HIGHWAY ENGINEER

MIDDLE MAY AGAIN BE UP FOR DISCUSSION

Contracting Firm Demands Final Estimates On Work From John H. Lewis

The possibility of a reopening of the controversy between State Engineer John H. Lewis and the state highway commission with the position of Chief Deputy F. I. Cantine as the bone of contention was suggested today by a letter received at the office of the state engineer, Harrison Allen, attorney for Peterson & Johnson, which firm has completed a contract on Columbia high-

OLD AGE FINDS COMFORT

Beyond comparison in a correctly fitted pair of glasses.

In old age the chief source of enjoyment is the ability to read easily and comfortably. This is a privilege that should be enjoyed by everyone and good glasses make it possible.

If you are not now wearing glasses or the ones you have are not satisfactory it will pay you to come and see me at once. I guarantee you perfect satisfaction in every respect, if glasses will help you I will tell you at once.

I do not use drops or drugs in making examinations, as they are dangerous.

Organized Labor Deals With Labor Situation

By Ed L. Keen.
(United Press staff correspondent.)
London, Oct. 9.—(By mail.)—Organized labor first suggested how to deal with the labor shortage in munitions industries. In November, 1914, the Amalgamated Society of Engineers and four other unions proposed that firms engaged on private work be given government work; firms working short time, transfer surplus labor to busier centers, skilled workmen be brought from Canada and Australia; skilled men who had enlisted be brought back from the trenches.

This then appealed nor to the government or to the employer. Six months later, after the spring offensive in Flanders failed through lack of munitions, it was adopted.

Following this expose of the empire's grave danger, all the skilled labor unions in the United Kingdom agreed, during the war, to allow unskilled workers to use lathes and other machines, permitted women in munitions work, withdrew opposition to the premium bonus system and agreed not to restrict or hamper the output.

Right after this Lloyd George said the real cause of the munitions shortage was drink. He abandoned this later when he saw that the facts were against him, but much mischief had been done. The British masses are not thick-skinned. Their feelings were hurt. To be called drunkards just after what they had done was discouraging.

Next came the munitions act. Early in the year labor suspected that Lloyd George and the government desired industrial conscription. The government had refused to deal with the increased living cost, increased profits, or the claims of the labor that the war ought not to be a means of labor exploitation by capital.

The munitions act provided prohibition of strikes; government control of certain establishments, now nearly 1,000; guaranteed employers in controlled establishments the average of profits for the last two years plus one-fifth extra, and allowances for capital expenditure; suspended all trade union regulations in controlled establishments, and subjected workers to heavy fines for striking, decreasing output, or going to work elsewhere.

The administration of the munitions act is constantly embittering relations between the government and labor; and that labor feels that its sacrifices in lives, in trade union rights, and material prosperity have far exceeded those of the classes.

Despite these things, labor has now promised to recruit 20,000 men a week, and to try to make it 30,000!

WOMEN JURORS WIN

Redwood City, Cal., Nov. 24.—Twelve business men, drawn on the San Mateo county grand jury confessed themselves vanquished today by the women members of the jury, meet any heart and cooling babies that needed attention, won.

The question was as to when the jury should meet again. The men wanted the sessions at night; they worked daytimes.

"No, sir," replied Mrs. Louise Kroeck firmly, "my babies need me at night." A chorus of women backed her argument and the men capitulated, agreeing to meet any time the women desired.

George Bartholomew Successfully Eluding Portland Police Net

Portland, Ore., Nov. 24.—No progress was made by the police today toward a solution of the trunk murder mystery. The search for George Bartholomew, alleged murderer of the man whose body was found in a trunk in the river here continued unabated but he has dropped completely out of sight. The police still believe that the murdered man's name was John Lind. Never has a more mystifying tragedy occurred in Portland.

Coach Dobie May Go To Wisconsin University

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 24.—Gilmour Dobie has offered his services as football coach to Wisconsin university, beginning with 1916 it became known here today through a dispatch from Madison, Wis. Dobie refused to discuss the matter, and was in a huff because his private business had become public.

Dobie's contract still has a year to run and I don't think the board of control would release him," said Graduate Manager Younger.

Dobie makes no secret of the fact he is dissatisfied here because the public does not appreciate him. He says the students have no spirit.

Prominent students point out that Dobie's system of coaching does not permit spirit to exist as he makes the eleven a personal institution and will not permit anyone to see it in action except in a game. Students also are displeased with schedules Dobie provides.

Former Wealthy Miner Arraigned For Burglary

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 23.—Charles Gordon Bishop, former wealthy Mexican mining man who turned burglar for a night through hunger, was arraigned this morning on a charge of burglary before Police Judge Samuels. Bail was fixed in the sum of $1,000 and December 1 set as the date for preliminary examination.

Bishop, who is the brother of Harry Frederick Bishop, manager of the Victoria, B. C., Royal Bank of Canada, has confessed to looting the home of M. L. Libbey, in the Lakeside district. His arrest followed close upon the sale of his wife's wedding ring for $2.50 which the couple used to buy food.

Bishop told the police the revolution in Mexico ruined him and that he stole to keep himself and wife from starving.

The wife corroborates the pathetic story of poverty and lost wealth.

Suffering Drives Bandon Merchant to Suicide

Portland, Ore., Nov. 24.—After weeks of suffering from cancer of the face which prevented him from sleeping or eating, James Cartwright, a pioneer merchant of Bandon, Oregon, shot and killed himself at the Good Samaritan hospital last night. The body, a bullet hole in the head, was found by an orderly today.

Before being taken to the hospital two weeks ago Cartwright was an inmate of the Odd Fellows Home.

J. J. McNamara Financed Dynamiting of Times

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24.—With the sensational testimony of Patrick Dugan before the jury, the prosecution in the M. A. Schmidt murder and dynamite trial today resumed the introduction of evidence intended to indicate J. J. McNamara financed the alleged dynamite conspiracy, of which the blowing up of the Times building here was one result.

Dugan started today for his home in Indianapolis. On the witness stand he repeated the testimony given by him in the Indianapolis dynamite conspiracy trials, alleging J. J. McNamara discussed dynamiting with him, and offered to give him explosives for the "job."

Thanksgiving Spirit Hovers Over Prison

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 24.—The true spirit of thanksgiving is today hovering over the town of Folsom where one of the states prisons is located. The people of that little city are arranging an affair that will mean a real Thanksgiving to the wife of a convict and her eight children, who, practically destitute are living in an old shack on the outskirts of the town, within sight of the grim walls that hold the husband and father.

The affair will be in the nature of a dance Wednesday night and Thursday morning, the entire proceeds will be turned over to the poor woman.

Repairs will be made on the old house with a portion of the money, making it a cozy place during the winter and the rest of the money will go towards providing a little "nest egg" for food and clothing.

The father and husband was sent to prison a short time ago from one of the northern California counties for committing a robbery. He is serving a six year term. The wife and children came to Folsom that they might be nearer him.

Missouri Community Arms For Night Riders

Clarkton, Mo., Nov. 24.—Fearful of a gang of desperate night riders, the community hereabouts went "heeled" today. Already, the riggers, waging a war for higher wages for farm tenants and laborers, have wounded two private detectives, while six of their own number have fallen badly wounded. Seven have been rounded up by use of bloodhounds, but there are still at large and threatening fresh raids.
