CAROL S. DIBBLE.

It is the eve of the fifteenth annual convention of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs, which will open Monday evening at eight o'clock with a reception at the state house in the house of representatives. The convention will last until Thursday, October 28, with the state house as official headquarters. All the sessions being held there. It promises not only to be one of the most interesting but also one of the largest meetings of the State Federation ever held as from 25 to 30 new clubs have been admitted into the Federation during the year thus creating an added number of delegates. As a full attendance of delegates is anticipated, the official list will be in the neighborhood of 200 to 300.

Club circles have been agog for some time over the politics of the convention. The refusal of the president, Mrs. Sarah A. Evans to again become a candidate, has left the field open to any aspirant. From time to time a number of women have been tentatively suggested, but the contest has apparently narrowed down to two: Mrs. C. H. Castner, of Hood River, who has a solid backing in many of the large clubs and Mrs. M. L. T. Hidden of Portland, who also has friends working for her. Candidates for the other offices have been put forward by their respective clubs. Miss Marion Towne of Phoenix, is in line for a directorship. She is able and popular and was a representative from Jackson county in the last legislature. Mrs. J. W. Tift of Portland is now being asked to run for second vice-president. She is well informed on federation matters and is known favorably all over the state. Mrs. Sylvia McGuire Thompson will probably be placed in nomination for the recording secretaryship. The Salem club is likely to have a candidate for the first vice-presidency, Miss Mattie Beatty. She is a prominent club woman of the state, is well known and has done capable work for the home club.

A few amendments will come up for discussion and action. One refers to the corresponding secretary. The suggestion offered is from the viewpoint of one who has had a large amount of club experience—an excellent one. Mrs. G. J. Frankel has offered an amendment to article III, section 2 of the constitution, inserting the words, "No member shall be eligible to the same office for more than two terms." This plan is followed in many states. Mrs. M. L. T. Hidden suggests a change in the method of appointing standing committees which she wishes to have nominated by the executive board and elected by the convention. Over this clause there may arise some doubt as to which executive board would do the nominating.

Another amendment which will come up, is a change in article X, section 2. Heretofore, the Woman's Clubs have sold Red Cross stamps for the relief of tuberculosis. But within the last year, a branch organization of the national anti-tuberculosis association has been formed with headquarters in Portland. The question now to be considered is whether the Woman's Clubs shall continue their sale of Red Cross stamps, the funds from which would necessarily go to the anti-tuberculosis association, or relinquish this phase of relief work altogether to the said association, and also whether the funds now on hand from the previous sales of stamps shall be retained or turned over to the new organization. As regards the actual program of the convention, there are many significant features.

The local committees have worked hard to make the reception Monday evening an enjoyable social affair and it is hoped that the visiting delegations will arrive in time for this entertainment for which an excellent program has been arranged.

Tuesday morning will be devoted to routine convention work—reports of officers, standing committees, etc., while the afternoon will be filled with a variety of "Fest of Reason and Flow of Soul". There will be vocal solos by Mrs. T. H. Galloway and T. Ordeman—singers who always delight their audiences. The president's address will be replete with suggestions of helpfulness while the flax industry of Oregon by Gov. Withycombe is a subject in which we see hope for unemployed of our state. Book problems will be ably handled by Miss Cornelia Marvin, secretary state library commission. As the peace idea is the keynote of all club activities throughout our state, the discussion—Shall We Have Military Training in Our Schools and the Hague conference by Miss Grace De Graff will be of special interest. Miss De Graff has a message for all in her report of that great world conference, which one should not miss.

The address of Joseph P. Byers of Philadelphia, Pa., president of the American prison association and executive national secretary for the care of the feeble minded, who will speak on "The Duty of the State to its Delinquent and Defective" will be of absorbing interest. Mr. Byers is an authority on prison reform and has an important message to give which all should hear. His lecture begins at 8:15 sharp, Tuesday evening and will be preceded by music under auspices of Monday Musical club of Portland.

Wednesday at 10 a. m. comes "The Children's Hour" with the rights of children by Mrs. Millie Trumbull, the crippled children by Mrs. P. L. Campbell and the child that should never have been born by Mrs. Sarah A. Evans. These interesting addresses will be followed by Mrs. Frederick Eggett's report of the scholarship loan fund and Our State University by Mrs. Geo. Gerlinger.

