

Eugene Begins Work of Raising Funds for Woman's Memorial Building at University

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oct. 9.—The next step for the proposed $100,000 women's memorial building at the state university was raised yesterday by the students and faculty and by the townspeople of Eugene. The means used was a progressive dinner, served in courses in two circuits of five houses each, of which 900 persons partook.

The campaign for the women's memorial building, which for many years has been a dream of alumnae, women students, and faculty women, was finally begun over the state by Mrs. George T. Gerlinger of Dallas this one woman on the university board of regents.

All the money for this building is to be raised from private sources if possible. The building is to house all the social and indoor athletic activities of the university women. It is to contain a gymnasium, social rooms, rooms for corrective gymnastics, rest rooms and game rooms, a large swimming pool, a running track, locker rooms, dressing rooms, a kitchen with supplementary quarters, and a suite of rooms for a matron.

Gifts of $500 or more will entitle the donor to one of the memorial tablets in the building upon which any name designated by the donor will be inscribed. These tablets will be part of the permanent decorative scheme and the building will take its name from them.

A campaign conducted by women belonging to or interested in the university and extending over several years, but on a much smaller scale than the one Mrs. Gerlinger has just launched, resulted in the finishing a year ago of the Y. W. C. A. bungalow.

Mrs. Gerlinger visited many eastern universities this summer and says that everywhere she found men better taken care of in an athletic and community way than women, and came west again resolved that the state university should have a building exclusively for women as soon as possible.

Margaret Mason Writes of Gotham Fads and Fashions

MARGARET MASON.

Although you have a stunning hat A swaggar suit and things like that If you're without a veil, you see, Without avail your style will be.

New York, Oct. 9.—What matter if this be a vale of tears if you are all done up in a veil of lace? Who's going to know whether your face is leaking or wearing a smile that won't come off.

Salome was awfully careless about discarding every one of her seven veils at once but the maid today is much more circumspect and never appears without at least one. This headstrong dancer of old was supposed to have quite a collection of these filmy articles of apparel, in fact quite a corner on the veil market, but any fashionable damsel of 1915 turns up her nose behind one of her fifty-seven varieties and sniffs disdainfully at poor old Sal's paltry seven. When you take the veil however, be sure and take a smart one. The wide black meshed ones with a deep and intricate black lace border are simply stunning and are worn gathered in closely to a tiny black turban like a skull cap and then flare out like a lamp shade or the full skirt of a premier danseuse.

The question of length is a vital proposition with these new bouffant veils. The more elaborate lace ones fall well down around the wearers shoulders and bust while others with but a narrow border flare out piquantly just level with your chin.

Many of the smartest hats are made with the veil already attached. It is as vital an adjunct as a flower or a feather.

Besides the lovely black lace ones there are smart taupe, brown and blue ones in a medium mesh with embroidered edges in conventional designs like the Greek key or the Wall of Troy. The borders for veils of course offer wonderful opportunities for the display of versatility and originality among designers and already we have fringe and fur playing the role of veil edging while metallic borders of galoon or tinsel are used on veils through the meshes of which threads of silver and gold gleam fitfully.

You are to be kidded a lot about your top coat this fall, for the topmost top coats of them all are made of white kid, if you please. Amazingly startling they are too with linings of brilliant green, scarlet, purple or orange. Others of white olecloth vie with the kid effects and linings are more often in serge in these coats than of silk. Grey kid and tan are also shown but naturally the white creations are the newest and most striking of garments. Oh you kid coat, you're bound to get milady's goat if dotting hobby doesn't come through for one.

Leather and kid trimmings are very good for frocks and blouses as well as coats and buttons and bindings of bright colored leathers add up-to-date touches to many a fall and winter toilette.

You simply can't get away from fur, however, no matter if you go further and strip the animal of his inner skin. Beaver bandings on seal brown satin or chiffon velvet is one of the loveliest combinations of the season and you can't go far wrong if you acquire a gown of either of these two materials beaver banded.

Skunk banding on amethyst satin is charming although skunk is mighty expensive this year. They are offering as a substitute, flying squirrel fur, but the effect is hardly as happy one as the flying squirrel is soft and matted looking and undoubtedly would show to advantage on a galloping horse or well, say a flying squirrel.

As a matter of fact and good taste an imitation fur banding is worse than none but if you have the price there's really nothing to beat the band this season provided its a real fur band.

The Young Woman's Christian association of Salem, has been favored this week by a visit from Miss Jane Neil Scott, who is the executive in the Northwest field of this organization. Miss Scott attended the board meeting on Tuesday morning, and in the afternoon gave a talk at the university before the students of W. C. A. She also spent some time conferring with the heads of the different departments of the local association. Miss Scott will return to Salem in January where she will assist in a campaign for raising funds to carry on the work. The members of the Y. W. C. A. board are considering the details of their budget, and making plans for a vigorous campaign at that time. Miss Scott expressed herself as being highly pleased with the plans for the new quarters which will be ready for occupancy about November first.

