merrill; Burbank potatoes from W. W. Lewis, of Merrill; Idaho Rurals from Claude Hill, at Mr. Laki. Klamath live wires and Representative Phil Sinnott are trying to list 100 for a special one-fare excursion on the 17th, good for one week. Several groups have enrolled already.

Other New Displays.
Lane county has entered the list with another mineral water—12 cases of fluid from the Calapooia springs. There is quite a rivalry on between the sections that want to be known as the Carlsbad of America. The Ashland Lithia Springs has a large display, the Cascade waters are on tap and White Sulphur water from Klamath are displaying at a terrific rate. Ashland's "Siskiyou" water is also in the game. John Philip, chairman of the Columbia Development committee, has just sent down a display of fruits and vegetables that Columbia may be on the map. Some of this is from school gardens and all of it looks good.

The Willamette Valley association has sent some apples and pears but they would not take a prize anywhere.

Mr. Beebe, of Lane county, has his name on some new exhibits. D'Ajupo pears, 20 ounce apples, King, Elbert's peaches, and Snow apples, D. M. Fried, of Salem, has some prunes on display.

In the southern Oregon booth, Albert Johnson, Ashland, shows new Boses, C. R. Boyd, Gold Hill, has some pears of size and beauty, and A. M. Wright, of Medford, has sent down some superb lemon cling peaches.

Citrus county and Astoria are now represented in the Oregon building quite effectively. A self-operating stereomograph, shows about 50 excellent colored slides every ten minutes and these give a comprehensive idea of the industries and general activity of that city and county, together with glimpses of scenery, roads, farms, and farming. This miniature picture show is watched by many and greatly enjoyed.

The crowds are keeping up, and they are largely of easterners. This makes it especially desirable that fine samples of fresh fruits and vegetables shall come in from all Oregon districts rapidly.

Oregon Building Notes.
Commissioner and Mrs. O. M. Clark left Monday for their home at Portland. They are succeeded by Commissioner and Mrs. R. A. Booth, of Eugene.

Miss Nellie Murphy, of Eugene, was a guest of Hostess Gray last week while en route to New York via the Panama canal to study music the coming winter and Judge Henry M. Cake and son, Judge Burke, of Portland, were among the visitors recently. A. G. Long, T. J. O'Keefe and T. B. Cook came from the Rose City to attend the fire chiefs activities.

Winnie Scott, of Mulheur, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cochran, of Ontario, were in recently. Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Keating, El Wright and Dr. Ira Bartle, of Coos Bay, registered within the past few days.

her vivacity tended to drive away the cares of the day under which the president labored.

Announcement of the engagement followed a small dinner party last night at the White House, on the eve of Secretary McAdoo's departure for the Pacific coast. Previously Washington had heard some rumors of an executive romance, but none of these stories ever received the slightest confirmation. Hence official confirmation came as a distinct surprise to Washington society and the nation at large.

Society here welcomed the announcement as presaging, in their opinion a new era of social activity in the White House. Ever since the Wilson administration began, society events in Washington have been at comparatively low ebb, because of the absence of White House leadership in the usual brilliant affairs.

While it is not definitely determined that the wedding ceremony will be in the White House, it is expected it will be, although Mrs. Galt maintains her own home in the fashionable Dupont circle district. In accordance with the president's desire for simplicity and because of his distaste for ostentation, the affair is expected to be confined to close former and personal friends.

A year or so ago, Dr. Cary N. Grayson, the president's physician, met Miss Gertrude Gordon, she introduced him to Mrs. Norman Galt, her guardian. Dr. Grayson introduced Mrs. Galt to Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the president's cousin. Miss Bones introduced her to Miss Margaret Wilson, the president's daughter. Miss Wilson introduced Mrs. Galt to her father.

This all occurred in the fall of 1914. "I am very happy," is all Mrs. Galt would say today concerning the engagement announcement.

Mrs. Galt's telephone tinkled all day with calls from friends extending congratulations while many visited her in person.

The wedding date, she said, has not been set, though the ceremony will be in her home during December.

Mrs. Galt has taken an interest in suffrage recently, but has never committed herself on the subject, maintaining that her "opinion is her own."

Some say significance however, in the fact that the president made his announcement for a stand for woman suffrage and his engagement on the same day.

Goes to New York.
Washington, Oct. 7.—President Wilson will leave tomorrow for New York, accompanied by his fiancée, Mrs. Galt, his cousin Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Dr. Cary N. Grayson and Secretary Tumulty to attend a house party, given by the president's friend, Colonel House.

The president deferred purchasing an engagement ring, it is understood, lest his betrothal became known before formal announcement was made. On their trip to the metropolis tomorrow, Mrs. Galt will assist him in selecting the jeweled circle.

A huge bouquet, bearing the president's card, was sent by him to the Galt home today.

Tomorrow the president, his promised bride, and a small party will go to New York for a house party given by Colonel House. It is understood, the chief executive will purchase the ring to designate their betrothal. At New York he will attend a theatre with his fiancée; and on Saturday the presidential party will attend the world's series game at Philadelphia.