Conferences of the various departments will be held for an hour Wednesday afternoon to be followed by music and addresses on three interesting subjects as follows: The Polly of Fashion by Miss Fannie Harley, Property Rights of Women by Frank S. Grant, Late city attorney of Portland and Land Grants and Waterways by G. P. Putnam. The program for Wednesday will be one of the most interesting of the convention.

Wednesday evening will be devoted to congregational singing and club reports while Thursday the final business of the convention will be completed. All meetings will be held in the house of representatives. The public will be cordially welcomed to all sessions of the convention except the reception Monday evening which is open to only invited guests, club members and their husbands.

The list of delegates who will attend the convention are, to date: Portland: Mrs. James M. Reeves, Mrs. S. B. Blumauer, Mrs. H. A. Moore, Mrs. Robert D. Schmidt, Mrs. E. T. Taggart, Mrs. G. B. A romance quite after the heart of romance lovers culminated happily Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Kathleen Price of Eastbourne, Sussex, England, became the bride of Ernest H. Hunt of this city at St. Paul's Episcopal church the Rev. Robert S. Gill officiating at the ceremony. The wedding took place at 4 o'clock on the day of the bride's arrival in Salem at the close of a long journey across an ocean and a continent. The bride was beautiful in a handsome maroon-colored suit, completed by a becoming black velvet picture hat and a necklace of emerald. She carried a lovely bouquet of white carnations. Proceeded by little Maxine Glover, the ring bearer, the bride and groom entered the church together to Lohengrin's wedding march softly played by Miss Lillian Slater. The dainty ring-bearer was prettily frocked in white lingerie, elaborated with a pink ribbon sash and hair bow. The church was aglow with masses of the brilliantly hued autumn foliage. Following the ceremony a pretty wedding dinner was served at the home of Mrs. F. P. Talkington on North Church street, covers being laid for eight of Mrs. Hunt's close friends. The color motif carried out in the table appointments was red, the centerpiece consisting of handsome scarlet geraniums, circled by softly shaded candleabra. Exchange unique hand colored place cards displaying a tiny bride, with a genuine veil and pearl garland, grace-ed each plate. The ring, dime and thimble without which no wedding collation would be complete, were concealed in an especially inviting pink and white wedding cake. The rooms were tastefully decorated with autumn leaves and hydrangeas of a deep crimson dye. Mrs. Hunt is the daughter of Mrs. W. T. Price of Eastbourne, England, which is the former home of Mr. Hunt, his mother, Mrs. M. Ridsill still residing in that city. The romance which resulted in the wedding of Tuesday and which has been replete with such idyllic charm throughout, began four years ago in England, when Mr. Hunt returned to visit his former home. It was originally planned that the wedding should take place in England, but on account of the war, it was decided otherwise and Mrs. Hunt made the entire journey alone. On her arrival in New York she was met by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hurst, (Bertha Holman) former Salem residents, who entertained Mrs. Hunt extensively during her stay in the metropolis. She brought with her a handsome array of wedding gifts, including beautiful pieces of silver of a distinctively English pattern. The bride who is a radiant impersonation of charming girlhood at twenty, almost obliterates from mind any thought of the daily tragedies of the war-stricken country, she left behind her. But back of the winning appeal of her girliness lies the poise and maturity of the true English woman, who is swift to quicken to the sufferings of her country. As to the suggestion that there must be many lonely girls in England now, Mrs. Hunt added "Yes, and many mothers. So many single sons have been lost."

She mentioned also the fact that the women are again resuming their knitting as the winter draws near, carrying it with them to whatsoever there be in the way of social affairs and even to the opera and theatre, the bride of the week having knitted 20 pairs of mittens last winter.

Mrs. Hunt's home in Eastbourne is only sixty miles from London and though no sight nor sound of the Zeppelin raids penetrated within her home precincts, yet the excitement which prevailed in the aftermath of the Zeppelins' course, flooded far and beyond Eastbourne and other neighboring towns. Last winter when a portion of a regiment, was stationed at Eastbourne, various homes were called upon to house the soldiers that of Mrs. Hunt and her mother accommodating six.

When questioned as to an emotion felt by the passengers as the ship on which Mrs. Hunt sailed, crossed the war zone, she replied that considerable relief was evidenced on board.

