Bloded Cattle Sold At Livestock Show at Union Stock Yards

Portland, Or., Dec. 11.--Twenty head of bloded Holstein cattle were sold on the block at Union Stockyards Friday morning for $5005, an average of $250 each.

The occasion was the third annual sale of Pacific International Holsteins, held in conjunction with the livestock exposition. Nearly 100 handsome animals, all breeding stock, are to be sold before nightfall.

The sale was the liveliest of the week, the ringside being packed with Holstein fanciers from all parts of the northwest and three skilled auctioneers exerting their talents to get big prices.

Colonel George A. Gue of North Yakima handled the matter, assisted by L. H. Linbarg of Santa Barbara, Cal., on one side of the ring, and J. W. Hughes of Forest Grove on the other.

Heifer Brings $500. The big sale of the morning was the disposal of a 2-year-old heifer belonging to E. B. Marks of North Yakima, for $500.

Prices Are Advanced. The heifer, which is declared to be one of the finest of her breed at the show, was purchased by the St. Benedict Abbey at Mount Angel.

When the bidding got to the $400 mark, Gue and his assistants obtained advances $5 at a time up to $500. The opposing bidders were on opposite sides of the rings, and so exciting did the contest become that spectators began rooting for their sides as at a football game.

"God bless your generous heart," Gue would yell as he obtained $5 more. "You are not going to lose that splendid heifer for $5," an assistant would exhort one bidder, and so it was up to $500.

Friday afternoon, Golden Goods, Jr., a three-year-old bull, brought the record price of the afternoon, $12,000. He was purchased by the Ormondale Farms of Redwood, California, from Frank Brown, a well known Shorthorn breeder of Carlton, Oregon.

Golden Goods, Jr., is a son of Golden Goods, and was senior champion bull at the Oregon state fair this year. He took first place in his class at the show now on.

The best price for a cow was $725 paid for Roselawn Maid 84th, by G. R. Hughes of Victoria, B. C. She was purchased from the T. B. Gibson estate of Woodland, California, and is rated as a junior yearling heifer. She is a daughter of the celebrated bull, Ring-leader.

Walter J. Hill, son of James J. Hill, sold one of his bulls at auction although it was not listed for sale. It was purchased by W. O. Minor of Heppner, for $775.

G. R. Hughes of Victoria, who purchased 10 head, and the Portland Union Stock Yards company with 11, were the largest buyers.

Polk County Exhibitors Carry Off Many Awards

(Polk County Observer.) Perhaps because other breeders of Ayreshire cattle in Oregon realized they were up against an unbeatable combination, Walter J. Domes of Medford was the sole exhibitor of this breed at the Northwest Livestock show held at Portland this week.

Being the only exhibitor, Mr. Domes was of course, the only prize winner and his collection of premiums from all parts of the country and all kinds of shows was increased this week with the addition of thirty-one prizes and premiums. The livestock show, which is an annual event conducted by the cattle and stockyards interests of the metropolis, is of greater importance this year than it has ever been, from the fact that animals come from a wider territory, that there were more animals exhibited and generally more interest displayed by all concerned.

Some of the animals shown were declared superior to any ever before displayed in Oregon, and the breeders who exhibited, especially those from Polk county, who took the lion's share of prize money, are very well pleased with the exhibition. The breeders who took their animals to Portland were the center of a number of social events and the program planned for their pleasure was a continual round of merriment. Meetings of the various livestock association were participated in by the Polk county delegation and its members were also interested attendants at the many banquets and dinners that were held during the week. Cash prizes aggregating $15,000 were distributed covering cattle, sheep and hogs.

Among the Polk county prize winners, and the premiums they received, are: Walter J. Domes, McCoy, Ayreshire: Bulls, one, two, and three years old, first prize in each class; senior bull calf, first and second; junior bull calf, first and second; cow four years old, first; cow three years old, first; senior yearling heifer, two years old, first; senior yearling heifer, one year old, first and second; junior yearling heifer, first and second; junior heifer calf, first and second; junior heifer calf, first and second. Among Ayreshires Triune, which took first for bulls, one year old, took the ribbon for junior and grand champion, and Prince of M. R., three-year-old bull, was adjudged senior champion bull. Aloka, best four-year-old cow, was declared semi-champion cow, and Princess Happy, first junior heifer calf, was declared grand champion heifer. In the Ayreshire herd division, Walter Domes again took all prizes, getting first and first for aged herd; first for young herd; first for self herd, first and third for groups of two animals, first and second for four animals, the get of one sire.