Thursday evening there was a very pleasant house party given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. O. L. Scott, 1350 S. Liberty street, in honor of their house guest, Mrs. C. H. Casement, of Tacoma, Washington. The home was very prettily decorated in astors and dahlias, the color scheme being pink and green. A pleasing musical program was rendered by Mrs. Winnifred Parrey and her sister, Miss Opal Bowen, consisting of piano and violin solos and duets. Later various games were played, such as unwinning a large spider web, the various contestants following out their threads which led to prizes secreted in various parts of the house, there being two prizes of each kind; the partners for supper were chosen in this manner. Those present were: Mrs. C. H. Casement and little daughter, Cleone, of Tacoma, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rubie, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Perry and daughter, Velma, Mr. and Mrs. Roma Hunter and daughter, Macel, Mrs. H. N. Eley, Mrs. J. M. ## Government Yards Underbid For Divers

Washington, Oct. 9.—How government navy yards underbid private concerns for six torpedo boat destroyers was indicated today in an official tabulation of the bids recently made by the Navy Department. The Mare Island Navy Yard offered to build one boat for $762,638, with a figure $50,000 less each for two, besides guaranteeing delivery in twenty months. The Norfolk Navy Yard bid $706,366 with delivery in 26 months.

Camps of Philadelphia, the lowest private bidder, offered a rate of $835,000 for three 30-knot vessels, plus $17,500 for Pacific Coast delivery. The bids indicate that the Mare Island yards will get one, if not two, of the awards.

PEN FLAX PLANT NOW PROVIDES LABOR FOR NUMBER OF PRISONERS

One Hundred Tons of Flax Has Been Thrashed and Seed Stored for 1915

The old machine shops and foundry at the penitentiary is again humming with industry as the flax thrashing machinery is put in operation to prepare the straw for the later stages in the manufacture of the fibre. The buildings are heaped to the roof with bundles of the flax as it was pulled in the fields and hauled in to the pen and these bundles are being run through the 12 thrashers to separate the seeds from the straw. The seeds are swept up and taken to the cleaners where they are hulled and the chaff blown from the seeds so that the state will be able to provide the growers with plenty of cleaned seed for next year's planting.

The first problem that confronted the builders of the pen flax was the disposal of the dust that arose from the fans of the cleaners and the thrashing machines. This was solved by Engineer C. W. Barriek and Superintendent Cady by the installation of a blower system to remove the dust from the machines and carry it outside. It is in the shape of a huge fan that sucks up the dust and tends to render the factory sanitary and healthful.

About 100 tons have been thrashed but there remains about 500 tons more in piles but which will not be thrashed until the ground for retting the flax is available. The retting ground consists of about 80 acres located one and one half miles south of this city near the old Westcott and Irvin farm. Walter Johnson is now working on this place with a gang of 50 men who are grubbing and cleaning up the ground to be used for spreading out the flax.

The flax straw is spread out in long rows and after a few weeks of weather it is turned over. This toughens the fibres and aids in preparing them for the further processes. It is thought that even the 80 acre farm will not be sufficient for spreading out all of the flax which will be prepared at the plant when it is in full working order.

One carload of the flax machinery is still on the road but the plant this year will be a small one on account of the beginning of the industry. No labor saving machines will be installed as there will always be an abundance of help available at the penitentiary plant.

Deputy Warden Sherwood is experimenting with the flax chaff as a fertilizer on his bean patch inside the walls and it is possible that a new use for the byproducts may be found if the chaff serves the purpose as well as the early indications point.

Henry L. Bents is today shipping 328 bales via the Canadian Pacific direct to London. These are hops taken in on contract. The reported announcement that transcontinental lines will not issue through bills of lading on hops has not been received here by either shippers or the Southern Pacific agent.

Gooding Brothers of St. Paul have sold what hops they had over contracted to Lachmund & Talbot of Salem. Kauffman, on the J. N. McKay farm, has also sold his over-contract hops to the same firm. The price is not given out. Jas. Ryan sold 50 bales this week to Felix Iansson, for the Wolf Hop company, at 10 cents.

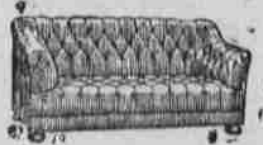

Fred Bents was in the city from Fargo Monday. Mr. Bents believes the 1915 hop crop will approximate about 90,000 pounds. He also believes that growers can realize much better than present prices if they do not force the market.

Up to this date growers have shown little anxiety to sell their hops and have waited for the buyers to come to them. In other years, this city has been full of growers anxious to sell at this time in the season.—Aurora Observer.