She who left an old country, a maid, to become a bride in a new land, has enthusiastically expressed herself as thoroughly in love with Oregon and in particular the town of Salem itself, where she and Mr. Hunt will make their home. Mrs. Hunt is the official pianist at the Grand theatre and as a result of his wide popularity has many friends in the city who will do honor to his bride and welcome her as a happy addition to their midst.

Charming in every detail were the bride teas at which Mrs. R. K. Page and Mrs. J. N. Smith entertained in formerly Thursday and Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. K. Page on Chemekeeta street, a large number of matrons and maids enjoying their hospitality. The living room was tastefully elaborated with a profusion of variegated dahlias, splashed with red and yellow. A most attractive decorative scheme was carried out in the dining room, where yellow was the dominant color note. The long tea table was centered with a graceful Japanese basket, blending into soft browns, tied with yellow tulle, and filled with quantities of tiny hoton margold in browns and yellows. The glow of yellow shaded candles added the finishing touch to the harmonious effect of the room. On Thursday four tables of bridge were arranged for the players, the card honors falling to Mrs. Thomas Kay. On Friday the guests circled six tables, Mrs. Paul Schmidt, capturing the high score. An additional number of guests called both days at the conclusion of the card games, early in the afternoon. Presiding at the tea-table on Thursday were Mrs. A. N. Bush and Mrs. J. H. Albert. Mrs. Max of Buren, Mrs. Clifford Brown, Miss Margaret Gray and Miss Gertrude Gray assisted in the dining room, and Mrs. J. D. Sutherland and Mrs. William Allen in the living room. On Friday Mrs. W. C. Knighton and Mrs. Fred Steusloff poured, while Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. E. S. Tillinghast, Mrs. W. M. Hamilton and Mrs. Chester Cox assisted the hostess in the dining room, and Mrs. Leta Westcott in the living room.

Mrs. Asahel Bush was hostess at a perfectly appointed dinner Monday evening at her home on Bellevue street, the occasion being the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Bush. The table was beautifully centered with delicately tinted, pink roses intermingled with clusters of dainty spikes of the same shade. Covers were laid for eight, the guests list comprising the ushers at their wedding. During the evening, a few friends dropped in informally. Those circling the table were: M. and Ma. Channey Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Theilsen, Mr. and Mrs. Asahel Bush.

Millard, Mrs. H. E. Voorheis, Mrs. A. E. Hunt, F. C. DeLong, Mrs. L. H. Mills, Mrs. I. O. Van Winkle, Mrs. A. A. Lee.

The members of the Thursday Afternoon club gathered at the home of Mrs. George Rodgers this week according to the custom of the club for a 1 o'clock luncheon, followed by an informal Kensington. The house was attractively decorated with zinnias and delicately shaded pink roses. The club members are: Mrs. H. H. Olinger, Mrs. Frank Durbin, Mrs. L. F. Griffiths, Mrs. R. E. Lee Steiner, Mrs. Milton Meyers, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Edwin Baker, Mrs. R. P. Boise, Mrs. W. H. Daney, Mrs. Oliver Locke, Mrs. Joseph Baumgartner, Mrs. C. L. McNary, Mrs. Carlton Smith, Mrs. George Rose, Mrs. George Rogers, Mrs. Frank Meredith, the house guest of Mrs. L. F. Griffiths, was an honor guest of the afternoon.

A number of society women in Salem are planning a unique bazaar for the benefit of the Y. W. C. A., to be held Wednesday, November third at the Lauterman building on Chemekeeta street, between Commercial and Liberty streets. The fete will continue throughout the afternoon and evening, and besides including the customary attractions of the regulation bazaar, as candy and fancy-work booths will number many novel features, comprising a tea-garden and other side allurements, which will be announced later. It is anticipated that more or less of a carnival spirit will conduce to the success of the affair. The funds raised will go towards the furnishing of a room in the new Y. W. C. A. building, which is nearly completed. It is located on North Liberty street near State.

A delightful afternoon was spent on Monday at the home of Mrs. E. E. Waters on North Summer street, by a group of ladies who meet every week with their sewing. Autumn foliage introduced a brilliant color note into the decorations throughout the rooms. Mrs. Harvey Wells and Mrs. Charles McNary assisted in serving. The club, which will hold informal bridge teas after Christmas, will meet next week with Mrs. John McNary.

