Russian Prisoners Are Forced Into Army

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18.—That Russian prisoners have been forced into the Austrian army, given Austrian uniforms and sent to death on the Italian front was the assertion today of Sergeant Salvatore Rameidi, of the Thirty Second Bersaglieri, who was wounded at the battle of Monte Nero, and is here visiting a brother.

Describing the charge in which he fell, Rameidi declared today that, as the Italians approached the Austrian trenches, the Austrian troops fled, but the Russians in Austrian uniform remained, held their rifles above their heads and surrendered. Rameidi said these Russians told Italian officers they had been captured in the Gallician campaign. After being kept awhile in prison camps, they were scattered among Austrian regiments and forced to fight against their own allies.

CURL HAIR THIS WAY AND KEEP IT HEALTHY

It has been found that the use of a harmless and inexpensive fluid which druggists know as "almerine" will keep the straight hair in curl, giving it the appearance of true naturalness, besides keeping the hair softer and glossier than possible with the heated iron. The liquid may be applied with a clean tooth brush, the hair being drawn through the hair from crown to tip and allowed to dry overnight.

ATTEMPT TO REMEDY ARMY WEAKNESSES Failure of Reserves to Arrive Will Be Investigated Officially

By J. W. T. Mason. (Written for the United Press.) New York, Nov. 18.—The announcement of the Marquis of Crewe in London that an inquiry had been ordered over the failure of British reserves to arrive in time to gain a success at the battle of Loos was the first public notice of an attempt to remedy a persistent fault in Great Britain's armies.

There have been three such delays. The first was at Neuve Chapelle, where part of the first line forces executed their attack according to schedule, while tragic delays interfered with proper reinforcements for the advanced troops.

The second incident occurred at Suvla Bay. There the rapid landing of the British troops surprised the Turks, but, afterward, indecision left the thin advanced line unsupported.

Loos marked the third piece of bungling. These delays are attributed to faulty work on the part of the English staff. While they are capable of planning battles, they thereafter depend too much on luck and the demoralization of the enemy.

As a result of the inquiry, however, large reforms may be undertaken that will remedy permanently these conditions.

Men Perished—Officers Sleep

London, Nov. 18.—England was stirred today by charges of Baron St. Denis before the house of lords that English staff officers on the west front slept late while their men in the trenches perished—because bridge playing the night before prevented early rising. Women, too, he said, were present at headquarters.

Incompetency and neglect, he charged, prevailed. Men who ought to be soldiering a rifle in the pits had been added to the staff for no good reason, he said. He pleaded for a fair chance for the men who are fighting England's battles in the trenches.

The Marquis of Crewe announced that authorities are investigating charges that the British failed to succeed at Loos because reinforcements did not arrive in time.

Stomach Troubles Due To Acidity

So Says New York Physician. So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, stomach-ache and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excessive secretion of acid and the fermentation of food. Such fermentation is unnatural and may involve harmful consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisulphated magnesia, perhaps the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops the fermentation, and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. Fermentation, wind and acidity are unnecessary. Stop or prevent them by the use of a proper anti-acid, such as bisulphated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly—without being hindered by gas and excessive acids.

Will Consult Farmers On Market Conditions

To devise ways and means of creating better market facilities for products and live stock produced in this vicinity a second meeting will be held at the commercial club with prominent farmers from the several granges in this county and Polk. The first meeting was held in the agricultural department and a special committee of the commercial club was held November 3, and this second one is scheduled for next Wednesday, November 24, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

These meetings are perhaps the first that have ever been held between members of the commercial club and farmers where actual conditions are discussed and practical means suggested for the betterment of present market conditions.

National Grange Favors Suffrage for Women

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 18.—Resolute in heated debate which lasted far into the night the national grange, patrons of husbandry, adopted resolutions last night advocating an amendment to the constitution of the United States providing equal suffrage. The vote stood thirty for and twenty-five against the resolution.

A committee, of which C. B. Kegley is the chairman, reported to the delegates the result of the recent elections in the eastern states, and deplored the lack of success. However, the committee declared that the result for the success of women's suffrage in every state in the union was inevitable.

Regley was a most ardent advocate of the resolution. During the debate, he said in part: "I hope you will adopt this resolution. Last year we were on record in favor of state suffrage, and now we desire to go further. We must now actively engage in a positive and determined endorsement, and as the leaders of this great farmers organization are not satisfied with half measures to campaign for the proposition until sex limitations be abolished as a custom and idea of barbarism."

Delegates visited the University of California yesterday afternoon, and were addressed by Mayor Samuel O. Irving, Dean Thomas F. Hunt and Prof. W. A. Setchell, of the botanical department.

Washington, D. C., was chosen the next convention city for the national grange.

 TRY THIS IF YOU HAVE DANDRUFF *****

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

 THE MARKETS *****

The entire market is unchanged today. Wheat seems to have settled to a price of 80 to 83 cents in the local markets, with oats holding firm at 35 cents.

Turkeys are attracting the attention of buyers, but so far, no definite price has been established either here or in Portland. The turkey situation seems to be that of former years, when those who have them, are holding out to the last for a higher price.

Portland buyers and local men believe there is an abundant supply and are in no rush to buy, although the market will have to develop this week. Local prices run 15 and 16 cents on foot.
