Miss Helen West, the daughter of ex-Governor West, who has been visiting with her aunt, Mrs. Ben Olcott, was the inspiration of a charming birthday party on Saturday afternoon for which Mrs. Olcott was the hostess. A delightful afternoon was spent at the movies, after which the young folk returned to the home of Mrs. Olcott where a dainty birthday collation was served. The table was centered with a mass of lovely yellow pompon chrysanthemums, surrounded by glittering yellow candles, while the birthday cake itself, was adorned with thirteen twinkling candles. Grouped around the table were: Miss West, Miss Maxine Buren, Misses Josephine and Lenta Baumgartner and Miss Helen Rose.

THE CHARM OF MOTHERHOOD

Enhanced By Perfect Physical Health.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a physician and held in strict confidence.

Mr. Axley is the son of Professor and Mrs. J. P. Axley, of Salem, and is connected with the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation company's accounting department. The rooms were beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and ferns. The novelty of the announcement was that the names were written on the autumn leaves instead of cards. About 20 of the girls of the club were present. The wedding will take place the early part of next year.

Boyles and Jasper Skiffe, of Salem, a dainty shower being given in her honor recently at the home of Mrs. Boyles. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie Marthaler, while the bridegroom was accompanied by his brother, Vivian. The bride was dressed in a becoming frock of lansdowne trimmed with pointed lace and dainty ornaments. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridegroom was dressed in nutmeg-colored silk and she carried yellow chrysanthemums. The house was decked throughout with autumn leaves and flowers. A reception followed the ceremony and a collation was served. Later the couple motored to their new home at Fairfield.

PRODUCERS PAY HIGH PRICE FOR SUGAR ON THE ISLAND OF MAUI

Refined Article Commands Higher Retail Price There Than On Mainland

Although thousands of tons of sugar are manufactured upon the island of Maui, Hawaiian islands, annually, the consumers of refined sugar there, and these represent the great majority of the natives and residents are compelled to pay a higher price for the product than do the people of Salem and other parts of the United States. Whereas the best grade of refined sugar can be purchased in Salem at $6.50 per hundred, or the rate of 15 pounds for the dollar, the people of Maui island are compelled to pay at the rate of about 13 pounds for the dollar.

This intelligence is conveyed by Chas. Savage, who was born and raised in Marion county, and spent the greater part of his life in Salem, who for the past five years has been chief carpenter and in charge of all the building and construction work for the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company, of Punahoa, Maui, who is in Salem visiting his step-mother, Mrs. Henry H. Savage, and other relatives. Mr. Savage came over to San Francisco upon a business errand for his employers and took the opportunity to take a run up to Salem before returning home.

Mr. Savage accounts for the peculiar situation in the retailing of sugar at such high prices in the realm of its production to the fact that there are no refineries on Maui island and the raw or crude sugar has to be shipped either to California or Honolulu for refinement and the Maui consumers are obliged to pay the difference in the freight both ways and the cost of refining, with the brokers' commissions and incidental expenses added. The people over there are very much in the same condition in regard to sugar and the people of Oregon, one of the greatest wool producing states in the country, are in when they have to ship the wool east for the manufacturing process and purchase it back again in the nature of clothing plus all of the cost of manufacture and freight charges both ways.

Mr. Savage, as a member of Company K, Second Oregon Volunteers, saw service in the Philippines during the Spanish-American war and Filipino insurrection. He engaged in carpenter work here and elsewhere on the coast until he went to the Hawaiian islands five years ago and secured employment with the sugar company and has marked up to his present lucrative and responsible position. He is a son of the late H. H. Savage who died in this city about two months ago, but was unable to come home when his father was seized of his last illness. He is married and is the proud father of two children, the youngest of which is but little over a month old, hence Mrs. Savage and the babies could not accompany him on the trip.

Elias Savage, his brother, who is also a native of Salem and graduate of the Willamette university, occupies the responsible position of consulting chemist for the Hawaiian Pineapple company, of Honolulu, and is happy and prosperous. Charlie Savage will probably leave for his home in the land of the "kannakas," the latter part of next week.