WAR NEWS OF ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

France reported a lull save on the wings where German attacks were repulsed. A violent battle from Lens to La Basse on the French left wing, was raging.

Russia reported that the Germans had abandoned invasion of northern Poland after setting afire the city of Ossowie. The annihilation of an Austrian army corps and the taking of Marmaros-Sziget, Hungary, by Russians in a six-days' battle, also was claimed.

A German cruiser and two gunboats were reported sunk by Japanese fire at Tsingtau. Germany claimed the capture of forts Kessel and Brochem and predicted the fall of Antwerp within a few days. Repulse and envelopment of the French lines was claimed.

Belgium's government moved from Antwerp to Ostend and the populace of Antwerp was reported fleeing.

A British submarine sank a German destroyer off the mouth of the Rhine.

CHICAGO NIGHT SCHOOLS OPEN.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Chicago's night public schools open this evening. Inquiries are that the attendance will be larger than ever. A majority of the students enrolled are foreigners who want to learn the English language and American ways.

The courses have been extended and divided into three classes. 1. Teaching English to foreign-speaking persons, especially adults. 2. Completing unfinished educations of Americans.

3. Technical education, including mechanical trades for men and domestic science for girls.

Exporter Says Wheat Laid Down In England Costs Him Over $1.50

Portland, Or., Oct. 7.—"We are tending to our business, sawing wood and buying some wheat, in spite of the microbes that try to berate us," said M. H. Houser, wheat exporter here, when asked about the announcement that a mass meeting of wheat growers had been called at Spokane for next Saturday with the view of asking a federal investigation of the methods employed by wheat buyers of the Pacific northwest.

Mr. Houser's name had been mentioned in an article printed in the Spokesman-Review of last Sunday, the article stating that "the farmers will present charges that a few men, last season and one man this season, M. H. Houser of Portland, monopolized control of all the available ship charters for transporting the wheat crop. They will claim that this is in violation of United States laws prohibiting restraint of trade."

"Judging from the newspaper clippings I have been shown and reports formerly a member of the public utility commission at Spokane, heads the movement. He does not seem very well versed in transportation matters nor how to obtain information relating to rates and shipping.

Charge Is Flattering.
"As for the charge that I maintain a monopoly of the shipping of the wheat trade, I can only say that it is very flattering, indeed, if we pause for a moment and think of the enormous amount of tonnage afloat," explained Mr. Houser.

Mr. Lawrence is quoted as having said that the advance in ocean freights from Pacific coast points over the rates in effect a year ago amounts to between 40 and 50 cents the bushel, yet this does not explain the difference between the local price paid for wheat and its export value.

Mr. Houser says that there is no mystery about what rates are.

"For an illustration let me say that I offered 95 shillings for the steamer Portland to carry a cargo of wheat from Portland to the United Kingdom, and it was refused. Now the Portland is owned by the Globe Grain & Milling company of this city and carries about 3600 tons. The steamer was in New York at the time and could have been supplied with a general cargo to this port. But the offer was not tempting to the owners, for instead of coming here for wheat, the Portland was sent to Bordeaux, France, with a cargo of

AMERICAN SURPLUS MUST SUPPLY WORLD

Hop Shortage Is Large According To Best Available Figures

The following circular letter has been sent by the Oregon Hopgrowers' association to all members of the association:

"We desire to place before you a detailed statement of the world's hop crop for the year 1915, which we have gathered from every reliable source in our power. In Germany and Austria the crop is one-third to one-half the size of last year's harvest. England is now estimated at 270,000 cwt., as against 507,000 cwt. of last year. The American yield is about as follows:

Bales	105,000
California	75,000
Oregon	30,000
Washington	35,000
New York	10,000 to 12,000
Total	232,000

"In Belgium, Russia, France and Galicia there were practically no hops grown this year. England's normal consumption of hops is about 600,000 cwt., annually. On account of the war they will probably not use to exceed 500,000 cwt., leaving them short 230,000 cwt., or approximately 150,000 American bales. Ordinarily England imports from Germany and Belgium about 150,000 cwt., or 90,000 American bales. This year of course they cannot secure any supplies from these quarters. South America, Japan and Australia ordinarily get their supplies from Germany. They of course will not be able to obtain any from these during this season. America last season imported 20,000 bales of German hops, which is equivalent to 50,000 American bales. We are also in the same position as England and the rest of the world in that we can get no Germans.

"All hop consuming sections of the world have but one place to look to for their requirements, and that is the United States. We used last year 240,000 bales of hops. It is estimated that during the coming season, owing to prohibitions and extremely cold weather in the east, which left the brewers with a little larger carry-over stock than usual, the consumption between now and the season of 1916 will be about 216,000 bales. This leaves us a surplus for export about 22,000 bales or 40,000 cwt.

"As outlined above, England will need 230,000 cwt. or a shortage of 300,000 cwt. in all countries excepting America, and we have but 40,000 cwt. to spare. This has been a very hard year on the growers. Their hops have cost them far more in labor and money than usual and taking the crop conditions the world over into consideration they are certainly entitled to at

Her interests in books and music were akin to those of the president, and she has been a frequent guest at the executive mansion of late, where
