Rev. Tischer Pleads For Rational Methods

Growing congregations have been the order at the Unitarian church for some time past, where Rev. Tischer is preaching a series of sermons dealing with fundamental principles of religion and the higher spiritual life.

The only way that we will, or can ever become thoroughly acquainted with the exalted ideals, aims, mission and purposes of Christianity is to study and acquaint ourselves with the teachings and ideals of other systems of religion.

In comparing various schemes of salvation found in different systems of religion the speaker confined himself to the consideration of two leading phases of this great problem, i. e. salvation by sacrifice, vicarious atonement, sacramental or magical substitution, and salvation by character, which means the unfolding and cultivating of the higher spiritual and divine qualities constitutionally inherent within the spiritual nature or soul of man.

MAGICAL EFFECT OF NEW FACE PRELER

To obtain a clear, rosy, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use and yet so effective as ordinary mercurized wax, which you can get at any drugstore in the original package. Just apply the wax at night as you would cold cream; in the morning wash it off with warm water.

stands well the rural problems of Oregon on account of having lived in the Alsea consolidated rural district, one of the best in the state. From every educator who has visited this exhibit, Mrs. Buxter has secured the names of other people who expected to visit the exposition and has sent to them personal invitations to see the Oregon educational exhibit. She also sent invitations to the delegates to the important congresses held at the exposition, to all the farm agents in California, and to all of the county school superintendents of that state. Many of the county superintendents have brought their teachers in a body to visit this exhibit.

The state department of education of West Virginia has published a bulletin containing a half tone cut of the modern rural school shown in the Oregon exhibit, which is a reproduction of the rural school at Bridgeport, Ore., and has distributed 15,000 copies of these bulletins throughout the state of West Virginia.

The historian of the Panama-Pacific exposition, Mr. J. A. Buchanan, who is gathering material for his work, said of the Oregon rural school exhibit: "This is one of the best I have found because of its tremendous human interest. A whole human history could be written about that class of rural school children in dairying. It is certainly a wonderful work you are accomplishing in your schools." Dr. Heaton, assistant superintendent of the San Francisco schools, brought to the Oregon booth Mr. Davidson, county superintendent of Marion county, and told him that he could do nothing better for the schools of his county than to adopt Oregon's standard school plan.

J. C. Muernan, of the United States Bureau of Education, said: "We have watched very closely the progress of the Oregon schools, not only for nothing advance for our annual reports, but also in order that we might get from Oregon results carried out to a successful conclusion, rather than simple theories that have not been properly tested."
