ALINE THOMPSON

SAN FRANCISCO vivacious, yielding to the lyrical mood of its song and laugher-loving nature saw the greatest year of its history to a finish Saturday in a burst of glory probably not to be matched in the experiences of the generation.

Thousands of Salem people have visited and enjoyed the magic beauty and spell of the great exposition during the year and although memory will always be enriched by reason of these experiences, most of them came home after a few days spent in that glittering, chic smart, hard faced city with a whole some content.

Among those who are still in California and who saw the great brilliant exposition closed are: Mr. and Mrs. George Rodgers, Miss Margaret Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. David Eyre, Mrs. Joseph Alberts, Miss Mary Jane Alberts, Mrs. William Lord, Miss Elizabeth Lord, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Moores, and Paul Wallace.

A delightfully informal sewing bee was given Monday by Mrs. George Meyers, when a group of friends called to spend the afternoon with Mrs. Edward Thielens, who is here from San Francisco.

Mrs. Edwin Baker will entertain the members of the Thursday afternoon club, at a charming one o'clock luncheon Thursday.

Last night's dance given by the members of the Monday Night club in the artistic Moose hall, proved one of the merriest and most delightful parties of the season.

Splendid music and a congenial crowd made the evening a gay one.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wells had as their week end guests Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Alger, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Powels and Miss Lorna Ganong, of Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Giltner and Philip Patterson, of Portland, were week end guests of the Isaac Pattersons, at their country place west of town.

Mrs. J. N. Smith will be hostess Wednesday afternoon for the members of the Happy Hour Bridge club.

The members of the Elite Embroidery club spent an enjoyable afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. V. Ryder, Thursday.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Edith Kane and Mrs. W. L. Bryant. The additional guests were: Mrs. Edith Kane, Mrs. Grace Mikkelsen and Mrs. C. Cleaver.

Mrs. L. E. Bean and son, Alexander, were the over-Sunday guests of Mrs. O. P. Hoss.

J. B. Dillon and Mrs. Malto Belle, of Oregon City, visited at the home of Mrs. G. W. Lucas over Sunday.

Mrs. Ralph E. Wand, of Sawtelle, California, is visiting at the home of her son, Bert Wand, on South Commercial street. This is Mrs. Wand's first visit to Salem, since her departure ten years ago.

In honor of her week end guest Mrs. William Reynolds, Mrs. M. E. Rogers entertained with a five hundred party.

Seven tables of the game were arranged in rooms adorned with feathery yellow chrysantheums. Playing at the tables were: Mr. and Mrs. Galsdorf, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Aufrance, Mr. and Mrs. William Clements, Mrs. Carrie Fisher, Mrs. Joseph Bach, Mrs. William Reynolds, Miss Minnie Moulter, Miss Florence Smith, Miss Rosalie Bach, William Fisher and Edward Ostendorf.

Mrs. Fisher and A. E. Aufrance were awarded the prizes.

The annual Red Cross stamp sale is on in Salem, and those desirous of obtaining seals for their Christmas parcels will be able to secure them at Ladd & Bush's bank, Patton's book store, Commercial street, and the drug stores.

The Olive Homestead No. 973 Brotherhood of American Yeomen, will give another of their jolly dances Friday evening December the tenth in the Moose hall.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Plummer, opened their home on South Fourteenth street, to a jolly number of young folk Friday evening.

Games and music formed the evening's entertainment, followed by a dainty collation served by the hostess.

The programme given is as follows: "Prelude and Fugue on the Name 'Bach'" Franz Liszt
"Largo from 'Zerxes'" George Frederick Handel
Scherzo James H. Rogers
Toccata and Fugue in D minor John Sebastian Bach
The Morning (Peer Gynt Suite, op. 46) Edvard Grieg
Symphonic Poem "Finlandia" Jean Sibelius
Pastoral Suite (new) Clifford Demarest

"And far away through the arch-tidim,
A sad, sweet melody,
Like the wind as it waits its evening hymn
Over the rustling sea,
Rises now like a bird on the wing
Now sinks to an amorous murmuring."
March from "L'Organiste Moderne." Argentine in D flat Lemore

The pipe organ seemed at time during the recital, according to the number being rendered to be a living animate thing that was voicing its sentiments and feelings to the crowd. The mind was made to imagine many scenes as the composers thought wandered from one subject to another; from an appreciation of natural scenic beauty, to an endeavor to give an understanding of the expression of human nature.

Dr. Chace has the power of putting his personality into his playing, and one studies not his technique, while he is playing, but rather they feel that music is something real and cognizable, that its message is as realistic as that of poetry or prose.

The faculty lecture course is proving highly successful and the large crowds attest to the fact that worth while men and women, who are college professors, are regarded highly in their own community. The series have been so prepared that the lecture to be given will cover a wide range of ground. The next number will occur on January 10, at which time Prof. Robert E. Stauffer, head of the department of English literature, will speak on "Rabindranath Tagore; Hindoo Poet and Mystic."

The United Artisans have arranged for another of their pleasant social evenings which will take place Wednesday in the Moose hall. Following the delightful programme which will be given during the evening, there will be a sale of fancy articles.