County School Superintendent W. M. Smith, who was out of town last week visiting schools of this county reports that the Astoria school has installed a water system and a sanitary tank at a cost of about $700 to the district and that this school is one of the best equipped in the county. The water is supplied by a well and is pumped into an overhead tank by a gasoline engine. Harder pump fountain has also been installed for drinking purposes of the pupils.

The library books for the schools of this county have been received at the office of the county school superintendent and are now being catalogued for distribution to the districts. Marion county schools this year received $1,356.40 from the county per capita tax to be expended for library books and about 3,000 volumes were purchased. Last year 1,458 volumes were distributed among the county schools making a total of approximately 34,883 volumes in the school libraries of the county. The present shipment of books was late in arriving on account of slides in the Panama canal. The first shipment was sent by water from New York but was held up at the canal and it was necessary for the New York houses to duplicate the order and send it by freight across the continent.

A marriage license was issued Saturday at the office of the county clerk to C. A. Hannagan, a farmer of Gervais, and Miss Veronika Schneider, also of Gervais. They will be married tomorrow.

The county court has reappointed William Scollard as supervisor of road district No. 8-1-3 in place of William Wells resigned. Mr. Scollard was appointed supervisor of this district by the county court at the first of the year but it appeared that Mr. Scollard was living inside the corporate limits of Woodburn and when the law went into effect making each corporate city a separate road district this rendered Mr. Scollard ineligible. Mr. Wells was then appointed.

CITY HALL NEWS

The Standard Oil company suffered another setback Saturday night when thieves broke the lock on the company barn at Sixteenth and Oak streets and carried away two double sets of heavy work harness leaving only the collars. The stable men were in the barn until 11 o'clock Saturday night working with a sick horse and looked the barn as they left. The robbery was reported to the police yesterday morning but there is no clue to the robbers.

The cash box on the public telephone at the Southern Pacific depot was robbed last night between 9 o'clock and 8:30 when the loss was discovered. Someone wrenched the box containing the nickles from the wall of the booth and carried it away but it is not known just how much money was in the box. The sound proof booth enabled the robbers to work without being heard from the inside of the depot.

A fire in a clothes closet at the residence of Fred McClard at 1745 Court street, caused considerable smoke at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon but the damage was slight except to the clothes in the closet. With rare presence of mind the family left the doors and windows closed after the alarm was turned in and the firemen were able to confine the fire to the closet. If the doors and windows had been opened as is often the case a draught would have been created which would have fanned the flames and caused them to spread to other parts of the house.

A chimney fire at the residence of A. M. Ranson at 1310 South Liberty street caused an alarm to be turned in at 9:10 last night but the flames refused to spread on account of the dampness and no damage was done.

As part of the Philodemon initiation each of the new girls who were admitted as members were required to ask some young man to accompany them to the chapel dome. Accordingly at chapel time this morning about a dozen couples climbed to the top of Oregon's legislative building, and from the windows they waved greetings to the crowd going to chapel.

Dr. Doney's lecture on 'The War and Religion' will be given in Willamette chapel this evening at 8:00 p. m. No charge is made for admission, the course is intended for the public.

The freshmen party Saturday evening at the home of Miss Powle on Chemeketa and Capital streets was a success although the usual obstacles connected with a freshmen party were present. The sophomores had planned to have a launch party for a number of the freshmen boys, but inasmuch as the Pross disclaimed the preferred plan it was called off. Instead several of the sophomores were captured by the "Hooks" and were taken to the party and tied up. After the party the entire freshmen class went home in a crowd and an auto truck was secured and the young ladies rode while the young men escorted the truck. Notwithstanding the many troubles, everyone spent a most enjoyable evening.

The big event of the football year is to come next Saturday when Willamette goes to Pacific 150 strong to see the P. U. W. U. football game. Big preparations are being made to make the excursion one long to be remembered by all who go. A picnic dinner will be held at Forest Grove and all will take dinners along.