Miss Marcella Bynon and Miss Alice Baker entertained the Sailcloth Dramatic society of the high school Tuesday evening at Miss Bynon's home on North Summer street. A varied program of entertainment was enjoyed by the guests, following the initiation of new members in the early part of the evening. A mock trial caused much merriment, as did also the impromptu fortune telling. A marshmallow toast added to the pleasure of the evening and later the floor was cleared for dancing. The upstairs rooms were prettily decorated with the deeply toned marigolds, while the dining room was adorned with Virginia creeper, autumn leaves and red dahlias. Assisting Mrs. Bynon in serving were: Miss Edith Bynon and Miss Helen Rose. This affair marks the first of a number of pleasant affairs to be given by this society during the winter. The members of the society present were: Miss Vesta Smith, Miss Ruth Schultz, Mrs. Teresa Fowle, Miss Beatrice Walton, Miss Alice Baker, Miss Blanche Drake, Miss Grace Tyler, Miss Odell Savage, Miss Vivian Beck, Miss Marcella Bynon, Miss R. M. Hopkins, the faculty aid visitor; Ralph Barnes, Edward Rauch, Allen Carson, Arvan Schomaker, Audrey Johnson, Oral Lemon, George Caust, Carlton Savage, Victor Bradson, Victor Taylor, Richard Avison, Lyle Bartholomew.

As Rosenthal will be unable, owing to European conditions, to cross the ocean this year, his place has been filled in the prospective musical artists course here this winter by Ossip Gabrilowitsch and his wife, Clara Gabrilowitsch. In the tour of these distinguished artists there is presented a musical opportunity that Salem people will very likely find irresistible. Gabrilowitsch has never appeared here before and besides the charms of novelty his playing will make the appeal of real greatness, for he is great, one of the most poetic of the great players. Not that he is not also splendid technical equipment, but as Max Smith says in the N. Y. Press, "Among the various masters of the piano few, if any, set the heart strings of the listener into vibration as does Ossip Gabrilowitsch. Listening to Gabrilowitsch is an experience for he never loses his grip on the poetic substance of the works he is interpreting, never fails to quicken the imagination and the emotions."

Mme. Gabrilowitsch, as the gifted daughter of Mark Twain, first attracted attention as a contralto some seasons ago. She is said to have faultless diction, taste and insight. H. L. Finck says her voice is a true contralto, which is rare in these days, and that it stands the test of soft measures without deteriorating in quality. If the course becomes a reality, Gadski will appear in December, Ossip and Clara Gabrilowitsch in January and de Geozza in February.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McEee meted down from Corvallis to spend the week end with their daughter, Mrs. Julia Hopt. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Erwin, of Arlington, Oregon, are also guests at the Hopt home. Mrs. Erwin is a sister of Mrs. Hopt.

Miss Elene Pawk, who has been quite ill for the past week at her home on Nob Hill, is slightly improved.

Miss Evelyn Calbreath left Portland Tuesday for New York City where she will resume her vocal study under the tutorage of Franz X. Arens for another year. Miss Calbreath is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Talbreath, formerly of Salem. She has been passing the summer in Portland with her parents and her sister, Miss Helen Calbreath. This will be her fourth winter season in New York.

liant. The singing of the Orpheus Chorus was especially enjoyed. They gave the dancers an added treat by singing a waltz song as an accompaniment number for one of the dances. Among the decorations which contributed to the beauty of the hall were the dahlias donated by Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner. Much of the success of the affair is due to the managing committee, composed of Mrs. William Lytle, Mrs. John Coughlan, Mrs. Carlton Smith.

Groups of ladies were stationed at the various booths. At the candy booth were Mrs. H. V. McClean, Mrs. J. H. Olinger, Mrs. George Fox, Mrs. J. A. Wood, J. A. Wood served the ice cream. Mrs. H. B. Thielsen, Mrs. Russell Catlin and Mrs. C. H. Dopp were at the punch table. Mrs. Ada Strong met the guests at the door. The young girls who assisted were Miss Ethel Rupert, Miss Doris Charcail, Miss Beatrice Walton, Miss Charlotte Croisan, Miss Helen Wood, Miss Tora Mortensen, Miss Lillian Slater.