Another merry making feature of the evening will be the installation of a mystery booth which promises much enjoyment.

Mrs. T. C. Janda is here today from Aumsville.

D. C. Walker, of Donald, was in the city yesterday.

Jerry DeSart was here yesterday from Silverton.

Gilbert McDonald, of Seio, was here yesterday on business.

T. L. Billingsley and wife are in Portland for a few days.

Richard B. Yates, of Alesia, is here to spend a few days with Will P. Hudgins.

C. I. Doolittle of Corvallis, spent the week end in the city, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Evans, North Commercial street.

J. W. Seamster, motorman of the Salem Street Railway, and wife, will leave this week for a visit to Mr. Seamster's former home in Kansas.

G. L. MacGibbon, of Portland, is here today and will remain in the city for several weeks. He has been extended the privileges of the Commercial club.

How to Have the Best Cough Remedy and Save $2 by Making it at Home

Cough medicines, as a rule contain a large quantity of plain syrup. A pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, stirred for 3 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

Then get from your druggist 2 1/2 ounces Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with sugar syrup. This gives you, at a cost of only 54 cents, a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50—a clear saving of nearly $2. Full directions with Pinex. It keeps perfectly and tastes good.

It takes hold of the usual cough or chest cold at once and conquers it in 24 hours. Splendid for whooping cough, bronchitis and winter coughs.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals and soothes the inflamed membranes in the case of a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with quinine and has been used for generations to heal inflamed membranes of the throat and chest.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"Creatures of Passion, Disloyalty and Anarchy"

Washington, Dec. 7.—Going far beyond any utterance he has made thus far concerning hyphenated Americans, President Wilson today sizzlingly denounced them in his message to congress.

"Creatures of passion, disloyalty and anarchy," he branded them.

He counseled laws to deal with their machinations. Their activities, their speech, he said, had poured the "poison of disloyalty into the very arteries of our national life." They have intruded into the secret places of the government; they have constituted in this time of world peril, the "greatest threat against our national peace and safety," he said. Their purposes have been "vindicated;" they have sought to "bring the authority and good name of our government into contempt;" and "to destroy our industries wherever they thought it effective for their vindictive purposes to strike at them."

The number of these hyphenated Americans, who have dealt thus harshly with America, the president said, is "not great as compared with the whole number of those sturdy hosts by which our nation has been enriched in recent generations out of virile foreign stocks."

But, he added significantly, their number is sufficient "to have made it necessary that we should promptly make use of processes of law by which we may be purged of their corrupt distempers."

In urging the congress to enact laws to deal with these persons, the president declared this necessary for no less reason than to save the honor and self respect of the nation.

"Infinitely malignant," he termed them; adding that they have formed plots to destroy property; they have conspired against the neutrality of this government; they have tried to pry into confidential government matters to serve interests alien to those of the United States.

The president's remarks created a profound stir.

women members of the corps. Some of them were glad to find places in the aisles.

Surrounded by secret service men and police, the president reached the capitol at 12:20. Capitol guards and city police kept the crowds away from his car, and cleared a path to a private elevator. From there, he was taken to the second floor of the capitol to Speaker Clark's private room, where he shook hands cordially with the speaker and greeted the members of the house and senate delegations.

Twenty minutes later, escorted by the delegates, the president entered the house.

Applause broke forth in a mighty volume. Members arose from their seats, clapping their hands for what seemed minutes, while galleries joined in the ovation.

Above the din of applause, sounded the "rebel yell" from a southern admirer of the executive.

The president was dressed in a frock coat and gray trousers. As he started his address, his voice seemed faint, but as he progressed it grew stronger. He spoke slowly, emphasizing his words carefully and pausing after his phrases.

QUINABY NEWS

(Capital Journal Special Service.)
Quinaby, Or., Dec. 7.—Mr. Deit and wife of California are visiting at the home of Mrs. Alford.

Fred Hargrafen and wife, of Rosedale, made a week end visit to their parents over Saturday and Sunday.

G. G. Beckner, Jesse Huber, J. P. Zielinski and J. C. McFarlane each made a business trip to Portland recently.

It is rumored that we are to lose one of our blacksmiths. It is reported that Mr. Tanquary will move to Hopmore and open a blacksmith shop at that place.

If the activity in the lumber business is a forerunner of good times surely better times are at hand, as J. C. McFarlane has disposed of four car loads of lumber in the last few weeks. New buildings and improvements seem to be the order of the day.

Mr. Liskey is building an addition to and finishing his house.

Alex Harold has completed a very handy and commodious barn in the place of the one recently burned.

J. P. Zielinski will also build a new barn.

Benna Crest school house has become the social center for the entire community.

time but this was crushed down over his head and he fell to the floor. The backs of the seats held the blazing roof off of him while the fire men removed some debris and Smith crawled down the aisle on his hands and knees.

The theatre building belongs to F. H. D'Arcy and the show was operated by E. K. Dennison who recently took charge of it. The origin of the fire is unknown but from the appearance of the wooden walls when the firemen arrived on the scene it had been burning for some time when the alarm was turned in.

Mr. D'Arcy being in San Francisco the amount of insurance, if any, could not be learned.