In the Jersey classes Undulappa Prince, owned by C. P. Embree of Monmouth, took second prize in two-year-old bull division. Mr. Embree's Rochette's Noble Duke, took second money in the one-year-old bull division, and his Roxey's Rochette Noble Duke, fourth in the same division. In senior bull calf division Mr. Embree's cattle took fourth and fifth prizes, and fifth place among Jersey four years old or over. Other prizes awarded Mr. Embree's Jerseys were: elifer, 2 years old and under 3, first; senior yearling heifer, first and second; junior yearling heifer, third; heifer calf, fifth; junior heifer calf, third; heifer fifth, three seconds.

Polk county boys, if they were exhibited, did not figure in the prize money. Neither did Polk county Shorthorn, hereof of Guernsey cattle.

In the sheep pens were a number of woolled creatures from Polk county, and since it seems impossible for the county of the county's representatives to get away without a trunk load of prizes, the following class prizes were awarded: First, O. A. C. 184, Wm. Riddell & Sons, Monmouth; third, Baron Duke 88th, P. A. Foster, Richland; Ram, 1 Duke 127, P. A. Koser; fifth, Riddell's 1878, William Riddell & Sons; Ram lamb, under one year--Second, Ram Duke 140, P. A. Koser; third, Baron Duke 145, P. A. Koser; fourth, Riddell's 1318, William Riddell & Sons; fifth, Riddell's 1317, William Riddell; Ewe, 2 years old or over--First, Duchess 109, P. A. Koser; second, Sons, 1698, William Riddell; fifth, Duchess 11th, P. A. Koser; Ewe, 1 year and under 2--First, Duchess 159, P. A. Koser; third, Riddell's 1878, William Riddell; fifth, Riddell's 187, William Riddell; Ewe lamb under 1 year--Second, Duchess 151, P. A. Koser; third, Duchess 148, P. A. Koser; fifth, Riddell's 1315, William Riddell.

Yuan Agrees to Take Throne In One Year; What Will Japan Do?

Peking, Dec. 13.--Yuan Shi Kai, president, has agreed to become the emperor of China. He announced his acceptance to the council of state. His coronation will be postponed for perhaps a year and in the meantime he will continue as president of the republic, with virtual imperial powers.

With the announcement that Yuan Shi Kai had accepted the change came the gravest fears tonight of trouble with Japan. It is feared that while the powers which might check Japan's ambitions are engaged as they now are the Nipponese will begin an aggressive campaign to dominate China.

Japan May Interfere. The fact that the mikado's government protested a month ago against the suggestion that China be changed from a republic to a monarchy is looked upon as one indication that she will interfere. Many statesmen believe Japan well knew at that time an empire was inevitable and made its protest with the idea of having an excuse for a subsequent interference with Chinese affairs.

The new emperor has taken cognizance of this situation in announcing he will not be crowned for a year. In announcing his acceptance it is thought he has created the impression in the minds of most Chinese that he has taken on regal authority.

Could Not Compel Son to Join Navy

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 13.--Is there a law in this land of the free that will permit a worn-out father to force his minor son into the United States Marine corps against the son's will?

Otis Tinsdale, of Parkview, says there is, and Sergeant Ansell M. Stowe, in charge of the local United States Marine corps recruiting station is equally positive that there is nothing on the statute books covering a case of that sort.

Tinsdale literally dragged his 19-year-old son to the Milwaukee recruiting station and demanded that the boy be enlisted. But the young Tinsdale tearfully protested at what he seemed to think was a "high-handed outrage" and in Sergeant Stowe he found a sympathetic friend.

"I can't enlist the boy unless he is willing to join," Stowe told the father.

"What's the boy got to do with it anyway? I'm his father and if I say he's got to enlist you've got to take him and that's all there is of it. He's a worthless hound on the farm and I want you to take him and make a man of him," the elder Tinsdale hotly replied.

But Sergeant Stowe refused to enlist the boy, and Otis Tinsdale left the recruiting office, vowing to return when he had consulted his attorney.

THE MARKETS

The market is stagnant, with no changes today from those of last week. It is any man's guess as to what quotations within the next month, as even the millers who have been in touch with the wheat market here for 20 years hardly have an opinion on the market.

Several grocers expressed the opinion today that before the end of the week country butter would be selling for 25 cents and eggs several cents lower, as the pullets are now bringing up the total output of the egg market, and an over supply of storage eggs still on hand.

No changes are noted in grains and will feed stuffs.
