SHIPLEY'S THANKSGIVING SALE RICHARDSON'S SNOW WHITE LINENS ENDS NOVEMBER 24TH

SITUATION IN GREECE EXTREMELY CRITICAL

Greece Will Finally Join Allies Or Constantine Will Lose His Throne

London, Nov. 8.—The newly named Greek cabinet has begun already to show symptoms of collapse. M. Michellidias, selected as minister of public instruction, refused the portfolio. This was taken as indicative of the determination of the war party to dictate Greek policies. The new cabinet is headed by M. Skouloudis as premier. At the king's request he reformed the body, retaining all the Zaimis ministry except the premier himself. While Zaimis has not yet explained why Zaimis was eliminated, it was believed here that Venizelos convinced him that he could make the post impossible for Zaimis, though he agreed to tolerate Skouloudis on account of the latter's known friendship for the allies. Skouloudis announced that although he does not intend to throw an army into the Balkans his attitude will be a "very benevolent neutrality" toward the allies. Such a position, naturally, could not fail to appease Venizelos partially, in view of his open stand for not interfering with their landing at Salonika. An Attempt at Compromise. The appointment of Skouloudis was an evident attempt to compromise with Venizelos since it did not involve dissolution of the parliament. It was far short, however, of meeting the former premier's wishes of participating in the war directly. The situation was viewed here as still extremely critical, with the prospect that Greece will finally join the allies or that Constantine's throne will be in great danger. The new cabinet is as follows: M. Skouloudis, premier and minister of foreign affairs. I. Michellidias, (refused) minister of public instruction. D. G. Bhalis, minister of justice and communications. M. Gonaris, minister of interior. M. Theokotis, minister of national economy. General Vanakitsas, minister of war. Admiral Countouriotis, minister of marine. Stephen Dragounis, minister of finance.

HOISINGTON-GARDNER WEDDING. A pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Gardner, Sunday, when their daughter, Miss Edythe, was given in marriage to Mr. Claude Hoisington. Both are highly esteemed and very popular young people of Polk county. The bride was gowned in a very pretty white Poplin with lace and accompanied by Miss Hazel Dulgan as bridesmaid, who was very tastefully dressed in pink silk, trimmed in fur. The groom was accompanied by the brother of the bride, Mr. Wiley Gardner, as best man. Pauline Hoisington, niece of the groom, acted as flower girl, and Vernice McSherry, a cousin of the bride, as ring bearer. Mrs. G. W. Seifarth sang, "O Take Me!" and the "Bride's March" was played by Chester Seifarth on the cornet, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Seifarth. The ceremony was performed under an arch from which was suspended a beautiful wedding bell. The bridal couple stood on a carpet of Oregon moss. The ring ceremony was used according to the ritual of the United Evangelical church and was read by Rev. W. S. Plovman in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The happy couple will spend their honeymoon in Eastern Oregon and after their return will be at home to their friends on the W. M. Hoisington farm, near Lewisville, Polk County, Itinerary.

NOT SURPRISED TO HEAR THAT A ROBIN EATS 3000 INSECTS EVERY DAY, BUT JUST THINK OF FOLLOWING A ROBIN AROUND WITH A PENCIL AND TALLY SHEET FOR TWENTY-FOUR HOURS.—VALUED EXCHANGE. That's not the way "absolutely accurate" statistics are collected. You keep tab on the robin for ten minutes and your ready pencil does the rest, even if the robin goes to roost. At the last examination held by the Oregon Board of Pharmacy, at Portland, October 12 and 13, the following students passed, securing an average of over 75 per cent: J. J. Bills, D. C. England, J. E. Farrell, Mrs. E. H. Forsythe, E. E. Gian, H. F. Herse, J. T. Osfield, F. M. Parsons, F. G. Follette, W. H. Stead, L. T. Stratton, L. S. Stovall, Tys Wigham, Jr., L. E. Walton, C. H. Underwood. In the junior examination, the following passed: C. T. Anderson, W. D. Livock, R. Orme. The only successful candidate from Salem was W. D. Livock, of the J. C. Perry drug store. Miss Alta E. Matten, a student of the high school living on rural route 6, was one of the many high school pupils in the state who submitted poems to the Portland Ad club, extolling the merits of loganberry juice. While she did not win any of the cash prizes, her poems received favorable mention. About a month ago the Portland Ad club offered prizes for poems on loganberry juice, to be sung to some popular song, and at the same time having an advertising merit. NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.
