Camping With Serbians
In Vicinity of Monastir

By William G. Shepherd.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
(Monastir, Serbia, Dec. 1.—(By mail.) Two soldiers per their shoulders to the Monastir, and gave us a push which kept us going fifteen minutes. Colonel Vassich, who controls all the troops defending Monastir, kept his eyes peeled to every sight along the road. He looked at every small bridge. I remarked that his glance rested always on the railing and when I followed his gaze at the next bridge I saw a wire of straw tied to the bridge rail with a fuse running from it down over the side to the stone pier. Yet, the bridges on the Perlepe road are ready. One match touched to that straw will set the fuse sputtering and within a moment or two the masonry and steel that workmen have spent weary months putting in place will be blown into fragments of stone and a litter of twisted beams. Then the Bulgars will be to swim and that will be that much more time granted to the folk in Monastir to get away. You wonder how much taxes the people of Monastir have paid to build these bridges. But never mind. This quiet and half ill-Servian general has decided that they must go up with dynamite when the Bulgars come. And up they'll go. It is the only way, in war.

Here's a group of tents on one side of the road. It's a Red Cross camp manned by Serbian soldiers. Before it half a dozen big huskies stand at attention, saluting the commander in his auto. There's a man on horseback with them. He carries a white flag with a Red Cross on it. Resting over his shoulder and under his arm is a Plymouth Rock hen, alive and angry. She's part of the chicken diet which is the only luxury a sick Serbian soldier can expect.

In the tents, lying on straw, some of them with their feet sticking out, are the "casualties." None is undressed. Some of them will recover in time and will go again up to the wet trenches to wait the Bulgarian onslaught. Others will be put in springless wagons and be rattled over the stone roads to Monastir, where in the army hospital that has only enough blankets to give each man one, and no wood of any kind, they will fight for their lives, depending on nature and their physical strength rather than on anything the few doctors can do for them.

The Plymouth Rock hen gives an extra loud cackle of rage and nearly flaps herself loose. The horse is frightened and snies to one side and the Red Cross man, his hands full of chicken,

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health Is Worth Saving, and Some Salem People Know How to Save It.

Many Salem people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Salem citizen's recommendation:

W. C. Johnston, gardener, 1021 Mill street, Salem, says: "After several medicines had failed to help me, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and got great relief from kidney and bladder trouble. I still use Doan's Kidney Pills once in a while when a cold settles in my back and kidneys and the kidney secretions become disordered. I always get quick relief. You may continue publishing the endorsement I have given Doan's Kidney Pills before."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Johnston had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Post graduate and specialized in nerve diseases at Los Angeles college. Treat acute and chronic diseases. Consultation free. Lady attendant. Office 505-506 U. S. National Bank Building. Phone 859. Residence 245 North Capitol street. Phone 369.

flag and reins, barely keeps his seat. Col. Vassich smiles as the auto is again pushed into motion by three soldiers. Some miles on is a hillside where a thousand Serbs are encamped. Their tents are small, like children's playthings. A six year old boy could not stand up in one of them without bending his head. Little mules, scrawny ponies, poorly dressed Serbs who are not soldiers but who carry food for their soldiers on the tiny pack animals, smoking fires, blackened pots, clothes hanging out to dry; muddy shoes, muddy coats, muddy pants, muddy hands, muddy faces, smiles, white teeth, towed hair, shaved faces, angry faces, smells of things to eat, smells of things that almost turn you; fresh hides of goats newly killed and cooked; (the Serbian soldiers hold all championships for speed in catching a goat, cutting its throat, skinning it, shopping it in pots of boiling water and eating it); sounds of laughter and song—all these sights and sounds and smells are Serbian, Balkan.

These men are in the field; a signal from behind the hill where the advance Serbian trenches face the Bulgarian line will take them into battle. It isn't like the French or British fronts or the German fronts, where men have lived for fifteen months and have made their homes in the earth. Theirs is motion and movement in Balkan fighting. The other fellow's trenches and his camp itself, perhaps, will be yours tomorrow. If you are his, you'll be dead. So why waste any time making your camp perfect?

The Bulgars are only six miles away along this winding, stone paved road. Four soldiers instead of three give the automobile a push this time and off we start toward the front trenches. The car runs beautifully after it is started, but it will not commence under gasoline power; it insists on three or four-soldier power pressure in addition to that.

BLUESTONE IS HIGHER

Portland, Ore., Jan. 7.—The price of bluestone, which is a product of cutter, jumped 4½ cents today. Its normal price is six cents a pound and it fluctuates never more than an eighth of a cent. The war price of copper is said to be the reason for the sudden rise. Northwest farmers use great quantities of bluestone to stop diseases in growing grain.

Still No Light On Persia Torpedoing

Agreement With Berlin.
Washington, Jan. 7.—The diplomatic negotiations over torpedoing of the liner Lusitania, with heavy loss to American life, may be settled at any hour. The only outstanding difference is the matter of phrasing of the final agreement. German Ambassador Von Bernstorff was slated to confer with Secretary Lansing shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Whether the ambassador was prepared to make the concessions in phrasing that Secretary Lansing will require, or vice versa, was not known.

The state department regards settlement of the Lusitania issue as vital at this time, for with the Arabic case already settled, followed by the Lusitania settlement, it would leave practically no controversy between America and Germany.

Bernstorff Visits Lansing.
Washington, Jan. 7.—German Ambassador Von Bernstorff presented to Secretary Lansing today a written statement of Germany's attitude toward submarine warfare.

Bernstorff, after a fifteen minute conference with Lansing, said that he might confer with him "once more." It was believed that their difficulties were disposed of.

THE MARKETS

There is a general upward tendency in the market. Onions are now quoted at $1.50, an advance of 25 cents over yesterday, and potatoes have climbed to the $1 mark. Eastern buyers are after the onions, and California is after the potatoes. Then the cold weather has had something to do with the higher prices of potatoes as farmers are not bringing them in, many refusing to open their pits with the cold weather prevailing.

Club wheat is quoted at 98 cents in Portland, but this is for strictly high grade milling wheat, sacked. Valley quotations are for wheat not sacked, and not of the fancy milling quality.

Wheat in this valley is mixed with vetch, and this takes off about four cents a bushel. Strictly fancy milling wheat would bring 86 cents net, but there is little wheat that would grade strictly milling on account of the vetch. With the freight and sack charges, for strictly milling wheat there is about 10 cents difference between Salem and Portland prices.
